Both Israelis, Syrians Claiming Air Victories

By The Associated Press

Israel and Syria slugged each other on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Tel Aviv claimed that an Israeli armored force seized Syrian military positions on the central sector of the 50-mile frontier.

Syria claimed that it downed six Israeli jets in the swirling conflict. The Israelis claimed two Syrian MIG21s. Tel Aviv admitted the loss of one jet and said the pilot parachuted into Syrian territory.

Armor In Action

It marked the first time since the 1967 Middle East war that Israeli armor has been reported moving onto Syrian soil. The positions attacked faced Rafid on the Golan Heights.

A communique issued by the military command in Tel Aviv said that the Israeli force "supported by artillery and aircraft attacked and seized control of enemy positions at noon today."

Israeli jets attacked Syrian army camps near Damascus for the second day in succession, and large-scale dogfights raged through the Syrian skies. Then Syria announced that Israeli tanks had crossed the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

Violent Fighting

"Violent fighting along the frontline is still continuing," said Damascus Radio shortly after noon. "The enemy is throwing his armored units against our positions, and our forces are engaging them."

A shell tore a three-foot hole in the wing of an Italian DC8 jetliner as it flew 31,000 feet over Damascus, but the plane made a safe landing in Beirut and none of the 104 persons aboard was hurt. The hit punctured a fuel tank containing more than 10 tons of aviation kerosene and knocked out the two port engines. Members of the crew said it was a "miracle" they were able to reach the Lebanese capital.

U.S. Plan Rejected

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser meanwhile rejected the new U.S. plan for Middle East peace, charging it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

The Israeli government called home its ambassador from Washington to discuss the American proposal, but the semiofficial Jerusalem newspaper Davar called it "a bad plan which can lead not to a permanent settlement but to an immediate conflagration."

40 MIGs In Battle

Syria said 40 of its MIGs rose to battle the Israeli air force, the largest number of interceptors the Syrians have admitted sending up in a single engagement since the 1967 war.

The communique said the Syrian pilots had shot down five planes, while antiaircraft fire from the ground brought down a sixth. It said two of the planes crashed in Syrian territory, their pilots were captured, and one of them was being treated for injuries.

The communique added that no Syrian planes had been hit.

Hospital Bill Veto Chances Bright: Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are optimistic about chances of overriding President Nixon's veto of the popular Hill-Burton hospital aid bill now that the House has repassed the measure by a big margin.

If the Senate also musters the needed two-thirds margin it would be the first time Congress has enacted legislation over a Nixon veto.

Congress was unable to prevail on the only other bill disallowed by Nixon, a Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill the President vetoed as inflationary.

In Thursday's House test, 68 Republicans joined 211 Democrats in voting to override the Hill-Burton veto. The President was supported by 95 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The 279-98 tally gave the bill's supporters 27 votes more than the necessary two-thirds.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told a newsman, "I think we'll have a rough time" trying to sustain the veto in the Senate.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said flatly he would vote to override because "the need for hospital modernization is so great."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the vote will come next Tuesday afternoon.

President Pitzer Of Stanford U. Quits, Raps War

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Kenneth S. Pitzer has resigned as president of Stanford University, blaming campus turmoil centering on the war in Southeast Asia.

Pitzer said Thursday that when he took over a year and a half ago "I did so with the expectation that significant progress could be made in healing some of the deep divisions which beset our country, especially over Vietnam. Instead, these divisions have deepened."

His resignation is effective Aug. 31.

W. Parmer Fuller III, president of the Stanford Board of Trustees, said an acting president would be appointed "in the near future."

Kompong Speu Under Heavy Enemy Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops launched a new attack on Kompong Speu early today. They also imperiled an important supply depot at Long Vek, 20 miles north of Phnom Penh, and for the first time threatened Oudong, site of ancient Buddhist monasteries and tombs 20 miles northwest of the capital.

Pressure Continues

The attacks marked a continuance of the pressure which Cambodian military officials say has Phnom Penh as the ultimate objective.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command in Saigon announced that a U.S. Navy escort plane attacked gun positions deep inside North Vietnam Thursday after the guns fired on a reconnaissance aircraft the Navy plane was escorting.

No U.S. Planes Hit

The attack 15 miles northwest of the coastal city of Vinh and about 155 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone was the first such reported since May 25.

"'There was no damage to U.S. aircraft," the command said. It gave no assessment of damage to the North Vietnamese positions.

Since the U.S. bombing halt over North Vietnam on Nov. 1, 1968, U.S. planes have continued to fly reconnaissance missions over the North with armed escorts. The Pentagon said in May American planes had been fired upon and had returned fire more than 60 times, and nine planes have been reported shot down.

Barracks Attacked

The Cambodian military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked barracks and a provincial military headquarters at 2 a.m. today at Kompong Speu, a provincial capital 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. Government and South Vietnamese forces recaptured the city in a major battle 10 days ago.

Kompong Speu is on the only highway open between Phnom Penh and Kompong Som, Cambodia's chief port and the site of its only oil refinery. The spokesman said the road was still open to small cars but not to the big fuel trucks that bring oil and gas to the capital.

Home Rammed By Plane; Four Persons Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An engine failure sent a Navy jet trainer plane crashing into two houses in a residential area Thursday night and caused four deaths—two in the plane and two on the ground—officials said.

About a dozen other persons were injured and four stayed in hospitals overnight.

Navy officials said the F9 Cougar jet was making a practice instrument approach to Kelly Air Force Base when it lost power and nosedived two miles north of the runway. It hit in Southwest 41st Street on the city's West Side and tumbled onto two homes on Luz Avenue, burning both.

Two men aboard the plane were identified by the Navy as Lt. (j.g.) Wesley B. Duerr, 26, an instructor, of Camp Springs, Md., and Lt. (j.g.) John B. Weller, 25, a student pilot, of Convent, N.J. They were based at Chase Field, a naval auxiliary air station at Beeville, Tex.

The other dead were Saul Martinez, 44, and his son Eduardo, 23, newly returned from fighting in Vietnam.

Bodies of the fliers were found in the street and those of Martinez and his son in their home.

Police said discovery of a body of a cat in a burned car apparently led to a false report that a fifth person had been killed.

Mark Latson, 12, dashed from his home with clothing in flames moments after the plane struck. Hospital attendants described his condition as grave.

Most of the injured suffered burns while fighting the fire, officers said, and were dismissed after emergency treatment.

Jury Indicts 2 In Hijacking Of Ocean Ship

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Merchant Sailors on charges of mutiny on the high seas and kidnaping in connection with the hijacking of the munitions ship Columbia Eagle last March 14.

The ship, laden with napalm bombs and other munitions, was en route to Vietnam when the men brandished guns and forced it to be taken to Cambodia, U.S Atty. Robert L. Meyer said.

The indictments issued Thursday named Alvin Leonard Glatkowski, 20, a bedroom steward of Long Beach, Calif., and Clyde William McKay Jr., 26 a fireman water tender of Escondido, Calif. Both men are believed to be in Cambodia where they sought political refuge, Meyer said.

An interview with the men published in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh shortly after the incident quoted them as saying they seized the ship to protest the Vietnam war.

Five days after the ship, owned by the Columbia Steamship Co. reached Cambodia, it was permitted to sail on for Vietnam. The 36 other crew members were not harmed in the incident, although 24 jumped overboard and were picked up in lifeboats, authorities said.

Meyer said copies of the indictments would be forwarded to Cambodian authorities with a request that the defendants be returned for trial.

Courts Hold Key To Saving Time, Parochiaid Vote

LANSING (AP) — The courts hold the key to whether two of the hottest issues around—Daylight Saving Time and parochiaid—appear on the Michigan election ballot this November.

Fasttime backers received a big boost when the State Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that Secretary of State James Hare should accept their petitions.

Under the law, if the Legislature does not act on the daylight time issue it goes on the ballot. The Legislature has not acted and the session is heading for a recess by the end of next week.

Claim Law Unreasonable

The Wolverine Golf Club and Joseph Comeau argued before the appeals court earlier this month that the present petition-filing law is unreasonable. It specified such petitions must be filed 10 days before the start of the legislative session.

The appeals court agreed.

The controlling opinion was written by Chief Judge T. John Lesinski, who said the provision "constitutes an unnecessary and and, therefore, unreasonable restraint on the constitutional right of the people to initiative. The statute is, therefore, unconstitutional."

A spokesman for the State Elections Division cautioned, however, that opponents of Daylight Saving Time are likely to appeal this decision to the State Supreme Court.

"They've been watching this thing very closely," the spokesman said.

Opponents include farmers an operators of theaters and drive-in movies.

The council against parochiaid also made its move Thursday—filing petitions bearing 319,317 signatures with the Elections Division in an attempt to place this issue on the ballot.

Votes May Decide

If the petitioners are accepted, the voters would decide if the state should provide financial aid to nonpublic schools.

However, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley already has ruled that the form of the petitions circulated by the council, mostly through the Michigan Education Association, were faulty in that they failed to include the language of the constitutional provision they seek to change.

Leaders of this petition drive said they would ask the State Appeals Court to order the is-

New Cambodia Amendment Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, having agreed to end the long debate over Cambodia, are maneuvering to blunt one of the most potent weapons left to administration critics.

Sen. Gordon Allott, a Colorado Republican and staunch defender of Nixon Vietnam policy, unexpectedly introduced a measure Wednesday to bar funds for fighting in Southeast Asia except when necessary to protect U.S. troop withdrawals or when war has been officially declared.

An identical proposal, known as "The Amendment to End the War," was introduced originally by two of the Senate's most vocal doves-Democrat George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Mark O. Hatfield, R—Ore.

Their plan called for bringing up the amendment later in the session as a rider to a defense procurement appropriations bill in another effort at a full-scale debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy.

But Allott introduced his proposal as an amendment to the foreign military sales measure that has been the vehicle for the current debate on the U.S. role in Cambodia.

Under the agreement reached Thursday to wrap up the seven week Cambodia talkathon, Allott's amendment will be voted on Monday. This eliminates the possibility of the extended debate the Democrats wanted, and Allott says his measure will be defeated.

The motives behind Allott's amendment drew expressions of outrage from the sponsors of the original proposal. "Members are offended by these tactics," McGovern said after Allott introduced his amendment.

VP Faces Busy Fall Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he has no plans for campaign speeches this fall. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has lots of them.

His office says the vice president's calendar for September and October, when the congressional and senatorial contests are in full sway, is rapidly filling with speaking dates.

Anyone who has followed the popularity polls can see why Agnew's help is much sought after in this election year with 435 seats in the House and 35 in the Senate at stake.

Nixon told newsmen in Belleville, Ill., Thursday he feels he can best serve Republican candidates by making "as good a record as possible in Washington."

Any presidential involvement in the campaign, he said, will depend on international developments. "I have no plans for any speeches in October," he said.

Agnew's office says "an intensive campaign schedule is being arranged for most of those two months."

It is working in close cooperation with the Republican National Committee, and the campaign committees in the House and Senate.

The vice president proved to be a bigger drawing card than anyone thought in the spring and early summer when he criss-crossed the country, speaking at fund-raising affairs and throwing his most controversial jabs.

SALT Conference Lacks Surprises

VIENA, Austria (AP) — The 20th session of American and Soviet negotiators at the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) at the U.S. Embassy here today was officially described as "business as usual" without presentation of a formal proposal by the Americans.

The session was attended again by the top American negotiator, Gerard Smith, who flew to Washington earlier in the week and was received by President Nixon.

Smith was unofficially reported to have returned to Vienna with a specific U.S. proposal for cutting back the United States-Soviet rocket race.

An official conference source said, however, that Smith came back with no new instructions and that there had been only a "casual reference" to his trip to Washington in the informal part of today's session.

Bring U.S. Together, Nixon Speech Theme

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, returning to the theme of his inaugural address, says it's time to "bring Americans together" instead of "having America torn apart."

This was his appeal to a wildly enthusiastic crowd in St. Louis Thursday as he stopped off en route to his seaside villa here.

Normally a reserved, even remote man, Nixon kept expressing himself during the westward journey in an off-the-cuff style that produced something new at each stop. Some examples:

—While appealing in St. Louis for national unity, racial harmony and a closing of the generation gap, he declared that although some "believe the nation is coming apart at the seams," more should be heard about "what is right about America." He spoke without text or notes.

—To a handful of newsmen at Scott Air Force Base at Belleville, Ill., he went out of his way to reveal that he plans no 1970 campaign speeches, at least for the foreseeable future, and believes he can do best for Republican candidates by making a good record in Washington.

—Handshaking well - wishers at a Marine air base near here, he disclosed he will make a "final report" Tuesday on the entry of U.S. ground forces in Cambodia. The exact format of the report has not been determined.

—At the same stop, Nixon announced he will appear live on the three major television networks for an hour Wednesday, at 10 p.m. EDT, to answer foreign affairs questions posed by network newsmen John Chancellor of NBC, Eric Severeid of CBS and Howard K. Smith of ABC.

Bernadette Gets Term In Prison; Appeal Rejected

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Belfast Appeal Court ruled today that Bernadette Devlin must go to prison.

A warrant for her arrest was to be issued later today.

The court rejected an application from Miss Devlin, the youngest member of the British House of Commons, to appeal to the House of Lords against a six-month sentence given her for incitement to riot and rioting. The House of Lords is Britain's highest court.

The 23-year-old Roman Catholic militant was first sentenced in Londonderry last Dec. 22 for her activities during street fighting last fall.

On Monday, Northern Ireland's lord chief justice, Lord McDermott, rejected her appeal against the sentence. Her defense lawyer then applied for permission to take the appeal to the Lords in London, and this was turned down today.

Mike Mansfield Cited By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the object of their affections out of sight but not out of mind, the Senate has paid a wordy tribute to Mike Mansfield, known for limiting his remarks to "Yep," "Nope," and "Maybe."

The occasion Thursday was to honor the Montana Democrat for serving as majority leader of the Senate longer than anyone before him—nine years and 173 days.

That put him nine days up on his nearest rival, Kentucky Democrat Alben Barkley, who held the longevity record until he became vice president in 1949 under Harry S. Truman.

Taking time out from debate on the U.S. involvement in Cambodia, senators of both parties took the floor for more than two hours in their praise for Mansfield, whose own speeches are notable for being terse and to the point.

$4.75 Billion Education Measure Gets Senate OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $4.75 billion education money bill that is nearly $800 million more than President Nixon requested but includes the initial funds wanted by the White House for aiding desegregating schools.

The bill was passed 74 to 4 early today, capping a long session that didn't end until after midnight in the second half of a two-session day designed to clear a work load backed up by the debate over Cambodia.

Amendment Tacked On

The final approval came after the Senate passed 70 to 18 an amendment to provide $150 million as the first installment of the $1.5 billion Nixon wants to help Southern school districts in their desegregation efforts.

Inclusion of the $150 million made the possibility of a Nixon veto uncertain. He rejected a similar bill earlier this year because the appropriation was more than he asked, and some Republicans had warned against a veto this time if the total went far above Nixon's request.

But because a share of the coverage is due to the $150 million and because Nixon has expressed strong desire for the aid money, it is hoped he will sign the measure.

House Bill Smaller

The House last April passed its version of the spending bill, which totaled $4.13 billion. The two versions now go to conference where it appears the Senate total likely will be trimmed.

Earlier Thursday two recently districts had told the House they need the emergency federal money to help improve conditions whites ignored when only black children were involved.

The Dade County School Board in Miami, Fla., increased its budget for police and guards from $350,000 to a projected $1.2 million in one year after whites learned of lunch-money shakedowns in once all-black schools.

And in Houston, Texas, whites are demanding that dilapidated schools once attended only by blacks be fixed up now that white children will be attending them.

Dade's chairman, Holmes Braddock, told the House Education Committee Thursday of the Miami situation.

"These extortions and shakedowns are problems that always existed, especially black child against black, but unfortunately the whites never cared, until now they are aware of them for the first time," he said.

George Oser, secretary of the trustees of the Houston school board, said parents by the thousands objected when the newly elected board revealed a minority-majority transfer plan which in most cases will send children to their nearest school.

Israel and Syria slugged each other on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Tel Aviv claimed that an Israeli armored force seized Syrian military positions on the central sector of the 50-mile frontier.

Syria claimed that it downed six Israeli jets in the swirling conflict. The Israelis claimed two Syrian MIG21s. Tel Aviv admitted the loss of one jet and said the pilot parachuted into Syrian territory.

Armor In Action

It marked the first time since the 1967 Middle East war that Israeli armor has been reported moving onto Syrian soil. The positions attacked faced Rafid on the Golan Heights.

A communique issued by the military command in Tel Aviv said that the Israeli force "supported by artillery and aircraft attacked and seized control of enemy positions at noon today."

Israeli jets attacked Syrian army camps near Damascus for the second day in succession, and large-scale dogfights raged through the Syrian skies. Then Syria announced that Israeli tanks had crossed the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

Violent Fighting

"Violent fighting along the frontline is still continuing," said Damascus Radio shortly after noon. "The enemy is throwing his armored units against our positions, and our forces are engaging them."

A shell tore a three-foot hole in the wing of an Italian DC8 jetliner as it flew 31,000 feet over Damascus, but the plane made a safe landing in Beirut and none of the 104 persons aboard was hurt. The hit punctured a fuel tank containing more than 10 tons of aviation kerosene and knocked out the two port engines. Members of the crew said it was a "miracle" they were able to reach the Lebanese capital.

U.S. Plan Rejected

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser meanwhile rejected the new U.S. plan for Middle East peace, charging it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

The Israeli government called home its ambassador from Washington to discuss the American proposal, but the semiofficial Jerusalem newspaper Davar called it "a bad plan which can lead not to a permanent settlement but to an immediate conflagration."

40 MIGs In Battle

Syria said 40 of its MIGs rose to battle the Israeli air force, the largest number of interceptors the Syrians have admitted sending up in a single engagement since the 1967 war.

The communique said the Syrian pilots had shot down five planes, while antiaircraft fire from the ground brought down a sixth. It said two of the planes crashed in Syrian territory, their pilots were captured, and one of them was being treated for injuries.

The communique added that no Syrian planes had been hit.

Courts Hold Key To Saving Time, Parochiaid Vote

LANSING (AP) — The courts hold the key to whether two of the hottest issues around—Daylight Saving Time and parochiaid—appear on the Michigan election ballot this November.

Fasttime backers received a big boost when the State Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that Secretary of State James Hare should accept their petitions.

Under the law, if the Legislature does not act on the daylight time issue it goes on the ballot. The Legislature has not acted and the session is heading for a recess by the end of next week.

Claim Law Unreasonable

The Wolverine Golf Club and Joseph Comeau argued before the appeals court earlier this month that the present petition-filing law is unreasonable. It specified such petitions must be filed 10 days before the start of the legislative session.

The appeals court agreed.

The controlling opinion was written by Chief Judge T. John Lesinski, who said the provision "constitutes an unnecessary and, and therefore, unreasonable restraint on the constitutional right of the people to initiative. The statute is, therefore, unconstitutional."

A spokesman for the State Elections Division cautioned, however, that opponents of Daylight Saving Time are likely to appeal this decision to the State Supreme Court.

"They've been watching this thing very closely," the spokesman said.

Opponents include farmers an operators of theaters and drive-in movies.

The council against parochiaid also made its move Thursday—filing petitions bearing 319,-317 signatures with the Elections Division in an attempt to place this issue on the ballot.

Votes May Decide

If the petitioners are accepted, the voters would decide if the state should provide financial aid to nonpublic schools.

However, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley already has ruled that the form of the petitions circulated by the council, mostly through the Michigan Education Association, were faulty in that they failed to include the language of the constitutional provision they seek to change.

Leaders of this petition drive said they would ask the State Appeals Court to order the issue on the ballot.

$4.75 Billion Education Measure Gets Senate OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $4.75 billion education money bill that is nearly $800 million more than President Nixon requested but includes the initial funds wanted by the White House for aiding desegregating schools.

The bill was passed 74 to 4 early today, capping a long session that didn't end until after midnight in the second half of a two-session day designed to clear a work load backed up by the debate over Cambodia.

Amendment Tacked On

The final approval came after the Senate passed 70 to 18 an amendment to provide $150 million as the first installment of the $1.5 billion Nixon wants to help Southern school districts in their desegregation efforts.

Inclusion of the $150 million made the possibility of a Nixon veto uncertain. He rejected a similar bill earlier this year because the appropriation was more than he asked, and some Republicans had warned against a veto this time if the total went far above Nixon's request.

But because a share of the coverage is due to the $150 million and because Nixon has expressed strong desire for the aid money, it is hoped he will sign the measure.

House Bill Smaller

The House last April passed its version of the spending bill, which totaled $4.13 billion. The two versions now go to conference where it appears the Senate total likely will be trimmed.

Earlier Thursday two recently districts had told the House they need the emergency federal money to help improve conditions whites ignored when only black children were involved.

The Dade County School Board in Miami, Fla., increased its budget for police and guards from $350,000 to a projected $1.2 million in one year after whites learned of lunch-money shakedowns in once all-black schools.

And in Houston, Texas, whites are demanding that dilapidated schools once attended only by blacks be fixed up now that white children will be attending them.

Dade's chairman, Holmes Braddock, told the House Education Committee Thursday of the Miami situation.

"These extortions and shakedowns are problems that always existed, especially black child against black, but unfortunately the whites never cared, until now they are aware of them for the first time," he said.

George Oser, secretary of the trustees of the Houston school board, said parents by the thousands objected when the newly elected board revealed a minority-majority transfer plan which in most cases will send children to their nearest school.

VP Faces Busy Fall Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he has no plans for campaign speeches this fall.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has lots of them.

His office says the vice president's calendar for September and October, when the congressional and senatorial contests are in full sway, is rapidly filling with speaking dates.

Anyone who has followed the popularity polls can see why Agnew's help is much sought after in this election year with 435 seats in the House and 35 in the Senate at stake.

Nixon told newsmen in Belleville, Ill., Thursday he feels he can best serve Republican candidates by making "as good a record as possible in Washington."

Any presidential involvement in the campaign, he said, will depend on international developments. "I have no plans for any speeches in October," he said.

Agnew's office says "an intensive campaign schedule is being arranged for most of those two months."

It is working in close cooperation with the Republican National Committee, and the campaign committees in the House and Senate.

The vice president proved to be a bigger drawing card than anyone thought in the spring and early summer when he criss-crossed the country, speaking at fund-raising affairs and throwing his most controversial jabs.

New Cambodia Amendment Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, having agreed to end the long debate over Cambodia, are maneuvering to blunt one of the most potent weapons left to administration critics.

Sen. Gordon Allott, a Colorado Republican and staunch defender of Nixon Vietnam policy, unexpectedly introduced a measure Wednesday to bar funds for fighting in Southeast Asia except when necessary to protect U.S. troop withdrawals or when war has been officially declared.

An identical proposal, known as "The Amendment to End the War," was introduced originally by two of the Senate's most vocal doves-Democrat George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Mark O. Hatfield, R—Ore.

Their plan called for bringing up the amendment later in the session as a rider to a defense procurement appropriations bill in another effort at a full-scale debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy.

But Allott introduced his proposal as an amendment to the foreign military sales measure that has been the vehicle for the current debate on the U.S. role in Cambodia.

Under the agreement reached Thursday to wrap up the seven week Cambodia talkathon, Allott's amendment will be voted on Monday. This eliminates the possibility of the extended debate the Democrats wanted, and Allott says his measure will be defeated.

The motives behind Allott's amendment drew expressions of outrage from the sponsors of the original proposal. "Members are offended by these tactics," McGovern said after Allott introduced his amendment.

SALT Conference Lacks Surprises

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The 20th session of American and Soviet negotiators at the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) at the U.S. Embassy here today was officially described as "business as usual" without presentation of a formal proposal by the Americans.

The session was attended again by the top American negotiator, Gerard Smith, who flew to Washington earlier in the week and was received by President Nixon.

Smith was unofficially reported to have returned to Vienna with a specific U.S. proposal for cutting back the United States-Soviet rocket race.

It was said, however, that Smith came back with no new instructions and that there had been only a "casual reference" to his trip to Washington in the informal part of today's session.

Grant Received

ADRIAN (AP) — Adrian College has received a $35,000 grant from the McGregor Fund of Detroit to help pay for an experimental psychology laboratory. The laboratory will be part of a new $1,321,000 North Hall classroom facility scheduled for completion in June, 1971.

Citizens' Council Cites School Needs For 1970-80

Eight recommendations have been submitted to the Escanaba Area Board of Education by the Citizens' Advisory Council at the conclusion of its three-month study of the district growth problems.

The council, which was formed in March by the board to make a long-range study of the district's building needs in the next ten years, was headed by David Rivard, while Don Wertz and Rev. Eugene Eslinger were enrollment co-chairmen, Carl Anderson was the finance chairman and Leonard Ford was the facilities chairman.

Council chairmen, meeting with the Board of Education on Wednesday, stated the general problem as "an average growth of about 89 students per year in the past and growth, at this same rate, which would continue in the future."

Lacking Space

"This is the same as about three extra classrooms we need each year," said Rev. Eslinger, "and our last building was done in the district in 1967. So we are really behind or lacking space today and will lack more in the future."

Specific recommendations made by the council were:

1. Soo Hill - presently overcrowded. Basement rooms in the old buildings are in use now and the fifth grade class must be bused to the old Jefferson School. The school needs three or four rooms for the fall of 1970 and the use of mobile classrooms (4) at Soo Hill could relieve this situation on a temporary basis.

2. That a permanent school building of eight classrooms be built at Soo Hill or in the Danforth area, the site to be determined by attendance, land availability, transportation and operation considerations. (Enrollment in the Soo Hill area by 1975 is expected to be about 400, with two new residential subdivisions under development there now.)

Lunchroom Unsuited

3. Wells School - presently overcrowded. A former lunchroom, totally unsuited as a classroom, is in use and the fifth grade must be bused to the old Jefferson School in Escanaba. Residential building in the area continues, as will the number of students attending this school. The use of four mobile classrooms was also recommended.

4. That four permanent classrooms be added to the Wells School as soon as possible.

5. The construction of a multi-purpose room at Ford River and, when necessary, remodeling of the existing multi-purpose room into classrooms. No growth problems are seen at this time at this school, but existing multi-purpose room is too small.

6. Franklin - Lemmer - Jefferson area. Each of these schools is operating at capacity. Franklin is over capacity, with a fifth grade class and part of a third grade class attending the old Jefferson School. Lemmer has eight classrooms with over 30 pupils each and site space is limited at Franklin. An addition is not in the best interests of the children there, as it would take the existing playground area. Lemmer has an enrollment this year of 529 children, which is probably as large as an elementary school should be.

Increasing Enrollments

Most of the in-city building is on the south and east sides, so these schools can expect increasing enrollments. The area west of M-35 already has many new homes and 60 residential lots are planned as well as many apartment complexes.

For these reasons, the council recommended consideration of construction of a new school west of the highway on property already in school ownership behind the high school. This was suggested for the 1975-80 period. (This will relieve the Franklin School.)

7. The financial ability of the district seems to indicate it can support a building program. The State Equalized Valuation of the district has increased about $29 million in the past 10 years and while it is recognized that this size increase will not be steady (Mead expansion accounted for about $13 million), the district is not becoming poorer in SEV either.

However, the council recommended serious consideration of the establishment of a millage to provide a building and site fund for the future to do away with some of the interest charges presently being paid.

Six Rooms Short

8. At the present time, the district is six classrooms short, a situation that will continue to increase at about three classrooms per year. For this reason, it was recommended that a building program be started immediately.

Estimated cost of the program is: four temporary classrooms at Wells, $68,000; four temporary classrooms at Soo Hill, $68,000; an eight room school at Soo Hill or Danforth, $300,000; multi-purpose room at Ford River, $50,000 and four room addition at Wells, $150,000. The total building program amounts to $500,000.

Temporary classrooms are on a lease basis and as such can be paid for from operation monies. They can be sold when permanent classrooms are ready or kept and used at other sites in the district as needed.

The program can be financed by a 2-mill levy at $76,000 per mill for four years, which will pay for the proposed building program and leave $100,000 in a building and site fund for the future.

Consider Tax

The finance committee also recommended the board consider a tax at the rate of one mill per year, on a continuing basis, after the proposed building fund to prevent the interest payments on future building costs.

The Citizens' Advisory Council also would like to remind the public that all of its recommendations to the Board of Education are recommendations only. They must be acted upon by the board and voted upon by the people of the school district.

Wertz cited steadily increasing enrollments at the high school. Although no recommendations were made by the council about this situation, the committee felt that some thought and planning must be given to the high school growth problems in the near future. The maximum capacity of the building is 1,500 and this past year's enrollment was 1,454. An average increase of 40 pupils has been noted at the high school for each of the past five years.

No special problems are seen in attendance areas at any of the other grade schools, nor at the Junior High School, where present facilities would seem to be adequate for the foreseeable future.

VISITING FORESTER — Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, right, a forester from Nepal, discusses plans for his tour of the Hiawatha National Forest with Ken Gherke, a forester with the U. S. Forest Service. Laxman has been working for his master's degree at Michigan State University since last September and he will return to Nepal in about a month to prepare a forest management plan for his country that will guide forest policy in Nepal for the coming year. (Daily Press Photo)

Nepal Forester Visiting Hiawatha National Forest

When people from foreign countries come to visit the United States, the forests are not on the top of their list of things to see, but for Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, a forester from Nepal, the forests are just what he is here to see.

Since last September, Laxman has been working for his masters' degree in forest management at Michigan State University in East Lansing and when he returns to Nepal in about a month, he will be preparing a forest management plan for his country that will guide the forest policy in Nepal in the coming years.

Nepal is a land-locked country of eight and one-half million people. It is about the size of Illinois and approximately 27 per cent of the country is forest, most of which contain hardwoods. The climate varies from tropical in the south to alpine in the north and the capital at Kathmandu enjoys a temperate climate with temperatures ranging from 83 degrees in the summer to 25 degrees in the winter.

Geographic Regions

Most of the country is rugged and mountainous, but there are three distinct geographic regions. A narrow strip of low-lying jungle and farm land, which is a continuation of India's Ganges Plain, is in the south; the more populous hill country, which includes fertile Kathmandu Valley, lies in the central region; and in the north, along the Tibetan border, are the snow-clad Himalayan peaks ranging from 16,000 to 29,000 feet. The most famous of these peaks are Mt. Everest (29,000 feet) and Annapurna (26,493 feet).

About 90 per cent of Nepal's population is directly dependent on agriculture for subsistence and income and outside of agriculture, there are only limited opportunities for employment.

Foreign trade s negligable, except with India, to which Nepal is linked by a railway, a road and airline service. There are extensive water, mineral and especially timber resources which are now being explored with an eye to development.

Planning Started

The Forest Inventory and Management Project has provided forest statistics and forest condition maps needed for general policy planning in the exploitation and management of Nepal's forests. Information collected in five intensive inventories of forest divisions is being used to prepare plans for management of those areas.

Laxman is the assistant to the forest officer in charge of the Forest Management Section of the Forest Inventory and Management Project. After receiving a bachelor's degree in Nepal, he graduated from a two-year course at the Forest Institute in Dehra Dun, India.

Laxman serves his country's forest department as an inventory specialist. He supervises the work crews and is involved with sampling the volume of timber and then working out a planned method of cutting it.

He began his visit to the Hiawatha National Forest on Monday of this week and will be leaving here on Tuesday. His visit here is to learn planning and management of the National Forests and the Phase I, Continuous Forest Inventory currently being implemented on the forest, will be his principal area of study.

Collect Data

In this program, multiple use inventory data is being collected in the field and stored in data processing banks. When needed by land managers for planning purposes, it can be readily retrieved. Since the data is continously updated, it will always be current.

Before going back to Nepal, Laxman will go to Milwaukee, where he will visit the regional office of the forest service and work on data processing. He is also scheduled to visit various forest service research areas in Wisconsin.

Laxman said that most of the forests in the Upper Peninsula are conifer trees, while in Nepal, they are mostly hardwoods. He also said that Nepal's forests are not as well planned as those here. Depending on the location, the forests in Nepal are much more dense where the population is low, but are misused in the regions of heavy population.

His visit to the United States is paid for through an arrangement between Nepal and the Agency for International Development of the United States.

Msgr. Pelissier Honored, To Make Home In Escanaba

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP)—The Right Rev. Msgr. A. C. Pelissier was honored Thursday night—the 50th anniversary of his ordination—at a testimonial dinner.

Among those paying tribute were Bishops Charles S. Salatka and Thomas L. Noa, both of Marquette, and Bishop Louis J. Reicher of Austin, Tex., a longtime friend of Msgr. Pelissier.

Msgr. Pelissier was pastor of St. Mary & Joseph Church near Iron Mountain for 27 years. Nine young men who entered the priesthood during that period celebrated the jubilee mass at Thursday night's dinner.

Msgr. Pelissier, a native of Munising, presently lives in retirement in Escanaba.

Traffic Safety On Lincoln Rd. To Be Discussed

Escanaba persons representative of institutions and public interested in improved safety at Lincoln Rd. and 5th Ave. S., will meet on Monday to discuss the problem.

Two persons have been fatally injured at that intersection so far this year.

City Manager George Harvey said Police Chief Richard Frederick has requested Paul Michelin of the State Highway Department safety division to attend.

Representatives of schools, nursing homes, churches and other facilities in the area are being notified of the meeting, the city manager reported. Members of the Escanaba Safety Committee will be advised of the session so they may express their views.

The intersection involves the state since S. Lincoln Rd. is the route of M-35. Should a traffic signal or other measure for safety be deemed advisable, the state would be required to approve.

Fish Inventory Begun By State In Bay Waters

The 60-foot Steelhead, fishery research vessel for the Department of Natural Resources, is back in Escanaba—the port where she was launched three years ago—to conduct an inventory of sport fish in area waters.

The Steelhead, skippered by Capt. Chester E. Belfy, came here from Charlevoix, her home port.

The all-steel vessel was constructed at Escanaba by the T. D. Vinette Co. and was launched on Dec. 21, 1967. She went into commission for the state in the spring of 1968.

The so-called "floating laboratory" of the DNR's fish division was in Escanaba on Thursday for the start of what is described as its "first major mission of the year."

Here Last Fall

The Steelhead and Patrol Boat 23, a smaller vessel which can get into shoal waters, are starting a five to six-week survey that includes gill netting and trawling on Green Bay and Big Bay de Noc.

"The purpose of this operation is to find out how many and what kinds of fish there are in those waters and where they are," said John MacGregor, regional fisheries biologist at Roscommon.

The last such "inventory" in these waters by the Steelhead was in October, 1969.

A 'First Step'

At that time the vessel was skippered by Capt. Walter J. "Bill" Palmer, who commanded the Steelhead from its commissioning to April this year, when he resigned.

Capt. Palmer is the author of "The Salmon Hunter" published by the Photo Offset printing of Escanaba. The book describes the operation of the vessel in its first two years of resarch and patrol work.

According to James A. O. Crowe, outdoor editor of the Detroit News, the survey of waters in the Delta County area is "a first step to finding out what can be done to restore spot fishing in the area."

Search For Salmon

Crowe reports the waters in this area were "once prime territory for sport fishing for walleyes," and adds: "In addition, both bays were top lake trout trolling waters."

"As a bonus, the netting may find unknown stocks of sport fish already available for sport fishermen. These may include undiscovered populations of salmon, lake trout and walleyes," Crowe writes.

After the Steelhead concludes its "survey" or "inventory" here, it will "start chasing salmon in either Lake Michigan or Lake Huron," according to Crowe.

That operation will be to locate schools of salmon and direct sport fishermen to areas where they "are almost certain of limit catches."

Citizens' Council Cites School Needs For 1970-80

Eight recommendations have been submitted to the Escanaba Area Board of Education by the Citizens' Advisory Council at the conclusion of its three-month study of the district growth problems.

The council, which was formed in March by the board to make a long-range study of the district's building needs in the next ten years, was headed by David Rivard, while Don Wertz and Rev. Eugene Eslinger were enrollment co-chairmen, Carl Anderson was the finance chairman and Leonard Ford was the facilities chairman.

Council chairmen, meeting with the Board of Education on Wednesday, stated the general problem as "an average growth of about 89 students per year in the past and growth, at this same rate, which would continue in the future."

Lacking Space

"This is the same as about three extra classrooms we need each year," said Rev. Eslinger, "and our last building was done in the district in 1967. So we are really behind or lacking space today and will lack more in the future."

Specific recommendations made by the council were:

1. Soo Hill - presently overcrowded. Basement rooms in the old buildings are in use now and the fifth grade class must be bused to the old Jefferson School. The school needs three or four rooms for the fall of 1970 and the use of mobile classrooms (4) at Soo Hill could relieve this situation on a temporary basis.

2. That a permanent school building of eight classrooms be built at Soo Hill or in the Danforth area, the site to be determined by attendance, land availability, transportation and operation considerations. (Enrollment in the Soo Hill area by 1975 is expected to be about 400, with two new residential subdivisions under development there now.)

Lunchroom Unsuited

3. Wells School - presently overcrowded. A former lunchroom, totally unsuited as a classroom, is in use and the fifth grade must be bused to the old Jefferson School in Escanaba. Residential building in the area continues, as will the number of students attending this school. The use of four mobile classrooms was also recommended.

4. That four permanent classrooms be added to the Wells School as soon as possible.

5. The construction of a multi-purpose room at Ford River and, when necessary, remodeling of the existing multi-purpose room into classrooms. No growth problems are seen at this time at this school, but existing multi-purpose room is too small.

6. Franklin - Lemmer - Jefferson area. Each of these schools is operating at capacity. Franklin is over capacity, with a fifth grade class and part of a third grade class attending the old Jefferson School. Lemmer has eight classrooms with over 30 pupils each and site space is limited at Franklin. An addition is not in the best interests of the children there, as it would take the existing playground area. Lemmer has an enrollment this year of 529 children, which is probably as large as an elementary school should be.

Increasing Enrollments

Most of the in-city building is on the south and east sides, so these schools can expect increasing enrollments. The area west of M-35 already has many new homes and 60 residential lots are planned as well as many apartment complexes.

For these reasons, the council recommended consideration of construction of a new school west of the highway on property already in school ownership behind the high school. This was suggested for the 1975-80 period. (This will relieve the Franklin School.)

7. The financial ability of the district seems to indicate it can support a building program. The State Equalized Valuation of the district has increased about $29 million in the past 10 years and while it is recognized that this size increase will not be steady (Mead expansion accounted for about $13 million), the district is not becoming poorer in SEV either.

However, the council recommended serious consideration of the establishment of a millage to provide a building and site fund for the future to do away with some of the interest charges presently being paid.

Six Rooms Short

8. At the present time, the district is six classrooms short, a situation that will continue to increase at about three classrooms per year. For this reason, it was recommended that a building program be started immediately.

Estimated cost of the program is: four temporary classrooms at Wells, $68,000; four temporary classrooms at Soo Hill, $68,000; an eight room school at Soo Hill or Danforth, $300,000; multi-purpose room at Ford River, $50,000 and four room addition at Wells, $150,000. The total building program amounts to $500,000.

Temporary classrooms are on a lease basis and as such can be paid for from operation monies. They can be sold when permanent classrooms are ready or kept and used at other sites in the district as needed.

The program can be financed by a 2-mill levy at $76,000 per mill for four years, which will pay for the proposed building program and leave $100,000 in a building and site fund for the future.

Consider Tax

The finance committee also recommended the board consider a tax at the rate of one mill per year, on a continuing basis, after the proposed building fund to prevent the interest payments on future building costs.

The Citizens' Advisory Council also would like to remind the public that all of its recommendations to the Board of Education are recommendations only. They must be acted upon by the board and voted upon by the people of the school district.

Wertz cited steadily increasing enrollments at the high school. Although no recommendations were made by the council about this situation, the committee felt that some thought and planning must be given to the high school growth problems in the near future. The maximum capacity of the building is 1,500 and this past year's enrollment was 1,454. An average increase of 40 pupils has been noted at the high school for each of the past five years.

No special problems are seen in attendance areas at any of the other grade schools, nor at the Junior High School, where present facilities would seem to be adequate for the foreseeable future.

VISITING FORESTER — Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, right, a forester from Nepal, discusses plans for his tour of the Hiawatha National Forest with Ken Gherke, a forester with the U. S. Forest Service. Laxman has been working for his master's degree at Michigan State University since last September and he will return to Nepal in about a month to prepare a forest management plan for his country that will guide forest policy in Nepal for the coming year. (Daily Press Photo)

Nepal Forester Visiting Hiawatha National Forest

When people from foreign countries come to visit the United States, the forests are not on the top of their list of things to see, but for Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, a forester from Nepal, the forests are just what he is here to see.

Since last September, Laxman has been working for his masters' degree in forest management at Michigan State University in East Lansing and when he returns to Nepal in about a month, he will be preparing a forest management plan for his country that will guide the forest policy in Nepal in the coming years.

Nepal is a land-locked country of eight and one-half million people. It is about the size of Illinois and approximately 27 per cent of the country is forest, most of which contain hardwoods. The climate varies from tropical in the south to alpine in the north and the capital at Kathmandu enjoys a temperate climate with temperatures ranging from 83 degrees in the summer to 25 degrees in the winter.

Geographic Regions

Most of the country is rugged and mountainous, but there are three distinct geographic regions. A narrow strip of low-lying jungle and farm land, which is a continuation of India's Ganges Plain, is in the south; the more populous hill country, which includes fertile Kathmandu Valley, lies in the central region; and in the north, along the Tibetan border, are the snow-clad Himalayan peaks ranging from 16,000 to 29,000 feet. The most famous of these peaks are Mt. Everest (29,000 feet) and Annapurna (26,493 feet).

About 90 per cent of Nepal's population is directly dependent on agriculture for subsistence and income and outside of agriculture, there are only limited opportunities for employment.

Foreign trade s negligable, except with India, to which Nepal is linked by a railway, a road and airline service. There are extensive water, mineral and especially timber resources which are now being explored with an eye to development.

Planning Started

The Forest Inventory and Management Project has provided forest statistics and forest condition maps needed for general policy planning in the exploitation and management of Nepal's forests. Information collected in five intensive inventories of forest divisions is being used to prepare plans for management of those areas.

Laxman is the assistant to the forest officer in charge of the Forest Management Section of the Forest Inventory and Management Project. After receiving a bachelor's degree in Nepal, he graduated from a two-year course at the Forest Institute in Dehra Dun, India.

Laxman serves his country's forest department as an inventory specialist. He supervises the work crews and is involved with sampling the volume of timber and then working out a planned method of cutting it.

He began his visit to the Hiawatha National Forest on Monday of this week and will be leaving here on Tuesday. His visit here is to learn planning and management of the National Forests and the Phase I, Continuous Forest Inventory currently being implemented on the forest, will be his principal area of study.

Collect Data

In this program, multiple use inventory data is being collected in the field and stored in data processing banks. When needed by land managers for planning purposes, it can be readily retrieved. Since the data is continously updated, it will always be current.

Before going back to Nepal, Laxman will go to Milwaukee, where he will visit the regional office of the forest service and work on data processing. He is also scheduled to visit various forest service research areas in Wisconsin.

Laxman said that most of the forests in the Upper Peninsula are conifer trees, while in Nepal, they are mostly hardwoods. He also said that Nepal's forests are not as well planned as those here. Depending on the location, the forests in Nepal are much more dense where the population is low, but are misused in the regions of heavy population.

His visit to the United States is paid for through an arrangement between Nepal and the Agency for International Development of the United States.

Traffic Safety On Lincoln Rd. To Be Discussed

Escanaba persons representative of institutions and public interested in improved safety at Lincoln Rd. and 5th Ave. S., will meet on Monday to discuss the problem.

Two persons have been fatally injured at that intersection so far this year.

City Manager George Harvey said Police Chief Richard Frederick has requested Paul Michelin of the State Highway Department safety division to attend.

Representatives of schools, nursing homes, churches and other facilities in the area are being notified of the meeting, the city manager reported. Members of the Escanaba Safety Committee will be advised of the session so they may express their views.

The intersection involves the state since S. Lincoln Rd. is the route of M-35. Should a traffic signal or other measure for safety be deemed advisable, the state would be required to approve.

Fish Inventory Begun By State In Bay Waters

The 60-foot Steelhead, fishery research vessel for the Department of Natural Resources, is back in Escanaba—the port where she was launched three years ago—to conduct an inventory of sport fish in area waters.

The Steelhead, skippered by Capt. Chester E. Belfy, came here from Charlevoix, her home port.

The all-steel vessel was constructed at Escanaba by the T. D. Vinette Co. and was launched on Dec. 21, 1967. She went into commission for the state in the spring of 1968.

The so-called "floating laboratory" of the DNR's fish division was in Escanaba on Thursday for the start of what is described as its "first major mission of the year."

Here Last Fall

The Steelhead and Patrol Boat 23, a smaller vessel which can get into shoal waters, are starting a five to six-week survey that includes gill netting and trawling on Green Bay and Big Bay de Noc.

"The purpose of this operation is to find out how many and what kinds of fish there are in those waters and where they are," said John MacGregor, regional fisheries biologist at Roscommon.

The last such "inventory" in these waters by the Steelhead was in October, 1969.

A 'First Step'

At that time the vessel was skippered by Capt. Walter J. "Bill" Palmer, who commanded the Steelhead from its commissioning to April this year, when he resigned.

Capt. Palmer is the author of "The Salmon Hunter" published by the Photo Offset printing of Escanaba. The book describes the operation of the vessel in its first two years of resarch and patrol work.

According to James A. O. Crowe, outdoor editor of the Detroit News, the survey of waters in the Delta County area is "a first step to finding out what can be done to restore spot fishing in the area."

Search For Salmon

Crowe reports the waters in this area were "once prime territory for sport fishing for walleyes," and adds: "In addition, both bays were top lake trout trolling waters."

"As a bonus, the netting may find unknown stocks of sport fish already available for sport fishermen. These may include undiscovered populations of salmon, lake trout and walleyes," Crowe writes.

After the Steelhead concludes its "survey" or "inventory" here, it will "start chasing salmon in either Lake Michigan or Lake Huron," according to Crowe.

That operation will be to locate schools of salmon and direct sport fishermen to areas where they "are almost certain of limit catches."

Msgr. Pelissier Honored, To Make Home In Escanaba

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP)—The Right Rev. Msgr. A. C. Pelissier was honored Thursday night—the 50th anniversary of his ordination—at a testimonial dinner.

Among those paying tribute were Bishops Charles S. Salatka and Thomas L. Noa, both of Marquette, and Bishop Louis J. Reicher of Austin, Tex., a longtime friend of Msgr. Pelissier.

Msgr. Pelissier was pastor of St. Mary & Joseph Church near Iron Mountain for 27 years. Nine young men who entered the priesthood during that period celebrated the jubilee mass at Thursday night's dinner.

Msgr. Pelissier, a native of Munising, presently lives in retirement in Escanaba.

'X' Marks The Spot For New Four Seasons Nursing Center

For the Four Seasons Nursing Center of Escanaba—like other Four Seasons Nursing Centers in the United States — an "X" marks the spot.

Four Seasons in Escanaba will hold Grand Opening Sunday at its cross-shaped facility on 5th Ave. S. to give the public a close-up look at the 99-bed unit before patients begin arriving.

Open House is scheduled from 1 to 6 p.m.

Construction workers were putting the finishing touches on the building and furnishings this week in preparation for the program.

Dichard M. Patty, administrator, said the present staff of about 30 to 35 employes reported for work Thursday to begin organization in preparation for the first patients, which are expected in a week to 10 days.

99 For 99

Patty said there is a waiting list of 99 patients for the 99 beds that will be available, but that the center will not reach capacity for several months. He said only three to five persons will be admitted each day.

"We've got a new building, a new business and will have new patients," he said, "so we have got lot of detials to iron out and things to get organized.

With everything new, he pointed out, it would be practically impossible to jump from an empty building to capacity overnight. Next week will be devoted to orientation.

Patty said that as the patient load increases, the staff will be increased to some 60-65 employes.

Two Types Of Care

Mrs. Dorothy Fleetwood of Spalding is director of nursing; Mrs. Judith Mineau, ward clerk; Mrs. Karen Woolford, activities director, and Mrs. Katherine Lewis, food supervisor.

Patty said the facility is licensed to provide skilled care in two wings and basic care in the two others. Skilled care is considered a more "restorative type of nursing care" where patients require special treatment or attention, while the basic care patients are not so demanding.

Besides the 99 beds, the new facility includes a lobby, dining hall and kitchen, laundry and office space. The central nursing station, located at the center of the "X" shaped building, is circular in design and allows persons on duty an unobstructed view of all four corridors.

New System

Patty said Four Seasons would use the new Dru-Star system of dispensing medication under which a local druggist prepares individual packages of drugs for each patient and delivers them each day. Formerly, most medication in nursing homes was prepared by a registered nurse from 30-day supplies at the nursing home.

The new system gives an RN more time for patients with less chance for mistakes and less chance for drug waste," Patty said.

Patty said another important part of the Four Seasons operation will be the activities program. Church services are planned every Sunday and volunteer groups from the community will be encouraged to come in and work with Mrs. Woolford, he said. In addition, there will be arts an crafts and bingo, along with birthday parties. The parties will be held once a month for all patients with birthdays coming up during the month.

In addition to regular nursing services, the Four Seasons program will be under the supervision of various consultants in the area — a physical therapist, pharmacist, social worker, dietician, etc.

Construction on the building began last winter. Completion was delayed by the truck strike which slowed delivery in Escanaba of necessary materials.

Harvey J. Pilon, 75, died at 7:40 p. m. Tuesday at Bell Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for one week.

He was born March 17, 1895 in Wendover, Ontario, Canada and he came to Perkins at the age of eight with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Pilon. He was married to the former Ellen LeClaire of Perkins and she preceded him in death May 11, 1968.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ted (Lenore) Soyring of Gwinn, with whom he had made his home for the past 22 months; four sons, Amos H. of Cleveland, Ohio, Harold D. of Flint, Irvin E. of Philadelphia, Pa. and Lester R., Athens, Ga.; five sisters, Mrs. Cal (Alda) Pillotte, Rapid River; Mrs. Herbert (Eva) Keyes of Three Lakes, Wis.; Mrs. Leonard (Bertha) Iverson, Mrs. Nellie Moreau and Mrs. Alice Linder, all of Green Bay; 16 grandchildren, two great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Pilon was well known for his interest in baseball, having pitched semi-pro ball since the age of 16 in the tri-county area of Delta, Alger and Schoolcraft until the family moved from Rock to Cleveland in 1941. He retired from Curtis 1000, Ind., Cleveland, as chief shipping clerk in 1960.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. today at St. Anthony's Church, Gwinn with the Rev. George Pernaski officiating. Burial was in the Gwinn Cemetery. Perala's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Few Students In Bay Program:

Is Environmental Crisis More Talk Than Action?

Follow-up inquiries about public attitudes on environmental purity and pollution made by Bay de Noc Community College here after its Earth Day Teach-in have convinced college faculty and administration members that so far there is much more inclination to talk than to act on pollution.

"We have a real test of intention in public interest in our college's Water Technology Program," said Kenneth Maki.

Maki is director of the water technology program, instituted by Bay College a year ago and now recruiting students for the second year. The two-year course trains persons for career jobs in water and wastewater treatment.

Few Students

"Our graduates," said Maki, "will be the professional technical people working as intermediaries between engineers and scientists who formulate treatment processes and the labor force which operates the water and wastewater plants.

"They are absolutely essential in any state that wants to curb pollution and yet we have only four students in the program and so far have only 10 or 12 sign-ups for fall. We are, thus far, the only state-accredited agency to train these people for this important work.

"We know that these people must have training so that they can be state-certified for positions of higher responsibility, but we wonder when it is going to start. The need for operators in waste treatment plants alone will increase many fold, as a result of Michigan's $325 million bonding to provide wastewater plant construction grants and we're certain that we'll be hard-pressed to supply the numbers needed in five years.

Industrial Need Cited

"Michigan is pretty well fixed for its present water and wastewater plant personnel need, but with the bonding program and with rising standards of water quality we're going to have a new situation.

"Under a law effective on January 1 of this year, every industry that discharges wastes into surface waters of the state must have its treatment or such affluents under the supervision of a state-certified industrial waste treatment operator. This applies all the way from a car wash to General Motors. I presume that small businesses will get technologists for their needs on a par-time contract basis.

"In Michigan, most wastewater plants must go to secondary waste treatment and phosphorus removal by 1975. It has ben estimated that it would cost as much as the United States is now spending on the war in Vietnam just to maintain our present levels of water quality in the United States and we're under pressure to raise quality criteria even higher. This results from our increased population and its increasing water usage and generation of wastes.

"So, we aren't even holding even in the battle with pollution; we're losing. We're talking a lot but not doing much."

Briefly Told

Members of Escanaba High School class of 1935 are to send their reservations for the reunion July 4 to 'Dutch' as soon as possible.

Arol E. Beck, 908 7th Ave. S., attended the 55th annual convention of Kiwanis International in Detroit this week. About 15,000 delegates and their families attended the convention.

A hanger bag containing a suit, two sports coats, a shirt and ties, was found at 14th St. and 5th Ave. S., is at the city police station and may be called for by the owner.

Mrs. Kathy Aper, Rte. 1, Rapid River, is attending a three-day institute on medical record administration in Minneapolis. The institute is sponsored by the American Medical Records Association. Mrs. Aper is employed at St. Francis Hospital.

Few Students

"Our graduates," said Maki, "will be the professional technical people working as intermediaries between engineers and scientists who formulate treatment processes and the labor force which operates the water and wastewater plants.

"They are absolutely essential in any state that wants to curb pollution and yet we have only four students in the program and so far have only 10 or 12 sign-ups for fall. We are, thus far, the only state-accredited agency to train these people for this important work.

"We know that these people must have training so that they can be state-certified for positions of higher responsibility, but we wonder when it is going to start. The need for operators in waste treatment plants alone will increase many fold, as a result of Michigan's $325 million bonding to provide wastewater plant construction grants and we're certain that we'll be hard-pressed to supply the numbers needed in five years.

Industrial Need Cited

"Michigan is pretty well fixed for its present water and wastewater plant personnel need, but with the bonding program and with rising standards of water quality we're going to have a new situation.

"Under a law effective on January 1 of this year, every industry that discharges wastes into surface waters of the state must have its treatment or such affluents under the supervision of a state-certified industrial waste treatment operator. This applies all the way from a car wash to General Motors. I presume that small businesses will get technologists for their needs on a par-time contract basis.

"In Michigan, most wastewater plants must go to secondary waste treatment and phosphorus removal by 1975. It has ben estimated that it would cost as much as the United States is now spending on the war in Vietnam just to maintain our present levels of water quality in the United States and we're under pressure to raise quality criteria even higher. This results from our increased population and its increasing water usage and generation of wastes.

"So, we aren't even holding even in the battle with pollution; we're losing. We're talking a lot but not doing much."

Land Policy

The long-awaited report of the Public Land Law Review Commission, which was finally submitted this week, is of particular interest in the Upper Peninsula, where 37.2 per cent of the land is public land. Of this amount 1,999,031 acres, representing 18.4 per cent of the Northern Peninsula's land area, is in federal ownership and 2,038,161 acres, representing 18.8 per cent of the area, is in state ownership.

The commission's report was issued after a five-year study. It covers 842 pages and concerns itself only with public land owned by the federal government. In the Upper Peninsula, nearly all of these federally owned lands are located in the Hiawatha and Ottawa National Forests, the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, Isle Royal National Park and the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore. (Both the Sylvania and McCormick Tracts, which were acquired in recent years by the U. S. Forest Service, lie within the Ottawa National Forest.)

The Upper Peninsula's special concern with federally-owned land has been the impact of these holding on the local tax base. Wherever there is large federal land ownership, the tax base is hurt. The Forest Service contributes 25 per cent of its receipts to local government in lieu of taxes, but in the Upper Peninsula this does not nearly equal the amount of revenue that would be generated for units of government if the land were in private ownership. The National Park Service, which administers Isle Royal National Park and the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore, does not even make a token payment to local governments in lieu of taxes.

Upper Peninsula governmental units thus will be relieved to learn that one of the recommendations in the report of the Public Land Law Review Commission is that federal payments in lieu of taxes be made to local and state governments whose tax base is hurt by the presence of large blocks of federally owned lands.

This is one of 387 recommendations contained in the report. In order for any of the recommendations to be implemented, congressional action will be required. Governmental officials in the Upper Peninsula hope the recommendation on tax payments will be among the first to be acted on by Congress.

* * *

Several of the other recommendations of the commission merit early adoption by Congress. One of these is the recommendation to transfer the Forest Service from the Agriculture Department to the Interior Department.

Both of these departments have the responsibility for managing vast acreages of public lands. In the past, the two departments have differed sharply over how best to manage their holdings. Placing the Forest and Park Services under the same department might end the feuding and result in greater administrative efficiency.

Another recommendation stipulates that disposal of public lands be done only where it would bring "maximum benefit for the general public in non-federal ownership." Simultaneously, however the commission recommended that authority be granted to sell at full value the public domain lands required for some mining activities or where the lands are suitable only for dry land farming, grazing of livestock or residential, commercial or industrial uses, where such sale is "in the public interest."

If the commission's recommendations are followed, Congress will draft guidelines to insure that each tract of federal land is dedicated to its "highest and best use."

Police said the boy was driving east on M-28, and in attempting to turn to the southbound I-75 access ramp, ran off the road into the highway right-of-way fence. After investigation, police discovered the bo yhad appropriated his father's auto and was reportedly headed for Colorado, police officials said.

Upsetting the tree planters placed along sidewalks in Bessemer's business district appears to have become a game with vandals in that city. Two more were toppled over early in the morning. Officers were investigating the first incident when the brazen vandals tipped the second over, directly across the street. Bessemer Women's Club members are becoming a bit discouraged because their efforts at a beautification program are being made the target of vandals.

* * *

Vandalism is on the rise in Bessemer, and could have possibly serious consequences unless checked. The most serious incident took place when vandals damaged a switch along the Soo Line tracks. Timothy Nolan, foreman for the railroad, told police he was riding along the tracks on a small motorized car when the vehicle was thrown off the track and the wheels damaged as a result of the broken switch. A train wreck could have resulted if the damage had gone undetected.

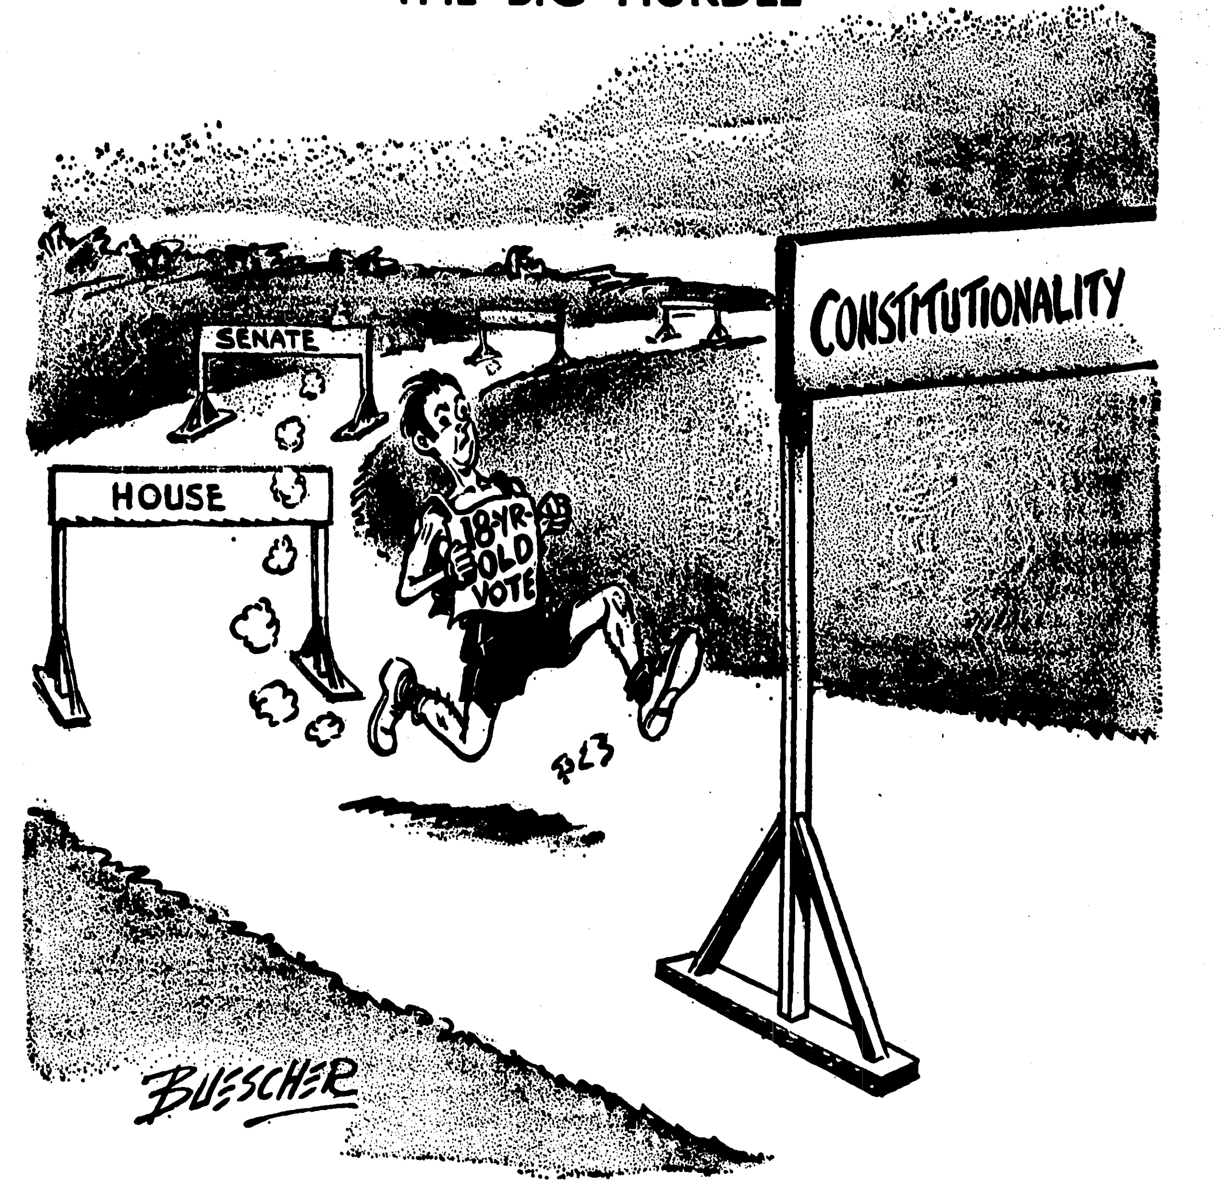
THE BIG HURDLE



Bill Seeks To Reduce Jurisdiction Of NLRB

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The labor ironies in America mount.

For one thing, despite the fact that the government belongs to the people, Postmaster General Blount, bowing to the AFL - CIO's George Meany, would like to limit post office employment to members of Meany's union. The proposition is to keep Americans from freely working for something they theoretically own.

A second irony attends the recent newspaper wage settlement in New York City. The New York Times yields to nobody in its verbal stance against inflation, yet, when the pinch came, it signed one of the most inflationary labor contracts in journalistic history.

True enough, it had little option if it wanted to go on publishing. But with New York City newspaper employes getting a 41 per cent raise over a three-year period, one waits with apprehension to see how the "big town" settlement will affect the papers out beyond the Hudson River.

A horrendous statistic comes to mind: 60 years ago there were some 700 cities with more than two competing newspapers; today the list is down to below 45. Maybe automation, which the unions prevent in New York, will save the day in the provinces.

* * *

What to do about the power of the unions to get raises that outrun productivity increases?

Sen. John Tower of Texas thinks he has one answer. He has introduced a bill that would divest the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) of its jurisdiction in unfair labor practice cases in favor of restoring that jurisdiction to the Federal courts. This would amount to a return to the status quo as it was thirty-five years ago.

Hearings on the Tower labor law reform bill (S-3671) will begin before the Senate Judiciary Committee on July 1, with an impressive co-sponsorship list that includes Senators Ervin of North Carolina, Bennett of Utah, Dole of Kansas, Goldwater and Fannin of Arizona, and Thurmond of South Carolina.

Tower insists that the NLRB has gone out of its way to show favoritism to labor in all too many cases. "It has done so," he says, "by deliberately subverting the principle of free employe choice, which the law guarantees, and demonstrating an obvious preference for enforced unionism."

* * *

A recent report by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Separation of the Powers tends to subsantiate Senator Tower's criticism. It has urged Congress to consider the "feasibility ofg substanttive reform of the National Labor Relations Act."

The NLRB, according to the subcommittee, has consistently "thwarted the intent of Congress" by "applying double standards and ignoring plain legislative mandates." The consequences are that "the board has unreasonably emphasized the establishment and maintenance of collective bargaining and strong unions to the exclusion of other statutory purposes which often involve the rights of individual employes."

The subcommittee report insists that the NLRB's general counsel, who possesses an unreviewable power to issue or refuse to issue complaints of unfair labor practices, has often acted in an arbitrary manner. Individual rights have been frequently subordinated to the interests of the union leaders, even to the point of preventing a free choice of action by a majority of employes.

* * *

Sen. Tower is not anti-union, but he thinks the NLRB has unjustly penalized workers by denying them their rights of free speech under the First Amendment. The Senate subcommittee notes that the NLRB has onesidedly tolerated scurrilous attacks on employers.

"Of all the regulatory agencies," says Tower, arguing for giving the Federal courts the power to deal with unfair practice cases, "the Labor Board has established the worst reputation. It has ignored the intent of Congress. It has become a policy-making body and has not hesitated to rewrite the law to suit its own cases."

These are harsh words; they will surely precipitate one of the harsher Congressional fights when the Tower bill comes up for consideration next month.

Caring For Sick Bird Has Its Good Moments

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Driver, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, pelase. And can you hurry? I've got a sick bird back here."

The New York hackie turns around in his seat, stares at whatever I have wrapped up in the towel and shakes his head.

I lift the towel from the cage and peek at the little creature named Boohkie. He looks terrified. Reassurance, I figure.

"Don't worry, sweetie. Mother is taking you to the very best bird hospital in New York City and everything will be all right. You will have the very best on care. Don't worry."

"Don't worry, sweetie, but please chirp once for the driver's sake."

Chirpless we arrive.

I rush him downstairs to the bird hospital. The bird lady is on the telephone. She cuts off the lady who wants to know how to clip her parrot's toenails.

"That bird needs immediate attention," she decrees.

She grabs the cage, sweeps past me. I start to follow. She stops me.

"But he's my son," I protest.

She smiles. We're instant friends. I still can't come to the inner sanctum of the intensive bird care unit. Finally she comes back from the bowels of Rockefeller Center.

"I have all the knowledge in the world," she intones. "That bird, however, is in the hands of God."

Then this bird lady, a total stranger, takes me in her arms and embraces me. The diagnosis is a ruptured oil sack. Usually fatal.

Next comes the forms. In triplicate.

"Bird damaged. Not responsible for life."

At this point I would sign that I was damaged in triplicate.

Then come the hospital bulletins:

Hypothermia is successful. Blood transfusion accomplished. Still alive and flighting. The bird lady stays up until 4 a.m. one night to stop the bleeding and the office wits tell me there would be a slim chance of that kind of treatment if the bird had been a person.

After three days he's out of critical. He's going to make it.

On the way home in the cage he chirps like crazy.

"Sounds like you got a bird back there," questions the hackie.

"Yeah, a very healthy one," I say.

Nuclear Plant Testing Denied

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission hearing board has temporarily denied Consumers Power Co. a license to test its nuclear plant on Lake Michigan.

And, an attorney for the company estimated after the request for a testing license was denied Thursday that the Palisades plant near South Haven now cannot begin testing before Oct. 22.

George F. Trowbridge made the estimate after his request for a license to test at an output of one million watts was denied. The three-man hearing board said it would not agree to a license for the tests at this time.

After denying permission for tests, the hearing board recessed its licensing hearings until July 21. Testing at the Palisades plant originally was to have begun in mid-May.

AMA Reverses Abortion Stand

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association reversed its position on abortion today and approved a resolution saying that abortion should be considered as another medical procedure.

The AMA's official policy on abortion, set in 1967, opposed abortion except for therapeutic reasons.

At the 119th annual AMA convention, its governing body, the House of Delegates, approved a resolution today that says: "Abortion is a medical procedure and should be performed only by a duly licensed physician and surgeon in an accredited hospital acting only in conformance with standards of good medical practice and after consultation with two other physicians chosen because of their professional competence and within the medical practice act of his state."

The resolution said no physician should be compelled to perform an abortion.

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ A K Q J 9 8	N	♠ 7 6 5 2
♥ A K J 9	W E	♥ 5 4 3 2
♦ 4	S	♦ A Q 9
♣ A K		♣ 9 4

2. Again you are declarer at Six Spades, but with a slightly different hand. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ A K Q J 9 8	N	♠ 7 6 5 2
♥ A K J 9	W E	♥ 5 4 3 2
♦ 4	S	♦ A Q 8
♣ A 9		♣ K 4

1. Played correctly, you cannot lose the contract regardless of how the North-South cards are divided. Draw another round of trumps, then cash the A-K of clubs and A-K of hearts. If both defenders follow in hearts, the only trick you can lose is a heart, so let's assume the worst—a 4-1 division in hearts without the ten or queen as the singleton.

If North shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading the four of diamonds to dummy's nine. South wins but is forced to yield a ruff and discard or return a diamond to dummy's A-Q. In either case, you discard your heart losers.

If South shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading a diamond to dummy's ace and returning a heart toward your J-9.

2. Despite the similarity to the previous hand, there is a world of difference in the proper approach to the play. (Both hands were composed by the brilliant Israeli expert, Paul Lukacs.)

Again you can guarantee the contract against any distribution, but because the dummy this time lacks the nine of diamonds and contains an extra entry in the form of the king of clubs, you play altogether differently to assure the slam.

Draw two rounds of trumps, cash the ace of hearts (let's assume nothing significant occurs), cash the ace of diamonds, and ruff a diamond. Next cash the A-K of clubs and ruff the queen of diamonds.

Both minor suits having been eliminated, you lead the nine of hearts. If North has Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart to your K-J or yield a ruff and discard.

If South is the player with Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart, allowing you to take the proven finesse, or return a minor suit, which gives you a ruff and discard as well as the contract.

'Book Smart' Woman Has Lot To Learn

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an "A" student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his paycheck regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with "Edge of Night" and "General Hospital" he faked illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with "Sesame Street" and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do?—Agonized Folks

Dear Ag: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Today is my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do.

My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other Woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. — Tears In The Pillow

Dear Tears: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has ben checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said, "After you adopt a child you will probably have your own."

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of two adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says, "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony crutch." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm the hypocrite."

What can I do? — Redding, Calif.

Dear Red: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church-affiliated — if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

House Blocking Horse Racing Betting Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House blocked efforts Thursday to revive a controversial bill aimed at raising $42 million for the state and communities agreeing to allow off-track betting on horse races.

The House sent back to its Agriculture and Consumers Affairs Committee a bill sponsored by Sen. Stanley Novak, D-Detroit, to enlarge the State Racing Commission from one man to three.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, author of the bill to license off-track betting parlors, had hoped to graft his plan onto the Novak bill in efforts to force a vote on it in the Senate.

Montgomery's plan, which he said would raise some $18 million for the state alone, passed the House by a 59-47 roll call on a second-time vote May 27. To date, the bill has not been reported out of committee in the Senate.

The House Thursday voted not to accept Montgomery's plan as an amendment to the commission bill, then sent it to committee, in effect killing it for this session.

In other action, the House voted to give the State Budget Bureau authority to develop a special zoning plan for the proposed new State Capitol.

Critics of the zoning plan, passed earlier in the Senate, charged it was so weak that land speculators could not be barred from rushing to throw up high - rise developments that would overshadow any existing or new governmental center.

A 13-year-old Brimley boy was apprehended by Sault post state police recently after an auto he was reportedly driving crashed through a fence on I-75 at the M-28 interchange. Police said the boy was driving east on M-28, and in attempting to turn to the southbound I-75 access ramp, ran off the road into the highway right-of-way fence. After investigation, police discovered the bo yhad appropriated his father's auto and was reportedly headed for Colorado, police officials said.

Upsetting the tree planters placed along sidewalks in Bessemer's business district appears to have become a game with vandals in that city. Two more were toppled over early in the morning. Officers were investigating the first incident when the brazen vandals tipped the second over, directly across the street. Bessemer Women's Club members are becoming a bit discouraged because their efforts at a beautification program are being made the target of vandals.

★ ★ ★

Vandalism is on the rise in Bessemer, and could have possibly serious consequences unless checked. The most serious incident took place when vandals damaged a switch along the Soo Line tracks. Timothy Nolan, foreman for the railroad, told police he was riding along the tracks on a small motorized car when the vehicle was thrown off the track and the wheels damaged as a result of the broken switch. A train wreck could have resulted if the damage had gone undetected.

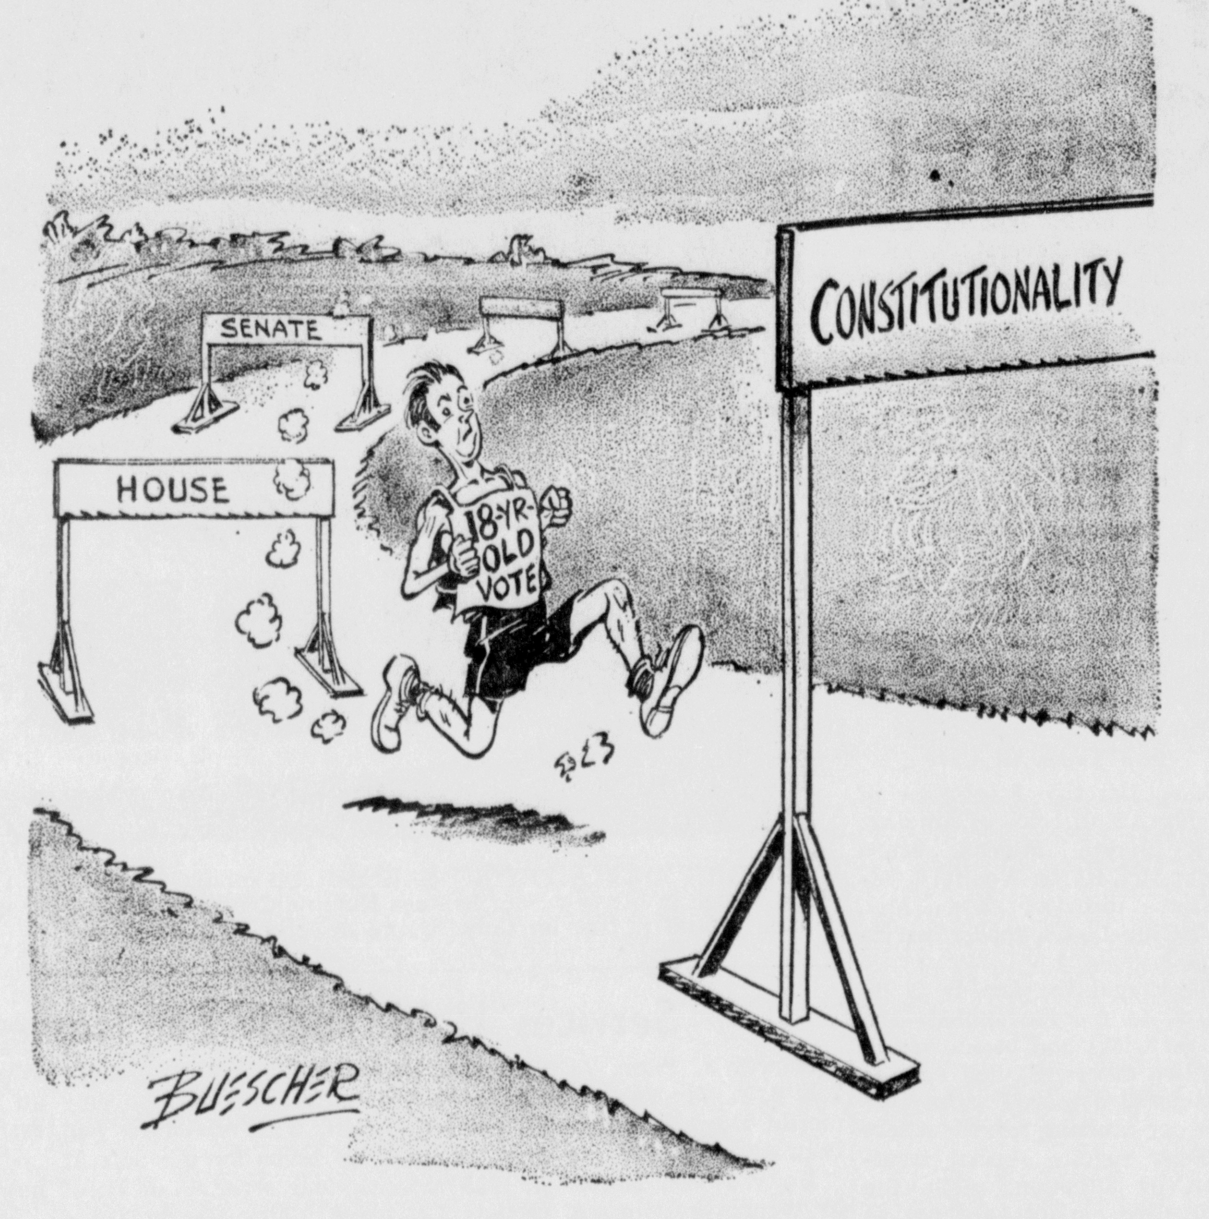
THE BIG HURDLE



Bill Seeks To Reduce Jurisdiction Of NLRB

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The labor ironies in America mount.

For one thing, despite the fact that the government belongs to the people, Postmaster General Blount, bowing to the AFL - CIO's George Meany, would like to limit post office employment to members of Meany's union. The proposition is to keep Americans from freely working for something they theoretically own.

A second irony attends the recent newspaper wage settlement in New York City. The New York Times yields to nobody in its verbal stance against inflation, yet, when the pinch came, it signed one of the most inflationary labor contracts in journalistic history.

True enough, it had little option if it wanted to go on publishing. But with New York City newspaper employes getting a 41 per cent raise over a three-year period, one waits with apprehension to see how the "big town" settlement will affect the papers out beyond the Hudson River.

A horrendous statistic comes to mind: 60 years ago there were some 700 cities with more than two competing newspapers; today the list is down to below 45. Maybe automation, which the unions prevent in New York, will save the day in the provinces.

What to do about the power of the unions to get raises that outrun productivity increases?

Sen. John Tower of Texas thinks he has one answer. He has introduced a bill that would divest the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) of its jurisdiction in unfair labor practice cases in favor of restoring that jurisdiction to the Federal courts. This would amount to a return to the status quo as it was thirty-five years ago.

Hearings on the Tower labor law reform bill (S-3671) will begin before the Senate Judiciary Committee on July 1, with an impressive co-sponsorship list that includes Senators Ervin of North Carolina, Bennett of Utah, Dole of Kansas, Goldwater and Fannin of Arizona, and Thurmond of South Carolina.

Tower insists that the NLRB has gone out of its way to show favoritism to labor in all too many cases. "It has done so," he says, "by deliberately subverting the principle of free employe choice, which the law guarantees, and demonstrating an obvious preference for enforced unionism."

★ ★ ★

A recent report by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Separation of the Powers tends to subsantiate Senator Tower's criticism. It has urged Congress to consider the "feasibility ofg substanttive reform of the National Labor Relations Act."

The NLRB, according to the subcommittee, has consistently "thwarted the intent of Congress" by "applying double standards and ignoring plain legislative mandates." The consequences are that "the board has unreasonably emphasized the establishment and maintenance of collective bargaining and strong unions to the exclusion of other statutory purposes which often involve the rights of individual employes."

The subcommittee report insists that the NLRB's general counsel, who possesses an unreviewable power to issue or refuse to issue complaints of unfair labor practices, has often acted in an arbitrary manner. Individual rights have been frequently subordinated to the interests of the union leaders, even to the point of preventing a free choice of action by a majority of employes.

Sen. Tower is not anti-union, but he thinks the NLRB has unjustly penalized workers by denying them their rights of free speech under the First Amendment. The Senate subcommittee notes that the NLRB has onesidedly tolerated scurrilous attacks on employers.

"Of all the regulatory agencies," says Tower, arguing for giving the Federal courts the power to deal with unfair practice cases, "the Labor Board has established the worst reputation. It has ignored the intent of Congress. It has become a policy-making body and has not hesitated to rewrite the law to suit its own cases."

These are harsh words; they will surely precipitate one of the harsher Congressional fights when the Tower bill comes up for consideration next month.

Caring For Sick Bird Has Its Good Moments

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Driver, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, pelase. And can you hurry? I've got a sick bird back here."

The New York hackie turns around in his seat, stares at whatever I have wrapped up in the towel and shakes his head.

I lift the towel from the cage and peek at the little creature named Boohkie. He looks terrified. Reassurance, I figure.

"Don't worry, sweetie. Mother is taking you to the very best bird hospital in New York City and everything will be all right. You will have the very best on care. Don't worry."

"Don't worry, sweetie, but please chirp once for the driver's sake."

Chirpless we arrive.

I rush him downstairs to the bird hospital. The bird lady is on the telephone. She cuts off the lady who wants to know how to clip her parrot's toenails.

"That bird needs immediate attention," she decrees.

She grabs the cage, sweeps past me. I start to follow. She stops me.

"But he's my son," I protest.

She smiles. We're instant friends. I still can't come to the inner sanctum of the intensive bird care unit. Finally she comes back from the bowels of Rockefeller Center.

"I have all the knowledge in the world," she intones. "That bird, however, is in the hands of God."

Then this bird lady, a total stranger, takes me in her arms and embraces me. The diagnosis is a ruptured oil sack. Usually fatal.

Next comes the forms. In triplicate.

"Bird damaged. Not responsible for life."

At this point I would sign that I was damaged in triplicate.

Then come the hospital bulletins:

Hypothermia is successful. Blood transfusion accomplished. Still alive and flighting. The bird lady stays up until 4 a.m. one night to stop the bleeding and the office wits tell me there would be a slim chance of that kind of treatment if the bird had been a person.

After three days he's out of critical. He's going to make it.

On the way home in the cage he chirps like crazy.

"Sounds like you got a bird back there," questions the hackie.

"Yeah, a very healthy one," I say.

Nuclear Plant Testing Denied

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission hearing board has temporarily denied Consumers Power Co. a license to test its nuclear plant on Lake Michigan.

And, an attorney for the company estimated after the request for a testing license was denied Thursday that the Palisades plant near South Haven now cannot begin testing before Oct. 22.

George F. Trowbridge made the estimate after his request for a license to test at an output of one million watts was denied. The three-man hearing board said it would not agree to a license for the tests at this time.

After denying permission for tests, the hearing board recessed its licensing hearings until July 21. Testing at the Palisades plant originally was to have begun in mid-May.

AMA Reverses Abortion Stand

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association reversed its position on abortion today and approved a resolution saying that abortion should be considered as another medical procedure.

The AMA's official policy on abortion, set in 1967, opposed abortion except for therapeutic reasons.

At the 119th annual AMA convention, its governing body, the House of Delegates, approved a resolution today that says: "Abortion is a medical procedure and should be performed only by a duly licensed physician and surgeon in an accredited hospital acting only in conformance with standards of good medical practice and after consultation with two other physicians chosen because of their professional competence and within the medical practice act of his state."

The resolution said no physician should be compelled to perform an abortion.

Contract Bridge

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ AKQJ98	N	♠ 7652
♥ AKJ9	W E	♥ 5432
♦ 4	S	♦ AQ9
♣ AK		♣ 94

2. Again you are declarer at Six Spades, but with a slightly different hand. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ AKQJ98	N	♠ 7652
♥ AKJ9	W E	♥ 5432
♣ A9		♣ K4

1. Played correctly, you cannot lose the contract regardless of how the North-South cards are divided. Draw another round of trumps, then cash the A-K of clubs and A-K of hearts. If both defenders follow in hearts, the only trick you can lose is a heart, so let's assume the worst—a 4-1 division in hearts without the ten or queen as the singleton.

If North shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading the four of diamonds to dummy's nine. South wins but is forced to yield a ruff and discard or return a diamond to dummy's A-Q. In either case, you discard your heart losers.

If South shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading a diamond to dummy's ace and returning a heart toward your J-9.

2. Despite the similarity to the previous hand, there is a world of difference in the proper approach to the play. (Both hands were composed by the brilliant Israeli expert, Paul Lukacs.)

Again you can guarantee the contract against any distribution, but because the dummy this time lacks the nine of diamonds and contains an extra entry in the form of the king of clubs, you play altogether differently to assure the slam.

Draw two rounds of trumps, cash the ace of hearts (let's assume nothing significant occurs), cash the ace of diamonds, and ruff a diamond. Next cash the A-K of clubs and ruff the queen of diamonds.

Both minor suits having been eliminated, you lead the nine of hearts. If North has Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart to your K-J or yield a ruff and discard.

If South is the player with Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart, allowing you to take the proven finesse, or return a minor suit, which gives you a ruff and discard as well as the contract.

'Book Smart' Woman Has Lot To Learn

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an "A" student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his paycheck regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with "Edge of Night" and "General Hospital" he faked illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with "Sesame Street" and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do?—Agonized Folks

Dear Ag: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Today is my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do.

My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other Woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. — Tears In The Pillow

Dear Tears: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has ben checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said, "After you adopt a child you will probably have your own."

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of two adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says, "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony crutch." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm the hypocrite."

What can I do? — Redding, Calif.

Dear Red: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church-affiliated — if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

House Blocking Horse Racing Betting Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House blocked efforts Thursday to revive a controversial bill aimed at raising $42 million for the state and communities agreeing to allow off-track betting on horse races.

The House sent back to its Agriculture and Consumers Affairs Committee a bill sponsored by Sen. Stanley Novak, D-Detroit, to enlarge the State Racing Commission from one man to three.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, author of the bill to license off-track betting parlors, had hoped to graft his plan onto the Novak bill in efforts to force a vote on it in the Senate.

Montgomery's plan, which he said would raise some $18 million for the state alone, passed the House by a 58-47 roll call on a second-time vote May 27. To date, the bill has not been reported out of committee in the Senate.

The House Thursday voted not to accept Montgomery's plan as an amendment to the commission bill, then sent it to committee, in effect killing it for this session.

In other action, the House voted to give the State Budget Bureau authority to develop a special zoning plan for the proposed new State Capitol.

Critics of the zoning plan, passed earlier in the Senate, charged it was so weak that land speculators could not be barred from rushing to throw up high - rise developments that would overshadow any existing or new governmental center.

Duplex Preserves Identity

By ANDY LANG

You can look at the outside of this house for a long time without suspecting that it is a duplex.

Although it has two front doors, it is difficult to guess that each leads to a separate, complete three-bedroom unit. Architect William G. Chirgotis has accomplished this by setting back half the house several feet, with each half having distinctively different facades but with both in a Colonial motif.

The rooms in each apartment are identical in size. Each unit has a habitable area of 735 square feet on the first floor, consisting of the living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory; with the same square footage on the second floor, made up of three bedrooms and two baths.

Garages may be detached or are optional at either or both ends. For a sloping lot, the garage may be entered from the rear and located under the living room. If this is done, the sliding rear door of the living room can be replaced with a window.

When entering either foyer, there is an immediate view of the living room with its all-brick fireplace and sliding door leading to the rear yard or patio, thus creating an excellent first impression. The mullion window in the dining room is visible from the living room through an archway.

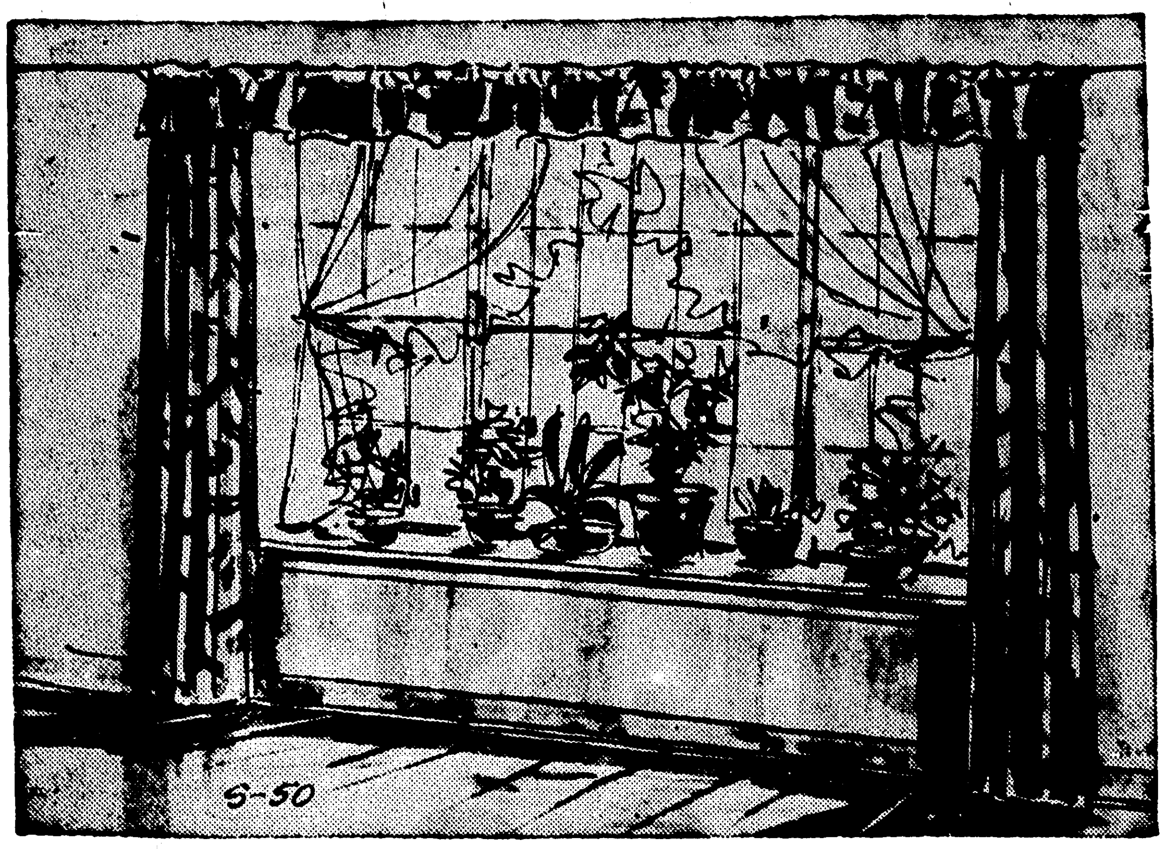
Few women could resist the 18-foot-long kitchen - dinette with its full complement of appliances, countertop, broom closet and every meal eating area large enough to accommodate the family, thus preserving the dining room for formal occasions.

A full basement provides plenty of storage space, laundry area and the possibility of creating a recreation room at a later date. The stairway is entered off the kitchen.

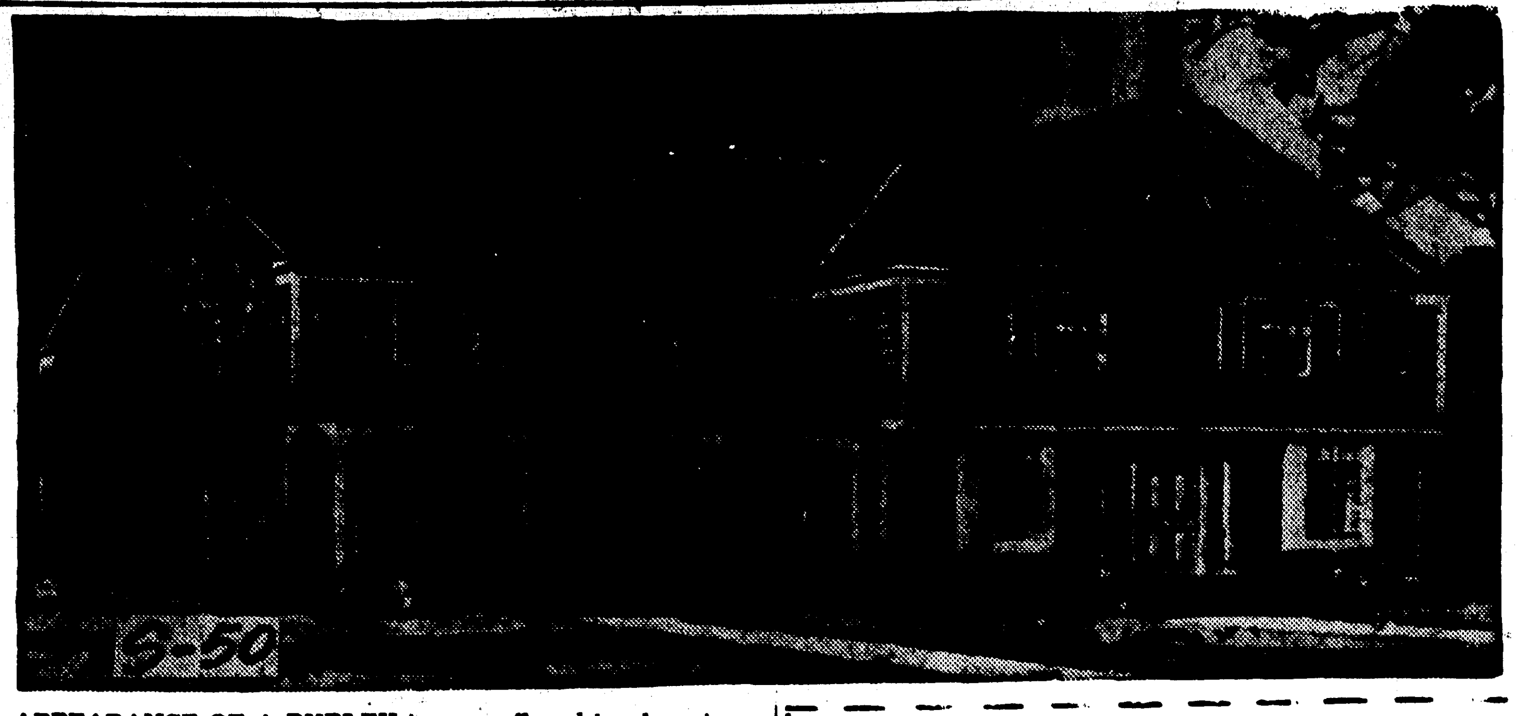
On the second floor, the three bedrooms are located around the upstairs hall. The bathrooms have back-to-back plumbing to minimize costs. Care has been taken to provide ample wall space for beds and furniture. Both bathrooms are equipped with vanities and have full-height tile over the shower-tub. The master bathroom is accessible from the dressing area, which includes a built-in mirrored vanity and a walk-in closet.

With its shingles, narrow beveled siding, corner boards, multi-paned windows, moulded cornices, shutters and doors in the tradition of the Colonial period, Design S-50 will fit in with any surrounding where duplex construction is permitted.

And then of course, there is the economic advantage of this type of house. It permits the owners to live well and to obtain an income — without having a tenant family on the floor above or the floor below.



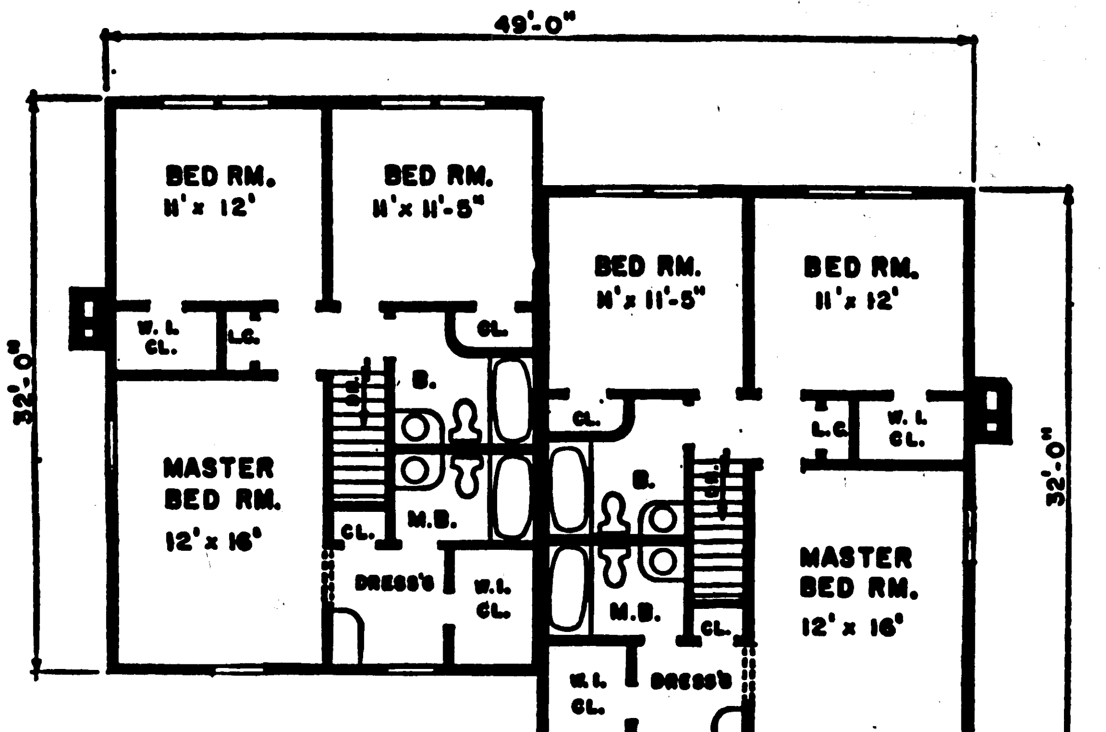
LARGE WINDOW at rear of dining room looks out on rear yard or patio. Room is accessible to kitchen and living room.

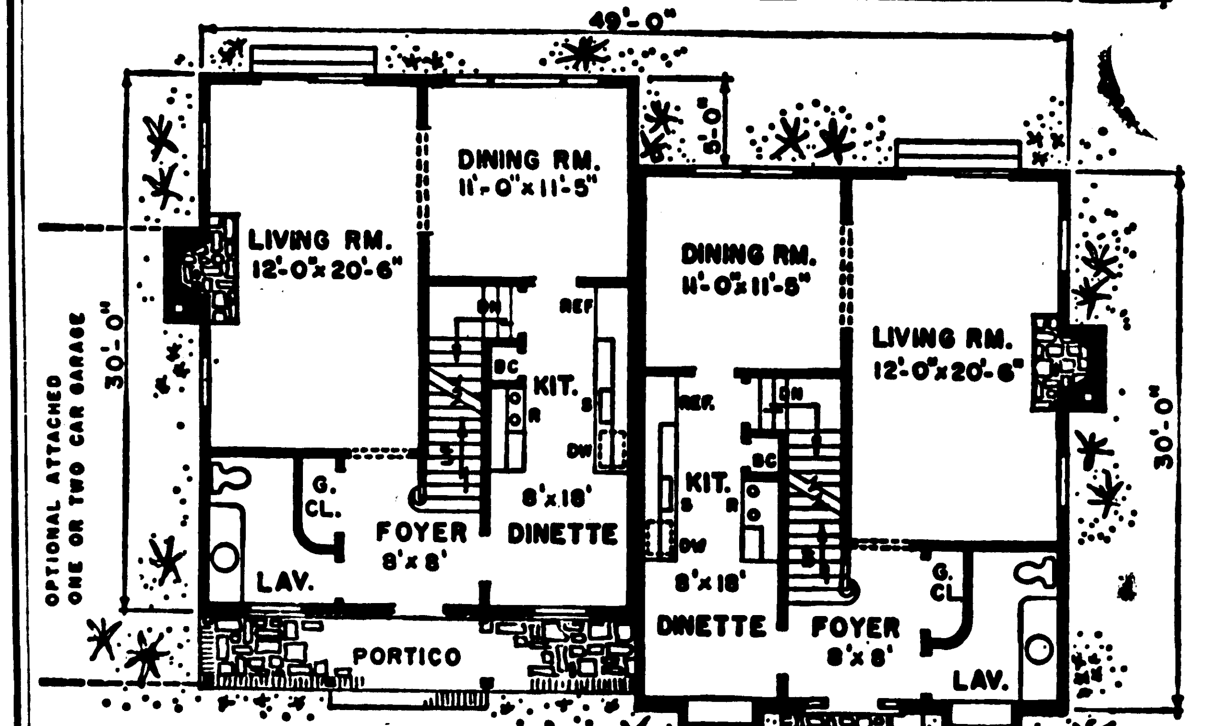


APPEARANCE OF A DUPLEX is camouflaged by dropping back half the house and giving it a covered portico, so that its door seems to be only another entrance in a one-family home.

S-50 STATISTICS

Design S-50 is a duplex. Each unit has a living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory on the first floor, totaling 735 square feet. The second floor of each unit has three bedrooms and two bathrooms, also totaling 735 square feet. There is a full basement. The over-all dimensions are 49' by 32'.





FLOOR PLANS: Plenty of living space is packed within modest dimensions in each unit of this duplex arrangement. The kitchen-dinettes are more spacious than similar rooms in houses of this type. Thick center wall acts as sound insulator between units.

Here's The Answer

Q.—I read once that a dent in wood could be removed by applying a wet pad to the area and then placing the hot tip of a soldering iron to the bad. I tried this on a coffee table which had been dented when a heavy object fell on the table top. Not only did it not remove the dent, it ruined the finish. What did I do wrong and what can I do about it now?

A.—We, too, have often seen such advice given. It is correct ONLY if it specifies that this should be done to raw wood, not to wood that has a finish on it. You have no choice now but to take off the finish with a commercial varnish remover and then attempt to work on the dent. But don't expect any magic results. You may have to repeat the process as many as 10 to 20 times before the wood is restored to its original condition. The theory is that the moisture and heat will expand the wood cells and thus eliminate the dent. Several factors, including the kind of wood, enter into the success of the operation, but it usually works. If you do not have a soldering iron, an ordinary household iron can be used.

Q.—Is it necessary to clean all the paint from a brush if latex paint was used?

A.—Yes. Latex paint hardens on the bristles the same as oil paint does. The quicker you remove the latex paint from the brush with water, the easier it will be.

Duplex Preserves Identity

By ANDY LANG

You can look at the outside of this house for a long time without suspecting that it is a duplex.

Although it has two front doors, it is difficult to guess that each leads to a separate, complete three-bedroom unit. Architect William G. Chirgotis has accomplished this by setting back half the house several feet, with each half having distinctively different facades but with both in a Colonial motif.

The rooms in each apartment are identical in size. Each unit has a habitable area of 735 square feet on the first floor, consisting of the living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory; with the same square footage on the second floor, made up of three bedrooms and two baths.

Garages may be detached or are optional at either or both ends. For a sloping lot, the garage may be entered from the rear and located under the living room. If this is done, the sliding rear door of the living room can be replaced with a window.

When entering either foyer, there is an immediate view of the living room with its all-brick fireplace and sliding door leading to the rear yard or patio, thus creating an excellent first impression. The mullion window in the dining room is visible from the living room through an archway.

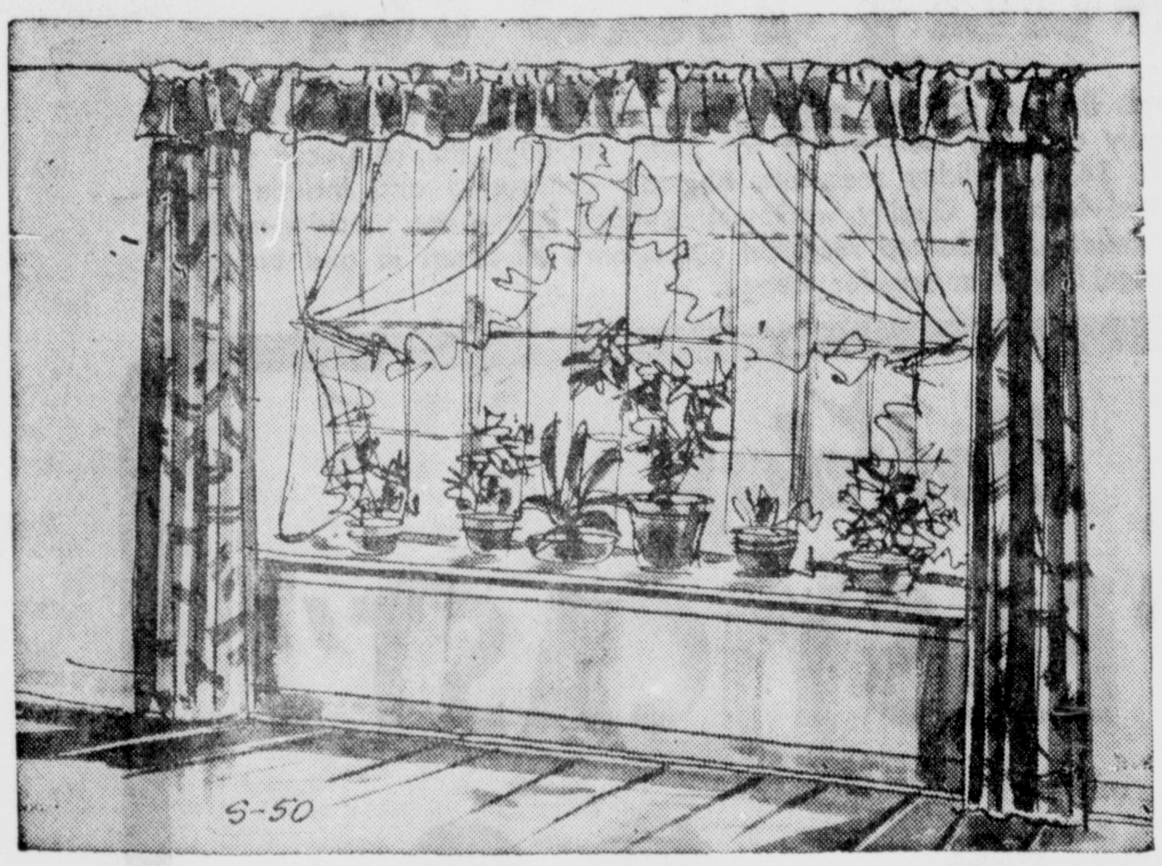
Few women could resist the 18-foot-long kitchen - dinette with its full complement of appliances, countertop, broom closet and every meal eating area large enough to accommodate the family, thus preserving the dining room for formal occasions.

A full basement provides plenty of storage space, laundry area and the possibility of creating a recreation room at a later date. The stairway is entered off the kitchen.

On the second floor, the three bedrooms are located around the upstairs hall. The bathrooms have back-to-back plumbing to minimize costs. Care has been taken to provide ample wall space for beds and furniture. Both bathrooms are equipped with vanities and have full-height tile over the shower-tub. The master bathroom is accessible from the dressing area, which includes a built-in mirrored vanity and a walk-in closet.

With its shingles, narrow beveled siding, corner boards, multi-paned windows, moulded cornices, shutters and doors in the tradition of the Colonial period, Design S-50 will fit in with any surrounding where duplex construction is permitted.

And then of course, there is the economic advantage of this type of house. It permits the owners to live well and to obtain an income — without having a tenant family on the floor above or the floor below.

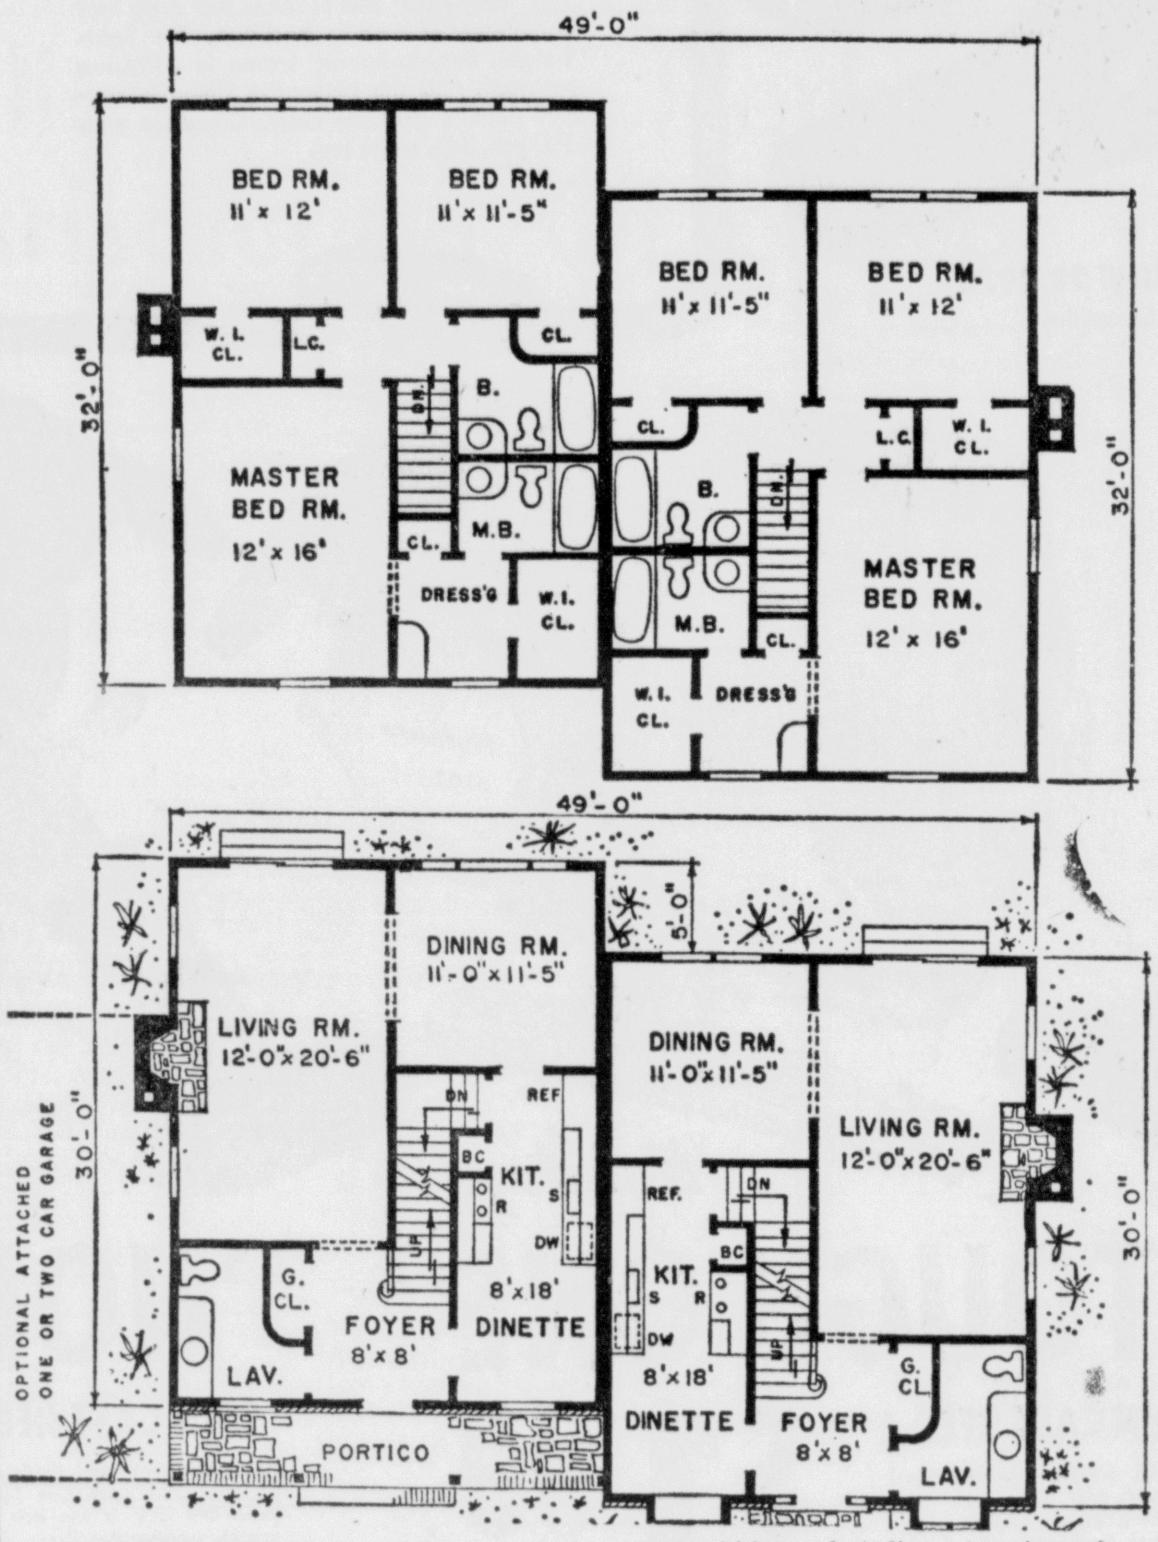


LARGE WINDOW at rear of dining room looks out on rear yard or patio. Room is accessible to kitchen and living room.

APPEARANCE OF A DUPLEX is camouflaged by dropping back half the house and giving it a covered portico, so that its door seems to be only another entrance in a one-family home.

S-50 STATISTICS

Design S-50 is a duplex. Each unit has a living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory on the first floor, totaling 735 square feet. The second floor of each unit has three bedrooms and two bathrooms, also totaling 735 square feet. There is a full basement. The over-all dimensions are 49' by 32'.



FLOOR PLANS: Plenty of living space is packed within modest dimensions in each unit of this duplex arrangement. The kitchen-dinettes are more spacious than similar rooms in houses of this type. Thick center wall acts as sound insulator between units.

Here's The Answer

Q.—I read once that a dent in wood could be removed by applying a wet pad to the area and then placing the hot tip of a soldering iron to the bad. I tried this on a coffee table which had been dented when a heavy object fell on the table top. Not only did it not remove the dent, it ruined the finish. What did I do wrong and what can I do about it now?

A.—We, too, have often seen such advice given. It is correct ONLY if it specifies that this should be done to raw wood, not to wood that has a finish on it. You have no choice now but to take off the finish with a commercial varnish remover and then attempt to work on the dent. But don't expect any magic results. You may have to repeat the process as many as 10 to 20 times before the wood is restored to its original condition. The theory is that the moisture and heat will expand the wood cells and thus eliminate the dent. Several factors, including the kind of wood, enter into the success of the operation, but it usually works. If you do not have a soldering iron, an ordinary household iron can be used.

Q.—Is it necessary to clean all the paint from a brush if latex paint was used?

A.—Yes. Latex paint hardens on the bristles the same as oil paint does. The quicker you remove the latex paint from the brush with water, the easier it will be.

The long awaited camping season is in full swing throughout the Upper Peninsula, and this week, for the ninth year in a row, band students from the Escanaba Area Junior High School are taking full advantage of the summer band camp.

A total of 73 seventh ,eighth and ninth grade students, nine counselor students, and eight staff members, have embarked upon the beautiful wilderness of Clear Lake for a week of unforgetable enjoyment.

Included among the various activities of the students are scheduled concert rehearsals. Group, sectional, and private rehearsals are held daily in preparation for a concert to be held at 2 p. m. on Saturday. All students will participate in the concert, including new students who will be attending seventh grade at the Junior High for the first time.

The public is invited to attend the concert which will be held outside at the Clear Lake Camp. Clear Lake is located 4½ miles south of Shingleton on M-94, and five miles east of M-94 in Hiawatha National Forest. Band directors said they would have direction signs posted in the area on Saturday.

Dave Laakso, band director at the Escanaba Junior High is director of the one week camp. He is assisted by James Keranen, band director for the Negaunee High School; Ken Erickson, band director for the Munising High School; John Chown, band director for the Escanaba Area Public Schools; and Conrad Beck, head of the vocal music department for the Escanaba Area Public Schools.

Laakso pointed out that the assistance of the other instructors offers a variation that has proved to be very helpful in the past years.

Each day at the camp begins with a polar bear swim, for those that can take it, which usually leaves a few shivering bodies around the 8 a. m. breakfast table.

At 9 a. m. the students gather for a full band rehearsal and practice for about an hour and a half, and from 10:30 till noon the instructors hold private and sectional lessons with various individuals while the others are free for recreation.

Following lunch there is a 30-minute rest period for all students, as required by law.

Starting at 1 p. m. for about an hour and a half, there are more sectional and private rehearsals and from 2:30 until 5:30 students are free to swim, under supervision, or spend the time as they wish.

Supper is served promptly at 5:30 and at 6:30 all students gather for an hour of full band rehearsal. Evening recreation is held from 7:30 until 9:15 and is supervised by Conrad Beck. When the planned activities do not last until 9:15 the students gather in the recreation hall and dance to the music of their favorite rock singers.

There are four cabins for boys and five cabins for girls, located at opposite ends of the camp. Each cabin sleeps eight persons and cabin members are responsible for their own housekeeping.

A daily duty roster designates the chores for members of each cabin, such as doing dishes after each meal, cleaning rest rooms, cleaning the recreation hall, etc.

Meals are prepared by Mrs. Linda DuPont and Mrs. Rose Rudden according to a weekly menu made out in advance .

Mrs. Norman Lindquist, registered nurse, is on hand at all times to administer first aid or handle emergency problems that might arise.

There are nine counselor students, two of which are qualified life guards, on duty to supervise all swimming activities, in addition to staff members.

Camp director David Laakso, stated that funds to operate the yearly band campout are not taken from school taxes. Each student absorbs half of the tuition expenses and the rest is taken from the scholarship fund, comprised of money taken in from the student candy sale and donations from people attending school concerts.

State Senate Puts Aside Controversial Measures

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Senate temporarily set aside such controversial issues as pollution control and drug law reform Thursday, moving ahead on numerous other bills in an effort to clear lesser business before a hoped-for adjournment next week.

Before proceeding with its calendar, however, the Senate gave final approval to a bill that would authorize bus drivers, cabbies and truckers to pile up twice as many penalty points as ordinary drivers before disciplinary action would be taken.

The Senate concurred in a minor House amendment to the drivers' bill and sent it to the desk of Gov. William Milliken.

Also settled for the moment was the question of a fish ladder for the Presque Isle River.

Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, fought long for the fish ladder—a series of "steps" allowing spawning fish to swim upstream past falls to lay their eggs—and won Senate approval earlier.

The house rejected that proposal, included in a supplementary spending bill, and inserted its own favored project at Craig Lake.

A conference committee tried to compromise on the issues, but the Senate rejected the committee version of the bill, as well as the fish ladder proposal. Some said they did not want the question to tie up all the other projects included in the bill.

The House must now decide whether it will back away from Craig Lake project or throw the bill into a second conference.

Also given final approval in the Senate was a bill extending the state's present open-ended interest rate on home mortgage loans. That measure now goes to Milliken.

Postponed at least for the day Thursday were bills dealing with narcotics and private citizen suits against business and government for pollution.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a House bill limiting the grounds on which an insurance company may cancel an individual's automobile insurance in mid-term.

Under the bill, a company would be allowed to cancel an automobile insurance policy within the first 55 days of issue only if the person covered has had his operator's license suspended during the police period and the revocation or suspen- has become final.

State Insurance Commissioner Russell E. Van Hooser said the bill would be "a means of guaranteeing some reasonable period of automobile liability protection."

'Happy Days' Proves Unhappy Video Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Happy Days," CBS's summer replacement for Jim Nabors, had its premiere Thursday night and was an unhappy hour. It may make a little television history by infuriating the older members of the audience while boring the younger ones.

The show opened with Louis Nye, in Busby Berkeley white evening clothes, announcing "I am the 1930s—and welcome to those happy days."

This invitation gave a lot of people a chance to recall how happy they were in those depression days. From there the program tried to satirize and romanticize the period at approximately the same time. It kidded and camped old songs, apparently on the theory that the young viewers would be amused while the old folks would be bathed in nostalgic memories upon hearing "Three Little Fishies."

The catch-all devices may have sounded pretty good when devised but they didn't work out.

It was a very busy show. A couple of fellows kept popping up with marvelous impersonations of Laurel and Hardy although they were not particularly funny. That man who imitates W. C. Fields in the commercials was hired to appear with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy but the dialogue lacked the wit and vinegar of the old radio-show feud. A maladroit escape artist writhed in a bag through much of the hour. Bob and Ray, funny guys on their own time, were mired in a spoof of a forgotten old radio program.

A pair of dancers imitated Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers —scarcely a good subject since the old Astaire and Rogers films are all over television in reruns.

The crowning bad taste was in presenting performers like Helen O'Connell, Ray Eberle and drummer Buddy Rich out of context. Miss O'Connell and Eberle, for instance, stood in front of a band and sang some of their prewar hits, including "Tangerine." They played it straight, then the show cut away to some sniggering material suggesting it was all elderly square stuff.

It was big on color—fellows in dinner jackets and small, neat bow ties, big radio microphones and even saxophone solos from the band. Louis Nye, who didn't have much to do and seemed uncomfortable doing it, acted as host-announcer.

Even by hot weather standards, the program was something less than TV's finest hour.

Meanwhile, this viewer will turn the television monitoring over to Jerry Buck during a four-week vacation, then resume from Hollywood.

State Senate Puts Aside Controversial Measures

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Senate temporarily set aside such controversial issues as pollution control and drug law reform Thursday, moving ahead on numerous other bills in an effort to clear lesser business before a hoped-for adjournment next week.

Before proceeding with its calendar, however, the Senate gave final approval to a bill that would authorize bus drivers, cabbies and truckers to pile up twice as many penalty points as ordinary drivers before disciplinary action would be taken.

The Senate concurred in a minor House amendment to the drivers' bill and sent it to the desk of Gov. William Milliken.

Also settled for the moment was the question of a fish ladder for the Presque Isle River. Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, fought long for the fish ladder—a series of "steps" allowing spawning fish to swim upstream past falls to lay their eggs—and won Senate approval earlier.

The house rejected that proposal, included in a supplementary spending bill, and inserted its own favored project at Craig Lake.

A conference committee tried to compromise on the issues, but the Senate rejected the committee version of the bill, as well as the fish ladder proposal. Some said they did not want the question to tie up all the other projects included in the bill.

The House must now decide whether it will back away from Craig Lake project or throw the bill into a second conference.

Also given final approval in the Senate was a bill extending the state's present open-ended interest rate on home mortgage loans. That measure now goes to Milliken.

Postponed at least for the day Thursday were bills dealing with narcotics and private citizen suits against business and government for pollution.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a House bill limiting the grounds on which an insurance company may cancel an individual's automobile insurance in mid-term.

Under the bill, a company would be allowed to cancel an automobile insurance policy within the first 55 days of issue only if the person covered has had his operator's license suspended during the police period and the revocation or suspenhas become final.

State Insurance Commissioner Russell E. Van Hooser said the bill would be "a means of guaranteeing some reasonable period of automobile liability protection."

The funds will be used to purchase equipment for training programs in drafting and design, office education, electronics, mechanical technoligy and practical nursing.

'Happy Days' Proves Unhappy Video Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Happy Days," CBS's summer replacement for Jim Nabors, had its premiere Thursday night and was an unhappy hour. It may make a little television history by infuriating the older members of the audience while boring the younger ones.

The show opened with Louis Nye, in Busby Berkeley white evening clothes, announcing "I am the 1930s—and welcome to those happy days."

This invitation gave a lot of people a chance to recall how happy they were in those depression days. From there the program tried to satirize and romanticize the period at approximately the same time. It kidded and camped old songs, apparently on the theory that the young viewers would be amused while the old folks would be bathed in nostalgic memories upon hearing "Three Little Fishies."

The catch-all devices may have sounded pretty good when devised but they didnt't work out.

It was a very busy show. A couple of fellows kept popping up with marvelous impersonations of Laurel and Hardy although they were not particularly funny. That man who imitates W. C. Fields in the commercials was hired to appear with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy but the dialogue lacked the wit and vinegar of the old radio-show feud. A maladroit escape artist writhed in a bag through much of the hour. Bob and Ray, funny guys on their own time, were mired in a spoof of a forgotten old radio program.

A pair of dancers imitated Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers—scarcely a good subject since the old Astaire and Rogers films are all over television in reruns.

The crowning bad taste was in presenting performers like Helen O'Connell, Ray Eberle and drummer Buddy Rich out of context. Miss O'Connell and Eberle, for instance, stood in front of a band and sang some of their prewar hits, including "Tangerine." They played it straight, then the show cut away to some sniggering material suggesting it was all elderly square stuff.

It was big on color—fellows in dinner jackets and small, neat bow ties, big radio microphones and even saxophone solos from the band. Louis Nye, who didn't have much to do and seemed uncomfortable doing it, acted as host-announcer.

Even by hot weather standards, the program was something less than TV's finest hour.

Sale Approved

OTTAWA (AP)—The Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) has announced approval for the purchase of CKLW-TV, Windsor, Ontario, by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. (CBC) and Baton Broadcasting, Ltd., of Toronto under an agreement to give the CBC full ownership in five years. The announcement follows a long series of negotiations between the CRTC, Canadian broadcasters and RKO General, Inc., the U.S. firm that owned CKLW-TV. The price paid by the publicly-owned CBC and Baton, owned by the Toronto Telegram publishing interests, was not announced.

Alomar Closing In On DiMaggio's Hitting Record?

By The Associated Press

A Joe DiMaggio he is not, but slamming Sandy Alomar is closing in on the longest hitting streak in nine American League seasons.

"I'd like to hit in 57 straight games, but the main thing is winning," the peppery little second baseman of the California Angels said Thursday night after stroking two hits and running his string to 20 straight games as the Angels whipped Chicago 7-3.

Nears 1961 Record

Alomar was referring to the former New York Yankee great's 56-game hitting streak of 1941 which hasn't been threatened since. However, he is only four games away from the 24 straight that Lennie Green of the Minnesota Twins hit in 1961. The 5-foot-9, 155-pounder equaled the 1969 best of 20 by Ted Uhlaender.

In other AL games, the Yankees stopped Cleveland 3-1, Baltimore bombed Boston 13-8 in 14 innings, Detroit nipped Washington 2-1, and Milwaukee dropped Minnesota 4-1.

Left-hander Clyde Wright picked up his 10th victory of the season for the Angels and drove in four runs with a pair of singles and a double. He was lifted in the eighth after surrendering a two-run homer to Bill Melton. Tom McCraw also homered for the Sox.

Kissing Gal Returns

To complete the evening, a pretty young miss dashed from the stands in the third inning and planted a kiss on the cheek of Angels' outfielder Billy Cowan while he was at bat.

It apparently was the same young female who last year kissed Atlanta's Clete Boyer and Washington's Frank Howard.

It apparently unsettled John, who immediately uncorked a wild pitch but Cowan wasn't rattled, drilling a triple after the incident.

Roy White drove in all three New York runs with a triple and double, helping Fritz Peterson pick up his 10th victory.

White, hitting a robust .347 and tied for second in the league with Baltimore's Boog Powell with 52 runs batted in, punched an opposite field triple to left in the first inning, knocking in the first Yankee run and looped a two-run double to right, driving in a pair in the third.

Peterson was tagged for nine hits and one run in five innings, but shut off the Indians without a hit after that.

Murcer Stopped

Bobby Murcer, the Yanks center fielder who had rapped four homers in as many official at bats Wednesday tying a major league record, walked in the first but was stopped in the third when he popped to second.

Baltimore came from seven runs down and then scored six times in the 14th inning to down the Red Sox. The Orioles tied it in the ninth at 7-7 then unloaded in the 14th on run-scoring hits by Don Buford, Frank Robinson and two-run doubles by Powell and Merv Rettenmund.

Billy Conigliaro and Jerry Moses homered for the Red Sox while Frank Robinson, Rettenmund and Dave Johnson rapped blasts for the Orioles.

Polio Victim Leads Cleveland Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Hinson, a highly personable young man who overcame the handicap of a polio-withered left arm to become one of the most of the consistent money-winners on the pro golf tour, almost made a boo-boo after taking the first-round lead in the $150,00 Cleveland Open with a five-under-par 65.

"I haven't won yet this year," the 25-year-old boyish blond said Thursday, "but I'm playing good enough to win. When I do, I hope it's Dow Jones."

He surveyed the somewhat surprised faces of the Cleveland reporters than hastily added, "Of course, I'd like to win here, too."

Dow Jones late this summer is the richest stop on the pro tour, a $300,00 event with a $60,00 prize to the winner.

Hinson ran in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to break out of a logjam of players and take sole control of the lead over a group of five others who matched 66s.

They included Lee Trevino, who said he had to win $2,000 this week to break even; Dave Hill, playing the 6,661-yard par-7' Aurora Country Club course for the first time; rookie Bill Brask; Grier Jones, and Tommy Aaron.

Bob Menne, Dick Carmody and Billy Maxwell shot 67s while those in the 68 group included Bert Greene, Tom Weiskopf, Bob Charles, Bob Murphy, Frank Beard and Mason Rudolph. Defending champion Charles Coody had a 72, well back.

Among the missing are recently crowned U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gary Player, all preparing for the British Open.

It was their absence that prompted Tournament Director Paul Warren to press Trevino to enter the event he had planned to skip.

"I asked my wife if I could play at Cleveland," Trevino said. " 'No way.' she said. Then she said she'd make a deal with me. She'd let me play in Cleveland if I'd take her to the British Open. So I've got to win $2,000 this week just to break even."

Hill had a remarkable round including eight birdies, two bogeys and a double bogey. He played the back side first and made the turn in 29, matching the best nine-hole score on the tour this year.

"It's some kind of tight out there," he said. "It's a tough little course. It rewards a good shot, but if you hit it crooked you could be out there until next year's tournament."

Hill, fined and reprimanded for his criticism of the Hazeltine course in last week's U.S. Open, attracted a large part of the gallery.

He was comparatively subdued.

"Didn't see any cows or corn," he said, "but there were a lot of chipmunks."

He was criticized last week for commenting that Hazeltine needed "eighty acres of corn and four cows."

Athletic Commission To Decide Clay-Frazier Bout

SEATTLE (AP) — The Washington State Athletic Commission decides Friday if Cassius Clay will meet Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world in Seattle.

The commission will rule whether Clay gets a license to meet Frazier in a fight probably staged in Seattle in September.

The meeting will be held in Tacoma, Wash.

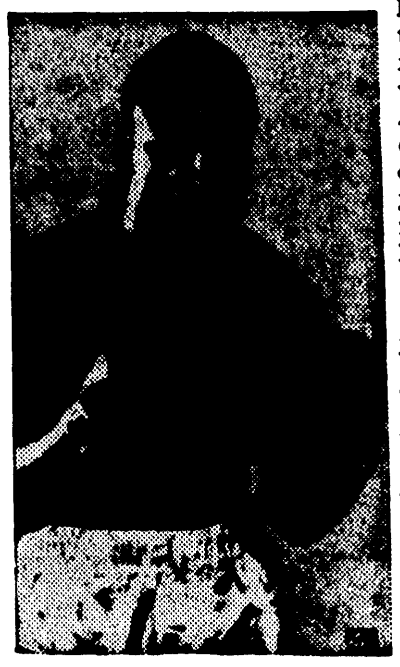
A group of businessmen from Tacoma are hopeful of staging such a match and are optimistic about Clay getting approval from the commission.

Detroit Ready

If the Seattle bout falls through, a Detroit group is ready to stage the match.

Commission member James Rondeau said he favors licensing Clay, Commission Chairman Harry Lynch said he opposes the licenses and commissioner W. R. "Red" Reese said he could go either way.

The 28-year-old Clay was stripped of his title in 1967 when he refused induction in the military. In the three years following his conviction on charges of violating the Selective Services Act, Clay has been refused licenses to fight. He shunned induction as a conscientious objector. He is a Black Muslim minister and calls himself Muhammad Ali.



Joe Frazier

Objector Status

The recent moves to get Clay a license follow a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court redefining conscientious objector status.

Clay's New York attorney, Robert Arum, wired a Tacoma attorney earlier this week authorizing him to file Clay's boxing application. Arum said other states had indicated a willingness to grant Clay a license and said "unless we have a speedy determination no later than Friday from Washington State, we may accept fight elsehwere."

Chisox Shortstop Tops AL Balloting

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Aparicio, veteran shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, moved into the lead over Boston's Rico Petrocelli in the weekly fan balloting for the American League All-Star team announced today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Aparicio led Petrocelli by only 485 votes, 220,298 to 219,813 among the 902,393 votes counted so far in the balloting that ends next week.

Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota slugger, widened his lead over Brooks Robinson of Baltimore to nearly 30,000 votes in the third base battle, the only other close contest.

The leader in total votes is Bill Freehan, Detroit catcher, with 454,690 with Boog Powell, Baltimore first baseman, close behind with 452,937.

Although Rod Carew, Minnesota second baseman, underwent surgery early in the week and will not be able to play, he still maintained a comfortable lead with 421,864. The next man is Dick McAuliffe of Detroit with 90,045.

The leaders remain unchanged in the outfield competition with Frank Robinson of Baltimore, 372,449; Frank Howard of Washington 326,484 and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, 305,562. The only other outfielder over the 100,000 mark is Tony Oliva of Minnesota with 203,015.

The National League leaders in balloting for the teams to meet July 14 at Cincinnati include Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, catcher; Richie Allen, St. Louis, first base; Glenn Beckert, Chicago, second base; Tony Perez, Cincinnati, third base; Don Kessinger, Chicago, shortstop, and Rico Carty and Hank Aaron, Atlanta, and Willie Mays, San Francisco, outfielders.

Williams Upset

Brown Gets Key Hit In Tigers 2-1 Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)— Gates Brown says he knew he would be thrown a curve. He got a fast ball, and Ted Williams didn't like it.

"Had to get a curve ball," said Brown after his pinch hit two-out single broke a tie and gave Detroit a 2-1 victory over Washington Thursday night. "In a similar situation last year, I got a fast ball and I hit a triple.

Brown Surprised

"I heard Williams yell out of the dugout, 'Doesn't anybody in this league throw anything but fast balls.' So I figured he would remember that incident and see to it that I got curve balls."

Williams, now in his second year as manager of the Senators, said he remembered the game last year in which Brown got the pinch triple. He said former Washington pitcher Dennis Higgins threw a fast ball on just about every pitch.

"Mickey Stanley strated it and then Brown gets the triple," said Williams. "So after yelling about the fast balls, I went out to talk to him. I told him to throw some curves. He did and we stopped the rally.

"But did you see that curve ball Brown was thrown tonight. It was up in here and right over the plate," he said, waving his hand over his midsection.

Tigers Score

The Tigers, winners of four out of their last five and 14 of 20, scored a run in the second on Willie Horton's single, Jim Northrup's double and Elliott Maddox's infield out.

The Senators tied it up in the third when pitcher Dick Bosman scored on Frank Howard's sacrifice fly.

Northrup led off the seventh with a single off Bosman but was out stealing when a hit and run misfired. Bill Freehan and Maddox followed with singles but pinch hitter Norm Cash forced Maddox on a hard hit ground ball on which the Senators missed a double play.

Cain Wins

Brown batted for winning pitcher Les Cain and laced a single to right to score Freehan.

"I was just lucky," said Brown. "I've been feeling a lot better lately. I'm seeing the ball better.

"I also changed the way I hold the bat. I was cradling the bat but now I hold it straight up. I can get more whip that way."

After going zero for 12 in his pinch hit role, Brown has now picked up five hits in his last 10 at bats.

"Just trying to make contact," he said. "Just trying to keep from striking out."

Tom Timmerman, the fireman of the week pulled a save for Cain, who has a 5-2 record. Timmerman posted his seventh save of eight relief appearances since rejoining the Bengals from Toledo.

River Post Wins; Regains 1st Place In Slow Pitch

Last Night's Results
River Post 9, Lombardi's 8

River Post (6-2) moved back into the top spot by a few percentage points over Heynssen-Selins (7-3) Thursday night in the Escanaba Slow Pitch League with a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over Lombardi's.

River Post, trailing 8-2 going into the sixth inning, scored four times in the sixth and three more times in the last inning to post its sixth victory of the season.

Jim Sargent and Myron Jackson had the key hits in the last inning, as Sargent homered to tie the game and Jackson, with two out, lined a single to center to score the winning run.

John Ettenhofer paced Lombardi's with a homer, while Phil Hiney of River Post snared the mound victory from Joe Hiller.

Mud Hens Win

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) —The Toledo Mud Hens were out-hit but not out-scored in Thursday night baseball as they edged the International League leading Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 at Toledo.

Gary Taylor gave up six hits but held the Chiefs scoreless through eight innings, then gave up two singles in the ninth and yielded the mound to Norm McRae.

'Lippy' Prefers June Swoon To September Sag

By The Associated Press

It's better, says manager Leo Durocher, for his Chicago Cubs to do a June swoon than a September sag, which last year cost them the National League East pennant.

"If we have to run into a slump, I'd rather do it now than later on," said a surprisingly composed Durocher after the World Champion New York Mets wrapped up a five-game sweep, with an 8-3 triumph Thursday and took a 1½-game lead over the reeling Cubs.

7 Game Slump

It's quite a slump, longest of the season at seven games, including last Sunday's double loss to St. Louis, and a collapse out of the league lead the Bruins held for 83 days.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat St. Louis 3-2 and Philadelphia edged Montreal 3-2 in 11 innings. The Los Angeles-Atlanta game was rained out.

You might say the Mets stole first place from the daxed Cubs, swiping 10 bases in the five-game set, which was a financial if completely nonartistic success with 116,071 packing Wrigley Field in four days.

But Leo conceded the resurgence of the Mets, who did virtually the same thing to the Cubs last September, was due to more than basepath fleetness, which already has produced a club record of 74 thefts.

"Everytime they swung the bat against us this week they got a hit," said Durocher, whose Cubs ended a disastrous home stand.

It was Jim Hichman who accounted for all three Cub runs as Jerry Koosman rode a six-run second inning to his third vicvictory in seven decision. Hickman slammed a two-run homer in the sixth after punching a run-scoring single in the fourth.

2 Double Steals

In the big Met second, six hits, three errors and a double steal, anchored Ken Holtzman with his fifth loss against eight wins. The Mets pulled another double steal in the seventh, with Joe Foy swiping home.

Steve Carlton of the Cards was breezing toward his second straight shutout and had a 2-0 lead when the Pirates erupted in the ninth. Bob Robertson's triple, Al Oliver's double and a triple by Dave Cash tied the score. After an intentional walk to Jerry May, Richie Hebner hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run.

The Phillies also got their winning run on a sacrifice fly. Byron Brown drove in Don Money, who singled, was sacrificed to second and reached third on a wild pitch.

Browne also hit a two-run homer in the second and made a leaping catch of Rusty Staub's drive in the sixth and turned it into a double play. Staub homered for the Expos in the first, his ninth.

Alomar Closing In On DiMaggio's Hitting Record?

By The Associated Press

A Joe DiMaggio he is not, but slamming Sandy Alomar is closing in on the longest hitting streak in nine American League seasons.

"I'd like to hit in 57 straight games, but the main thing is winning," the peppery little second baseman of the California Angels said Thursday night after stroking two hits and running his string to 20 straight games as the Angels whipped Chicago 7-3.

Nears 1961 Record

Alomar was referring to the former New York Yankee great's 56-game hitting streak of 1941 which hasn't been threatened since. However, he is only four games away from the 24 straight that Lennie Green of the Minnesota Twins hit in 1961. The 5-foot-9, 155-pounder equaled the 1969 best of 20 by Ted Uhlaender.

In other AL games, the Yankees stopped Cleveland 3-1, Baltimore bombed Boston 13-8 in 14 innings, Detroit nipped Washington 2-1, and Milwaukee dropped Minnesota 4-1.

Left-hander Clyde Wright picked up his 10th victory of the season for the Angels and drove in four runs with a pair of singles and a double. He was lifted in the eighth after surrendering a two-run homer to Bill Melton. Tom McCraw also homered for the Sox.

Kissing Gal Returns

To complete the evening, a pretty young miss dashed from the stands in the third inning and planted a kiss on the cheek of Angels' outfielder Billy Cowan while he was at bat.

It apparently was the same young female who last year kissed Atlanta's Clete Boyer and Washington's Frank Howard.

It apparently unsettled John, who immediately uncorked a wild pitch but Cowan wasn't rattled, drilling a triple after the incident.

Roy White drove in all three New York runs with a triple and double, helping Fritz Peterson pick up his 10th victory.

White, hitting a robust .347 and tied for second in the league with Baltimore's Boog Powell with 52 runs batted in, punched an opposite field triple to left in the first inning, knocking in the first Yankee run and looped a two-run double to right, driving in a pair in the third.

Peterson was tagged for nine hits and one run in five innings, but shut off the Indians without a hit after that.

Murcer Stopped

Bobby Murcer, the Yanks center fielder who had rapped four homers in as many official at bats Wednesday tying a major league record, walked in the first but was stopped in the third when he popped to second.

Baltimore came from seven runs down and then scored six times in the 14th inning to down the Red Sox. The Orioles tied it in the ninth at 7-7 then unloaded in the 14th on run-scoring hits by Don Buford, Frank Robinson and two-run doubles by Powell and Merv Rettenmund.

Billy Conigliaro and Jerry Moses homered for the Red Sox while Frank Robinson, Rettenmund and Dave Johnson rapped blasts for the Orioles.

Polio Victim Leads Cleveland Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Hinson, a highly personable young man who overcame the handicap of a polio-withered left arm to become one of the most of the consistent money-winners on the pro golf tour, almost made a boo-boo after taking the first-round lead in the $150,00 Cleveland Open with a five-under-par 65.

"I haven't won yet this year," the 25-year-old boyish blond said Thursday, "but I'm playing good enough to win. When I do, I hope it's Dow Jones."

He surveyed the somewhat surprised faces of the Cleveland reporters than hastily added, "Of course, I'd like to win here, too."

Dow Jones late this summer is the richest stop on the pro tour, a $300,00 event with a $60,00 prize to the winner.

Hinson ran in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to break out of a logjam of players and take sole control of the lead over a group of five others who matched 66s.

They included Lee Trevino, who said he had to win $2,000 this week to break even; Dave Hill, playing the 6,661-yard par-7' Aurora Country Club course for the first time; rookie Bill Brask; Grier Jones, and Tommy Aaron.

Bob Menne, Dick Carmody and Billy Maxwell shot 67s while those in the 68 group included Bert Greene, Tom Weiskopf, Bob Charles, Bob Murphy, Frank Beard and Mason Rudolph. Defending champion Charles Coody had a 72, well back.

Among the missing are recently crowned U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gary Player, all preparing for the British Open.

It was their absence that prompted Tournament Director Paul Warren to press Trevino to enter the event he had planned to skip.

"I asked my wife if I could play at Cleveland," Trevino said. " 'No way,' she said. Then she said she'd make a deal with me. She'd let me play in Cleveland if I'd take her to the British Open. So I've got to win $2,000 this week just to break even."

Hill had a remarkable round including eight birdies, two bogeys and a double bogey. He played the back side first and made the turn in 29, matching the best nine-hole score on the tour this year.

"It's some kind of tight out there," he said. "It's a tough little course. It rewards a good shot, but if you hit it crooked you could be out there until next year's tournament."

Hill, fined and reprimanded for his criticism of the Hazeltine course in last week's U.S. Open, attracted a large part of the gallery.

He was comparatively subdued.

"Didn't see any cows or corn," he said, "but there were a lot of chipmunks."

He was criticized last week for commenting that Hazeltine needed "eighty acres of corn and four cows."

Athletic Commission To Decide Clay-Frazier Bout

SEATTLE (AP) — The Washington State Athletic Commission decides Friday if Cassius Clay will meet Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world in Seattle.

The commission will rule whether Clay gets a license to meet Frazier in a fight probably staged in Seattle in September.

The meeting will be held in Tacoma, Wash.

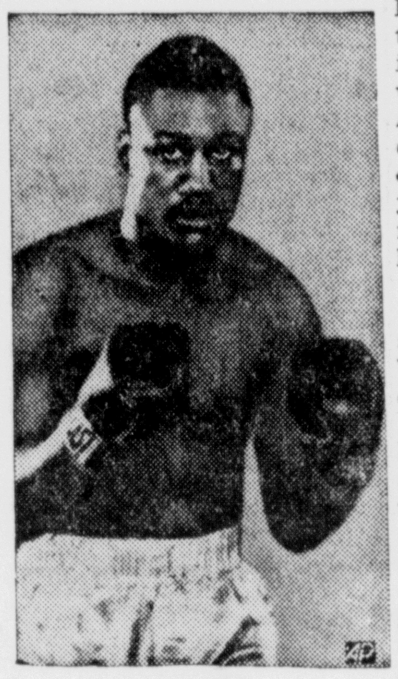
A group of businessmen from Tacoma are hopeful of staging such a match and are optimistic about Clay getting approval from the commission.

Detroit Ready

If the Seattle bout falls through, a Detroit group is ready to stage the match.

Commission member James Rondeau said he favors licensing Clay, Commission Chairman Harry Lynch said he opposes the licenses and commissioner W. R. "Red" Reese said he could go either way.

The 28-year-old Clay was stripped of his title in 1967 when he refused induction in the military. In the three years following his conviction on charges of violating the Selective Services Act, Clay has been refused licenses to fight. He shunned induction as a conscientious objector. He is a Black Muslim minister and calls himself Muhammad Ali.



Joe Frazier

Objector Status

The recent moves to get Clay a license follow a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court redefining conscientious objector status.

Clay's New York attorney, Robert Arum, wired a Tacoma attorney earlier this week authorizing him to file Clay's boxing application. Arum said other states had indicated a willingness to grant Clay a license and said "unless we have a speedy determination no later than Friday from Washington State, we may accept fight elsehwere."

Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota slugger, widened his lead over Brooks Robinson of Baltimore to nearly 30,000 votes in the third base battle, the only other close contest.

The leader in total votes is Bill Freehan, Detroit catcher, with 454,690 with Boog Powell, Baltimore first baseman, close behind with 452,937.

Although Rod Carew, Minnesota second baseman, underwent surgery early in the week and will not be able to play, he still maintained a comfortable lead with 421,864. The next man is Dick McAuliffe of Detroit with 90,045.

Brown Gets Key Hit In Tigers 2-1 Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)— Gates Brown says he knew he would be thrown a curve. He got a fast ball, and Ted Williams didn't like it.

"Had to get a curve ball," said Brown after his pinch hit two-out single broke a tie and gave Detroit a 2-1 victory over Washington Thursday night. "In a similar situation last year, I got a fast ball and I hit a triple.

Brown Surprised

"I heard Williams yell out of the dugout, 'Doesn't anybody in this league throw anything but fast balls.' So I figured he would remember that incident and see to it that I got curve balls."

Williams, now in his second year as manager of the Senators, said he remembered the game last year in which Brown got the pinch triple. He said former Washington pitcher Dennis Higgins threw a fast ball on just about every pitch.

Tigers Score

The Tigers, winners of four out of their last five and 14 of 20, scored a run in the second on Willie Horton's single, Jim Northrup's double and Elliott Maddox's infield out.

The Senators tied it up in the third when pitcher Dick Bosman scored on Frank Howard's sacrifice fly.

Northrup led off the seventh with a single off Bosman but was out stealing when a hit and run misfired. Bill Freehan and Maddox followed with singles but pinch hitter Norm Cash forced Maddox on a hard hit ground ball on which the Senators missed a double play.

Cain Wins

Brown batted for winning pitcher Les Cain and laced a single to right to score Freehan.

"I was just lucky," said Brown. "I've been feeling a lot better lately. I'm seeing the ball better.

"I also changed the way I hold the bat. I was cradling the bat but now I hold it straight up. I can get more whip that way."

After going zero for 12 in his pinch hit role, Brown has now picked up five hits in his last 10 at bats.

"Just trying to make contact," he said. "Just trying to keep from striking out."

Tom Timmerman, the fireman of the week pulled a save for Cain, who has a 5-2 record. Timmerman posted his seventh save of eight relief appearances since rejoining the Bengals from Toledo.

Felch LL Upends Hermansville 2-1

FELCH—Manager Reno Fochesato's Hermansville Little Leaguers turned in an impressive performance at Felch Wednesday evening but were nipped 2-1 in a pitcher's battle between Tim Fabry and Sundholm, Felch twirler.

Hermansville and Felch both trying to stay in contention in the Iron Mountain Little League turned in impression performances. Hermansville had three hits, Steve Maule had a single and Tim Fabry had two hits including a double.

Felch had four hits off Hermansville hurler Fabry including singles to Burrow, Sundholm, Oman and Sundholm helped his own cause with a double also.

Fabry struck out 14 Felch batsmen and Sundholm had 12 strikeouts to his credit.

Hermansville scored its only run in the sixth inning but Felch had runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

'Lippy' Prefers June Swoon To September Sag

By The Associated Press

It's better, says manager Leo Durocher, for his Chicago Cubs to do a June swoon than a September sag, which last year cost them the National League East pennant.

"If we have to run into a slump, I'd rather do it now than later on," said a surprisingly composed Durocher after the World Champion New York Mets wrapped up a five-game sweep, with an 8-3 triumph Thursday and took a 1½-game lead over the reeling Cubs.

7 Game Slump

It's quite a slump, longest of the season at seven games, including last Sunday's double loss to St. Louis, and a collapse out of the league lead the Bruins held for 83 days.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat St. Louis 3-2 and Philadelphia edged Montreal 3-2 in 11 innings. The Los Angeles-Atlanta game was rained out.

You might say the Mets stole first place from the daxed Cubs, swiping 10 bases in the five-game set, which was a financial if completely nonartistic success with 116,071 packing Wrigley Field in four days.

But Leo conceded the resurgence of the Mets, who did virtually the same thing to the Cubs last September, was due to more than basepath fleetness, which already has produced a club record of 74 thefts.

"Everytime they swung the bat against us this week they got a hit," said Durocher, whose Cubs ended a disastrous home stand.

It was Jim Hichman who accounted for all three Cub runs as Jerry Koosman rode a six-run second inning to his third vicvictory in seven decision. Hickman slammed a two-run homer in the sixth after punching a run-scoring single in the fourth.

2 Double Steals

In the big Met second, six hits, three errors and a double steal, anchored Ken Holtzman with his fifth loss against eight wins. The Mets pulled another double steal in the seventh, with Joe Foy swiping home.

Steve Carlton of the Cards was breezing toward his second straight shutout and had a 2-0 lead when the Pirates erupted in the ninth. Bob Robertson's triple, Al Oliver's double and a triple by Dave Cash tied the score. After an intentional walk to Jerry May, Richie Hebner hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run.

The Phillies also got their winning run on a sacrifice fly. Byron Brown drove in Don Money, who singled, was sacrificed to second and reached third on a wild pitch.

Browne also hit a two-run homer in the second and made a leaping catch of Rusty Staub's drive in the sixth and turned it into a double play. Staub homered for the Expos in the first, his ninth.

River Post Wins; Regains 1st Place In Slow Pitch

River Post 9, Lombardi's 8

River Post (6-2) moved back into the top spot by a few percentage points over Heynssen-Selins (7-3) Thursday night in the Escanaba Slow Pitch League with a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over Lombardi's.

River Post, trailing 8-2 going into the sixth inning, scored four times in the sixth and three more times in the last inning to post its sixth victory of the season.

Jim Sargent and Myron Jackson had the key hits in the last inning, as Sargent homered to tie the game and Jackson, with two out, lined a single to center to score the winning run.

John Ettenhofer paced Lombardi's with a homer, while Phil Hiney of River Post snared the mound victory from Joe Hiller.

Mud Hens Win

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) —The Toledo Mud Hens were out-hit but not out-scored in Thursday night baseball as they edged the International League leading Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 at Toledo.

Gary Taylor gave up six hits but held the Chiefs scoreless through eight innings, then gave up two singles in the ninth and yielded the mound to Norm McRae.

McRae struck out Tony Solaita, gave up a two-run single to Len Boehmer, struck out Frank Baker and enticed Bobby Cox to bounce into a game-ending force out.

The Mud hens were out - hit by the Chiefs 9-6.

Diane Marie Martin Wed To Kenneth Scott

Diane Marie Martin became the bride of Kenneth Michael Scott of Rochester during a ceremony performed at 12 a.m. Saturday, June 20, at St. Francis de Sales Church.

Fr. Arnold Grambow officiated at the double ring nuptials. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin of 514 N. Mackinac and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Scott of Rochester.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of organdy sheer over taffeta which featured long puffed sleeves and a full cathedral train attached to the empire waist.

A velvet bow with seed pearls secured the fingertip veil and she carried an arrangement of lily of the valley, gladiolas and ivy.

Maid of honor was Irene Fugere of Sheboygen, Wis., a friend of the bride. Pamela Beach of Rochester was bridesmaid.

They were attired in floor length empire styled gowns of blue organdy sheer over taffeta. Matching bow headpieces completed their attire and they carried bouquets of yellow and blue daisies.

Lisa Ann Duff, the groom's niece was flower girl and was attired in a light yellow gown styled like the bridesmaids.' Charles and Brian Duff, nephews of the groom, served as altar boys.

Serving as best man was Gerald Martin, cousin of the bride. Dennis Scott, brother of the groom, served as groomsmen. Peforming the duties of ushers were Rick Martin and Don Brandt.

Mrs. Martin was attired in a pastel blue dress with navy accessories and Mrs. Scott wore a light gold dress and coat ensemble. Both mothers were presented pink rose corsages.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony at the Richard Martin residence. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents, at the Fireside.

Levis-Wearing Doctor Fools Most People

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Edward C. Pierce wears Levis and t-shirts to work, but the stethoscope hanging around his neck gives him away for what he really is: a medical doctor.

He used to have a modern office with piped-in music, where he centered a growing $30,000-a-year practice. Now he works in a cramped, one-story brick house, where he charges according to a sliding fee scale that dips as low as $2 for an office visit.

The 40-year-old M.D. gave up his promising eight-year-old practive two years ago to provide preventative medical care for people who could not afford it.

"Poor people," Dr. Pierce explained, "practice something called crisis medicine — which means you get sick as a dog before you see a doctor."

Dr. Jerry S. Walden joined Pierce a year ago, and together they handle up to 90 patients a day between the hours of 8 a.m. and roughly 9:30 p.m., with the two working separate shifts and alternating between their Summit Street Medical Center and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Their following: expectant, middle-aged mothers who are already receiving Aid to Dependent Children, funds, frightened and unwed teen-aged girls who find themselves pregnant, 4-month-old children who need simple checkups, and frail grandmothers suffering from stomach cancer.

"Basically, I have a low-income family practice," Dr. Pierce says, "but I'm the only doctor around here who will take the street kids too, and they're mostly white." He estimates his over-all practice at 80 per cent black and 20 per cent white.

But there is a radical tinge to his clientele as well. Members of Trans-Love Energies, now known as the White Panthers, come to him with medical problems, charging their expenses to a commune account that is settled at each month's end by the commune treasurer, Dr. Pierce said. Two Members of the violence-prone Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society, Bill Ayers and Diana Oughton, also sought Dr. Pierce's help during the three years they ran a community school in Ann Arbor. Miss Oughton was killed by a home-made bomb last March.

This fall, the center moves a half a block to a 13-room Victorian mansion. The doctors hope to get money from a model cities program to add a dentist and a social worker to their staff, and to defray some of the operating expenses.

New patients, meanwhile, keep filing in.

Ruling Listed On Cable TV Ownership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has prohibited ownership of cable TV systems by television broadcasters in the same community, the commission has announced.

The FCC banned all new cable acquisitions by TV interests in a single community and gave the broadcasters three years to get rid of cable television systems they now own in such communities.

The FCC issued simultaneously half a dozen actions affecting cable TV, including affirmation of its rules governing the origination of programs by cable TV systems.

In cable TV systems, a master antenna takes TV signals from the air and sends the programs by cable to subscribers' sets for a fee.

The commission adopted new rules prohibiting CATV—community antenna television—systems for "siphoning" programs from free TV for pay-TV showing on cable. Siphoning simply means inducing programs shown on one type of TV to move over to another, presumably for more money.

The rule prohibits cable showing of films more than two years old and sports events may not be cable cast if they have been carried live on free TV in the same community during the previous two years.

Cable TV was banned from carrying series-type programs and was limited to no more than 90 per cent programming of sports and films.

The new rules prohibit commercials on cable TV but only on its pay-TV operations, and not its ordinary cable-casting operations.

The commission revised its program origination rule to require cable systems to leave "a substantial portion of time" for local programming.

U. S. A. Heggblom is the immediate past president of the international order and is now chairman of the international board.

Resolutions passed at the Munising meeting will be brought to the international convention by the delegates elected at a meeting of the central district last year in Chicago.

"Basically, I have a low-income family practice," Dr. Pierce says, "but I'm the only doctor around here who will take the street kids too, and they're mostly white." He estimates his over-all practice at 80 per cent black and 20 per cent white.

But there is a radical tinge to his clientele as well. Members of Trans-Love Energies, now known as the White Panthers, come to him with medical problems, charging their expenses to a commune account that is settled at each month's end by the commune treasurer, Dr. Pierce said. Two Members of the violence-prone Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society, Bill Ayers and Diana Oughton, also sought Dr. Pierce's help during the three years they ran a community school in Ann Arbor. Miss Oughton was killed by a home-made bomb last March.

This fall, the center moves a half a block to a 13-room Victorian mansion. The doctors hope to get money from a model cities program to add a dentist and a social worker to their staff, and to defray some of the operating expenses.

New patients, meanwhile, keep filing in.

Ruling Listed On Cable TV Ownership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has prohibited ownership of cable TV systems by television broadcasters in the same community, the commission has announced.

The FCC banned all new cable acquisitions by TV interests in a single community and gave the broadcasters three years to get rid of cable television systems they now own in such communities.

The FCC issued simultaneously half a dozen actions affecting cable TV, including affirmation of its rules governing the origination of programs by cable TV systems.

In cable TV systems, a master antenna takes TV signals from the air and sends the programs by cable to subscribers' sets for a fee.

The commission adopted new rules prohibiting CATV—community antenna television—systems for "siphoning" programs from free TV for pay-TV showing on cable. Siphoning simply means inducing programs shown on one type of TV to move over to another, presumably for more money.

The rule prohibits cable showing of films more than two years old and sports events may not be cable cast if they have been carried live on free TV in the same community during the previous two years.

Cable TV was banned from carrying series-type programs and was limited to no more than 90 per cent programming of sports and films.

The new rules prohibit commercials on cable TV but only on its pay-TV operations, and not its ordinary cable-casting operations.

The commission revised its program origination rule to require cable systems to leave "a substantial portion of time" for local programming.

Runebergs Air Summer Plans

The International Order of Runeberg, in a meeting Tuesday, finalized plans for taking part in midsummer activities in Munising, June 28.

Members of the lodge will leave from the U. S. A. Heggblom home at 444 Oak St., at 12:30 p.m. Other members will be picked up at the Agner Dehlin home, Indian Lake.

The program will feature a discussion of the international convention which will be held in Canada.

U. S. A. Heggblom is the immediate past president of the international order and is now chairman of the international board.

Resolutions passed at the Munising meeting will be brought to the international convention by the delegates elected at a meeting of the central district last year in Chicago.

Mrs. William Young IV (Photo by Mincoff)

Starlette Sue Winkler, William Walker IV Wed

Starlette Sue Winkler became the bride of William James Young, IV, of Tannay, Switzerland, during a single ring ceremony performed Saturday, June 20 at the Zion Lutheran Church.

Rev. Ingmar Levin officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Winkler of 322 N. 3rd St. and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. William Young, III, of Villa La Pampa, Tannay, Switzerland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of anique peau de soie with a Victorian neckline, Juliette sleeves and blue velvet ribbon accenting the empire waistline. The gown featured a cathedral length train. A crown of aurora borealis secured her blue, elbow-length illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of forget-me-nots, violets and lily of the valley.

Marcia Pappas, maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of flocked voile over blue silionne, featuring long sleeves. Bridesmaids Patricia Flodin and Laurie Bergstrom of Bark River were attired in similar gowns of lavendar. All wore Juliette caps and carried baskets of lilacs.

Gary Forrilly of Escanaba, cousin of the bride, was best man and Tom Flodin and Dale Winkler, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Seating the guests were Mark Bergstrom and Lee Bare.

A reception for the guests was held in Augustana Hall of the church following the ceremony. Upon their return from a trip to Colorado, the couple will make their home in East Lansing.

The bride is a graduate of Manistique High School and a senior at Michigan State University. Mr. Young is a graduate of St. Martin's Episcopal Protestant High School and the University of Southern Mississippi. He will begin graduate work in history at Michigan State University in the fall.

A rehearsal dinner was sponsored by the parents of the bridegroom on June 19 at the Fireside.

Courts Hold Key To Savings Time, Parochiaid Vote

sue on the ballot if the elections division failed to certify the petitions. Such an appeal appeared likely, in view of Kelley's opinion, which is binding on on state departments unless overturned in court.

Up To Board

Final say on both issues within the Elections Division is up to the Board of State Canvassers. The board will meet next Wednesday.

Terry Herndon, executive secretary of the MEA, said the filing of the petitions "will frame the issue for a court response to the questions raised by Mr. Kelley.

"We believe the court will decide the people must have the opportunity to speak," Herndon said.

If the Kelley opinion results in the petitions being rejected, Herndon said, the group will ask the Court of Appeals to direct that the constitutional amendment seeking a ban on the use of public funds for nonpublic schools be placed on the ballot.

Decision Cheered

The anti-aid foes were cheered by the appeals court decision favoring Daylight Saving Time.

Kelley had said the form of the anti-aid petition made it "impossible" for a petition signer "to know with any degree of certainly exactly what amendment was proposed. . . ."

Rev. David Evans, a Methodist minister and executive secretary for the Council Against Parochiaid, termed the drive "one of the largest petition campaigns ever conducted in the state's history and certainly the largest in the field of education."

Some 264,000 valid signatures are needed to place this issue on the ballot.

Petition Filed

The anti-aid forces wheeled in 18 cartons which they said contained nearly 320,000 petition signatures and represented some 75,000 more than was required.

As in the Daylight Saving Time issue, the threat of further court action also looms in the parochiaid fight. Pro - aid forces are thought likely to take the case to the State Supreme Court if the Appeals Court rules for those seeking a ballot spot for the anti-parochiaid proposal.

The Daylight Saving Time backers needed 196,953 valid signatures to put the issue on the ballot. They have filed some 207,000 signatures with the elections division.

This is not a great margin if close scrutiny uncovers many errors.

O'Hara Dissents

Judge Charles Levin concurred with Lesinki in his decision approving the fast-time issue. Judge Michael O'Hara dissented.

O'Hara said in his dissent: "Plaintiffs presumtively knew the law when they began their signatures drive; namely, that a statute valid on its face required filing with the secretary of state 10 days before the present legislative session began.

"That they chose to wait unyear to offer the petitions and thus miss one general election does not move me to hold the statute unconstitutional."

The breaking and entering of a business place and the theft of a motorcycle are cases reported solved by the Escanaba police department with the apprehension of four Escanaba boys, all of whom have been referred to juvenile court.

Northwest Fruit Co. was entered through a window and candy and other items valued at $26 were taken by two 14-year-old Escanaba boys, police said. The boys have promised to make restitution.

In another case a motorcycle owned by Joe Vardian, 328 S. 17th St., was stolen on June 21 by two boys, 15 and 16, and hidden in woods near the airport. The bike was recovered, but had been damaged.

U.P. Power Co. Rate Hike OK'd

A $1,122,020 annual rate increase for the Upper Peninsula Power Co. of Houghton was approved Thursday by the Public Services Commission of the Michigan Department of Congress.

The rate increase will be spread among 35,000 customers in 11 Upper Peninsula counties, including services in Marquette and the Houghton-Hancock area.

Escanaba City Manager George Harvey and Gary Barton, division manager of Upper Peninsula Power Co., both said the state's approval of the rate increase will not effect the electric rate structure in Escanaba in any way.

Barton added that the customers of U. P. Power Co. in the area surrounding Escanaba would be effected, but he could not determine the actual increase in rates.

Escanaba and U. P. Power Co. have a contract in which the city-owned electric generating plant is operated by the power company and the city is supplied with power wholesale to meet its need. The city owns its electric distribution system and sells to customers in the city at rates established by the City Council.

This is the first general rate increase for the U. P. Power Co. since 1953. The utility must have all rate schedules approved by the Public Services Commission before they can be put into effect.

In its application, U. P. Power Co. asked for a $1.5 million annual rate increase, which it said would give it a 7.5 per cent rate of return. The commission allowed a 7.3 overall rate of return.

Willis F. Ward, chairman of the Public Services Commission, said the commission used the year ending Aug. 31, 1969, as the test period to decide Upper Peninsula Power's request for an increase in rates.

The only adjustment made in the test period involved the utility's fuel costs, Ward said. Upper Peninsula Power's two major suppliers of coal increased their prices early this year.

Upper Peninsula Power provides electric service in an area nearly 4,500 square miles in size. It includes all or parts of Alger, Baraga, Delta, Houghton, Iron, Keweenaw, Mackinac, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft counties.

Eye Culture Center For Indians At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A general meeting of the Bay Mills Tribal Council is slated for the near future by Indians who want to devise plans to acquire peacefully the Iroquois Point lighthouse and land surrounding.

Some 200 Chippewas converged on the century-old lighthouse Wednesday, but said after leaving they hoped to return to claim the land.

A. B. LeBlanc, tribal chairman, said a tribal council would be held in the near future to plan means of acquiring the lighthouse and the 62 acres of forest at it in the Big-Sea-Water recreation area of the Hiawatha National Forest. The Indians claimed the government failed to pay for the land acquired by treaties in 1836 and 1868.

Also, the Indians said they plan to reclaim 48.8 acres of Bay Mills Point, on which are located many fashionable homes. LeBlanc contends the tribe leased the area to the Munson and Hall Lumber Co. in 1868 on a 99-year lease that expired in 1967.

Indian families will move onto the property in a few weeks, he said.

"We welcome an opportunity to do anything to help improve the living conditions of our Indian neighbors and to enhance their efforts to preserve their culture," Alfred Troutt, Escanaba, forest supervisor for the U.S. Forest Service, said in response to announced plans of a group of Indian young people to re-claim Iroquois Point and an abandoned lighthouse located there.

Troutt went to the scene to talk with leaders of the group to see what his office might do to legitimately help them with their plans.

In Forest Area

The Iroquois light and point which the Indian group said they planned to take over has been in U.S. Forest Service custody since 1967 and parts of it have been open to visitors during the summer season. The light itself is at the eastern extremity of the Forest Service's Big-Sea-Water Recreation Area which extends for some 28 miles along the shores of Whitefish Bay and is now in the process of development.

In a recent letter to Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert of Michigan's 37th District, Troutt wrote:

"I am very happy to see that legislation has been passed (SB 1335) that will help preserve the customs, traditions, and art craft of Michigan Indians. The Indian Culture Center managed and operated by and for the Indians is certainly a step in the right direction.

Culture Center

"We have been contemplating such a center in connection with our Big-Sea-Water Recreation Area development along Lake Superior in Chippewa County. This 64,000 acre proposal is adjacent to the Bay Mills Indian Community and includes an area that archeologists say has been continually inhabited by the American Indian since the time of Christ. This area is also the traditional home of the legendary Hiawatha.

"Point Iroquois, within Big-Sea-Water, has been the scene and source of many pages of Indian history. A large unoccupied light house on the site, owned by the U.S. Government, could be made available for a Center for Indian Culture. This use would meet a definite need in the area and be compatible with other plans.

"If we can help you in fulfilling goals to assist the Indians of Michigan, please let us know."

State Police said the accident occurred while Anderson was shooting target with a 44 caliber revolver. In lowering the weapon Anderson accidentally released the safety and the revolver discharged, wounding him in the foot.

Hospital Bill Veto Chances Bright: Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are optimistic about chances of overriding President Nixon's veto of the popular Hill-Burton hospital aid bill now that the House has repassed the measure by a big margin.

If the Senate also musters the needed two-thirds margin it would be the first time Congress has enacted legislation over a Nixon veto.

Congress was unable to prevail on the only other bill disallowed by Nixon, a Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill the President vetoed as inflationary.

In Thursday's House test, 68 Republicans joined 211 Democrats in voting to override the Hill-Burton veto. The President was supported by 95 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The 279-98 tally gave the bill's supporters 27 votes more than the necessary two-thirds.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told a newsman, "I think we'll have a rough time" trying to sustain the veto in the Senate.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said flatly he would vote to override because "the need for hospital modernization is so great."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the vote will come next Tuesday afternoon.

President Pitzer Of Stanford U. Quits, Raps War

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Kenneth S. Pitzer has resigned as president of Stanford University, blaming campus turmoil centering on the war in Southeast Asia.

Pitzer said Thursday that when he took over a year and a half ago "I did so with the expectation that significant progress could be made in healing some of the deep divisions which beset our country, especially over Vietnam. Instead, these divisions have deepened."

His resignation is effective Aug. 31.

W. Parmer Fuller III, president of the Stanford Board of Trustees, said an acting president would be appointed "in the near future."

Kompong Speu Under Heavy Enemy Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops launched a new attack on Kompong Speu early today. They also imperiled an important supply depot at Long Vek, 20 miles north of Phnom Penh, and for the first time threatened Oudong, site of ancient Buddhist monasteries and tombs 20 miles northwest of the capital.

Pressure Continues

The attacks marked a continuance of the pressure which Cambodian military officials say has Phnom Penh as the ultimate objective.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command in Saigon announced that a U.S. Navy escort plane attacked gun positions deep inside North Vietnam Thursday after the guns fired on a reconnaissance aircraft the Navy plane was escorting.

No U.S. Planes Hit

The attack 15 miles northwest of the coastal city of Vinh and about 155 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone was the first such reported since May 25.

"'There was no damage to U.S. aircraft,'' the command said. It gave no assessment of damage to the North Vietnamese positions.

Since the U.S. bombing halt over North Vietnam on Nov. 1, 1968, U.S. planes have continued to fly reconnaissance missions over the North with armed escorts. The Pentagon said in May American planes had been fired upon and had returned fire more than 60 times, and nine planes have been reported shot down.

Barracks Attacked

The Cambodian military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked barracks and a provincial military headquarters at 2 a.m. today at Kompong Speu, a provincial capital 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. Government and South Vietnamese forces recaptured the city in a major battle 10 days ago.

Kompong Speu is on the only highway open between Phnom Penh and Kompong Som, Cambodia's chief port and the site of its only oil refinery. The spokesman said the road was still open to small cars but not to the big fuel trucks that bring oil and gas to the capital.

Both Israelis, Syrians Claiming Air Victories

By The Associated Press

Israel and Syria slugged each other on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Tel Aviv claimed that an Israeli armored force seized Syrian military positions on the central sector of the 50-mile frontier.

Syria claimed that it downed six Israeli jets in the swirling conflict. The Israelis claimed two Syrian MIG21s. Tel Aviv admitted the loss of one jet and said the pilot parachuted into Syrian territory.

Armor In Action

It marked the first time since the 1967 Middle East war that Israeli armor has been reported moving onto Syrian soil. The positions attacked faced Rafid on the Golan Heights.

A communique issued by the military command in Tel Aviv said that the Israeli force "supported by artillery and aircraft attacked and seized control of enemy positions at noon today."

Israeli jets attacked Syrian army camps near Damascus for the second day in succession, and large-scale dogfights raged through the Syrian skies. Then Syria announced that Israeli tanks had crossed the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

Violent Fighting

"Violent fighting along the frontline is still continuing," said Damascus Radio shortly after noon. "The enemy is throwing his armored units against our positions, and our forces are engaging them."

A shell tore a three-foot hole in the wing of an Italian DC8 jetliner as it flew 31,000 feet over Damascus, but the plane made a safe landing in Beirut and none of the 104 persons aboard was hurt. The hit punctured a fuel tank containing more than 10 tons of aviation kerosene and knocked out the two port engines. Members of the crew said it was a "miracle" they were able to reach the Lebanese capital.

U.S. Plan Rejected

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser meanwhile rejected the new U.S. plan for Middle East peace, charging it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

The Israeli government called home its ambassador from Washington to discuss the American proposal, but the semiofficial Jerusalem newspaper Davar called it "a bad plan which can lead not to a permanent settlement but to an immediate conflagration."

40 MIGs In Battle

Syria said 40 of its MIGs rose to battle the Israeli air force, the largest number of interceptors the Syrians have admitted sending up in a single engagement since the 1967 war.

The communique said the Syrian pilots had shot down five planes, while antiaircraft fire from the ground brought down a sixth. It said two of the planes crashed in Syrian territory, their pilots were captured, and one of them was being treated for injuries.

The communique added that no Syrian planes had been hit.

VP Faces Busy Fall Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he has no plans for campaign speeches this fall.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has lots of them.

His office says the vice president's calendar for September and October, when the congressional and senatorial contests are in full sway, is rapidly filling with speaking dates.

Anyone who has followed the popularity polls can see why Agnew's help is much sought after in this election year with 435 seats in the House and 35 in the Senate at stake.

Nixon told newsmen in Belleville, Ill., Thursday he feels he can best serve Republican candidates by making "as good a record as possible in Washington."

Any presidential involvement in the campaign, he said, will depend on international developments. "I have no plans for any speeches in October," he said.

Agnew's office says "an intensive campaign schedule is being arranged for most of those two months."

It is working in close cooperation with the Republican National Committee, and the campaign committees in the House and Senate.

The vice president proved to be a bigger drawing card than anyone thought in the spring and early summer when he criss-crossed the country, speaking at fund-raising affairs and throwing his most controversial jabs.

Jury Indicts 2 In Hijacking Of Ocean Ship

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Merchant Sailors on charges of mutiny on the high seas and kidnaping in connection with the hijacking of the munitions ship Columbia Eagle last March 14.

The ship, laden with napalm bombs and other munitions, was en route to Vietnam when the men brandished guns and forced it to be taken to Cambodia, U.S Atty. Robert L. Meyer said.

The indictments issued Thursday named Alvin Leonard Glatkowski, 20, a bedroom steward of Long Beach, Calif., and Clyde William McKay Jr., 26 a fireman water tender of Escondido, Calif. Both men are believed to be in Cambodia where they sought political refuge, Meyer said.

An interview with the men published in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh shortly after the incident quoted them as saying they seized the ship to protest the Vietnam war.

Five days after the ship, owned by the Columbia Steamship Co. reached Cambodia, it was permitted to sail on for Vietnam. The 36 other crew members were not harmed in the incident, although 24 jumped overboard and were picked up in lifeboats, authorities said.

Meyer said copies of the indictments would be forwarded to Cambodian authorities with a request that the defendants be returned for trial.

Courts Hold Key To Saving Time, Parochiaid Vote

LANSING (AP) — The courts hold the key to whether two of the hottest issues around--Daylight Saving Time and parochiaid--appear on the Michigan election ballot this November.

Fasttime backers received a big boost when the State Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that Secretary of State James Hare should accept their petitions.

Under the law, if the Legislature does not act on the daylight time issue it goes on the ballot. The Legislature has not acted and the session is heading for a recess by the end of next week.

Claim Law Unreasonable

The Wolverine Golf Club and Joseph Comeau argued before the appeals court earlier this month that the present petition-filing law is unreasonable. It specified such petitions must be filed 10 days before the start of the legislative session.

The appeals court agreed.

The controlling opinion was written by Chief Judge T. John Lesinski, who said the provision "constitutes an unnecessary and and, therefore, unreasonable restraint on the constitutional right of the people to initiative. The statute is, therefore, unconstitutional."

A spokesman for the State Elections Division cautioned, however, that opponents of Daylight Saving Time are likely to appeal this decision to the State Supreme Court.

"They've been watching this thing very closely," the spokesman said.

Opponents include farmers an operators of theaters and drive-in movies.

The council against parochiaid also made its move Thursday --filing petitions bearing 319,-317 signatures with the Elections Division in an attempt to place this issue on the ballot.

Votes May Decide

If the petitioners are accepted, the voters would decide if the state should provide financial aid to nonpublic schools.

However, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley already has ruled that the form of the petitions circulated by the council, mostly through the Michigan Education Association, were faulty in that they failed to include the language of the constitutional provision they seek to change.

Leaders of this petition drive said they would ask the State Appeals Court to order the is-

New Cambodia Amendment Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, having agreed to end the long debate over Cambodia, are maneuvering to blunt one of the most potent weapons left to administration critics.

Sen. Gordon Allott, a Colorado Republican and staunch defender of Nixon Vietnam policy, unexpectedly introduced a measure Wednesday to bar funds for fighting in Southeast Asia except when necessary to protect U.S. troop withdrawals or when war has been officially declared.

An identical proposal, known as "The Amendment to End the War," was introduced originally by two of the Senate's most vocal doves-Democrat George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Mark O. Hatfield, R—Ore.

Their plan called for bringing up the amendment later in the session as a rider to a defense procurement appropriations bill in another effort at a full-scale debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy.

But Allott introduced his proposal as an amendment to the foreign military sales measure that has been the vehicle for the current debate on the U.S. role in Cambodia.

Under the agreement reached Thursday to wrap up the seven week Cambodia talkathon, Allott's amendment will be voted on Monday. This eliminates the possibility of the extended debate the Democrats wanted, and Allott says his measure will be defeated.

The motives behind Allott's amendment drew expressions of outrage from the sponsors of the original proposal. "Members are offended by these tactics," McGovern said after Allott introduced his amendment.

SALT Conference Lacks Surprises

VIENA, Austria (AP) — The 20th session of American and Soviet negotiators at the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) at the U.S. Embassy here today was officially described as "business as usual" without presentation of a formal proposal by the Americans.

The session was attended again by the top American negotiator, Gerard Smith, who flew to Washington earlier in the week and was received by President Nixon.

Smith was unofficially reported to have returned to Vienna with a specific U.S. proposal for cutting back the United States-Soviet rocket race.

An official conference source said, however, that Smith came back with no new instructions and that there had been only a "casual reference" to his trip to Washington in the informal part of today's session.

Bring U.S. Together, Nixon Speech Theme

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, returning to the theme of his inaugural address, says it's time to "bring Americans together" instead of "having America torn apart."

This was his appeal to a wildly enthusiastic crowd in St. Louis Thursday as he stopped off en route to his seaside villa here.

Normally a reserved, even remote man, Nixon kept expressing himself during the westward journey in an off-the-cuff style that produced something new at each stop. Some examples:

—While appealing in St. Louis for national unity, racial harmony and a closing of the generation gap, he declared that although some "believe the nation is coming apart at the seams," more should be heard about "what is right about America." He spoke without text or notes.

—To a handful of newsmen at Scott Air Force Base at Belleville, Ill., he went out of his way to reveal that he plans no 1970 campaign speeches, at least for the foreseeable future, and believes he can do best for Republican candidates by making a good record in Washington.

—Handshaking well - wishers at a Marine air base near here, he disclosed he will make a "final report" Tuesday on the entry of U.S. ground forces in Cambodia. The exact format of the report has not been determined.

—At the same stop, Nixon announced he will appear live on the three major television networks for an hour Wednesday, at 10 p.m. EDT, to answer foreign affairs questions posed by network newsmen John Chancellor of NBC, Eric Severeid of CBS and Howard K. Smith of ABC.

Home Rammed By Plane; Four Persons Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An engine failure sent a Navy jet trainer plane crashing into two houses in a residential area Thursday night and caused four deaths—two in the plane and two on the ground—officials said.

About a dozen other persons were injured and four stayed in hospitals overnight.

Navy officials said the F9 Cougar jet was making a practice instrument approach to Kelly Air Force Base when it lost power and nosedived two miles north of the runway. It hit in Southwest 41st Street on the city's West Side and tumbled onto two homes on Luz Avenue, burning both.

Two men aboard the plane were identified by the Navy as Lt. (j.g.) Wesley B. Duerr, 26, an instructor, of Camp Springs, Md., and Lt. (j.g.) John B. Weller, 25, a student pilot, of Convent, N.J. They were based at Chase Field, a naval auxiliary air station at Beeville, Tex.

The other dead were Saul Martinez, 44, and his son Eduardo, 23, newly returned from fighting in Vietnam.

Bodies of the fliers were found in the street and those of Martinez and his son in their home.

Police said discovery of a body of a cat in a burned car apparently led to a false report that a fifth person had been killed.

Mark Latson, 12, dashed from his home with clothing in flames moments after the plane struck. Hospital attendants described his condition as grave.

Most of the injured suffered burns while fighting the fire, officers said, and were dismissed after emergency treatment.

Bernadette Gets Term In Prison; Appeal Rejected

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Belfast Appeal Court ruled today that Bernadette Devlin must go to prison.

A warrant for her arrest was to be issued later today.

The court rejected an application from Miss Devlin, the youngest member of the British House of Commons, to appeal to the House of Lords against a six-month sentence given her for incitement to riot and rioting. The House of Lords is Britain's highest court.

The 23-year-old Roman Catholic militant was first sentenced in Londonderry last Dec. 22 for her activities during street fighting last fall.

On Monday, Northern Ireland's lord chief justice, Lord McDermott, rejected her appeal against the sentence. Her defense lawyer then applied for permission to take the appeal to the Lords in London, and this was turned down today.

Mike Mansfield Cited By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the object of their affections out of sight but not out of mind, the Senate has paid a wordy tribute to Mike Mansfield, known for limiting his remarks to "Yep," "Nope," and "Maybe."

The occasion Thursday was to honor the Montana Democrat for serving as majority leader of the Senate longer than anyone before him—nine years and 173 days.

That put him nine days up on his nearest rival, Kentucky Democrat Alben Barkley, who held the longevity record until he became vice president in 1949 under Harry S. Truman.

Taking time out from debate on the U.S. involvement in Cambodia, senators of both parties took the floor for more than two hours in their praise for Mansfield, whose own speeches are notable for being terse and to the point.

$4.75 Billion Education Measure Gets Senate OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $4.75 billion education money bill that is nearly $800 million more than President Nixon requested but includes the initial funds wanted by the White House for aiding desegregating schools.

The bill was passed 74 to 4 early today, capping a long session that didn't end until after midnight in the second half of a two-session day designed to clear a work load backed up by the debate over Cambodia.

Amendment Tacked On

The final approval came after the Senate passed 70 to 18 an amendment to provide $150 million as the first installment of the $1.5 billion Nixon wants to help Southern school districts in their desegregation efforts.

Inclusion of the $150 million made the possibility of a Nixon veto uncertain. He rejected a similar bill earlier this year because the appropriation was more than he asked, and some Republicans had warned against a veto this time if the total went far above Nixon's request.

But because a share of the coverage is due to the $150 million and because Nixon has expressed strong desire for the aid money, it is hoped he will sign the measure.

House Bill Smaller

The House last April passed its version of the spending bill, which totaled $4.13 billion. The two versions now go to conference where it appears the Senate total likely will be trimmed.

Earlier Thursday two recently districts had told the House they need the emergency federal money to help improve conditions whites ignored when only black children were involved.

The Dade County School Board in Miami, Fla., increased its budget for police and guards from $350,000 to a projected $1.2 million in one year after whites learned of lunch-money shakedowns in once all-black schools.

And in Houston, Texas, whites are demanding that dilapidated schools once attended only by blacks be fixed up now that white children will be attending them.

Dade's chairman, Holmes Braddock, told the House Education Committee Thursday of the Miami situation.

"These extortions and shakedowns are problems that always existed, especially black child against black, but unfortunately the whites never cared, until now they are aware of them for the first time," he said.

George Oser, secretary of the trustees of the Houston school board, said parents by the thousands objected when the newly elected board revealed a minority-majority transfer plan which in most cases will send children to their nearest school.

Grant Received

ADRIAN (AP) — Adrian College has received a $35,000 grant from the McGregor Fund of Detroit to help pay for an experimental psychology laboratory. The laboratory will be part of a new $1,321,000 North Hall classroom facility scheduled for completion in June, 1971.

Citizens' Council Cites School Needs For 1970-80

Eight recommendations have been submitted to the Escanaba Area Board of Education by the Citizens' Advisory Council at the conclusion of its three-month study of the district growth problems.

The council, which was formed in March by the board to make a long-range study of the district's building needs in the next ten years, was headed by David Rivard, while Don Wertz and Rev. Eugene Eslinger were enrollment co-chairmen, Carl Anderson was the finance chairman and Leonard Ford was the facilities chairman.

Council chairmen, meeting with the Board of Education on Wednesday, stated the general problem as "an average growth of about 89 students per year in the past and growth, at this same rate, which would continue in the future."

Lacking Space

"This is the same as about three extra classrooms we need each year," said Rev. Eslinger, "and our last building was done in the district in 1967. So we are really behind or lacking space today and will lack more in the future."

Specific recommendations made by the council were:

1. Soo Hill - presently overcrowded. Basement rooms in the old buildings are in use now and the fifth grade class must be bused to the old Jefferson School. The school needs three or four rooms for the fall of 1970 and the use of mobile classrooms (4) at Soo Hill could relieve this situation on a temporary basis.

2. That a permanent school building of eight classrooms be built at Soo Hill or in the Danforth area, the site to be determined by attendance, land availability, transportation and operation considerations. (Enrollment in the Soo Hill area by 1975 is expected to be about 400, with two new residential subdivisions under development there now.)

Lunchroom Unsuited

3. Wells School - presently overcrowded. A former lunchroom, totally unsuited as a classroom, is in use and the fifth grade must be bused to the old Jefferson School in Escanaba. Residential building in the area continues, as will the number of students attending this school. The use of four mobile classrooms was also recommended.

4. That four permanent classrooms be added to the Wells School as soon as possible.

5. The construction of a multi-purpose room at Ford River and, when necessary, remodeling of the existing multi-purpose room into classrooms. No growth problems are seen at this time at this school, but existing multi-purpose room is too small.

6. Franklin - Lemmer - Jefferson area. Each of these schools is operating at capacity. Franklin is over capacity, with a fifth grade class and part of a third grade class attending the old Jefferson School. Lemmer has eight classrooms with over 30 pupils each and site space is limited at Franklin. An addition is not in the best interests of the children there, as it would take the existing playground area. Lemmer has an enrollment this year of 529 children, which is probably as large as an elementary school should be.

Increasing Enrollments

Most of the in-city building is on the south and east sides, so these schools can expect increasing enrollments. The area west of M-35 already has many new homes and 60 residential lots are planned as well as many apartment complexes.

For these reasons, the council recommended consideration of construction of a new school west of the highway on property already in school ownership behind the high school. This was suggested for the 1975-80 period. (This will relieve the Franklin School.)

7. The financial ability of the district seems to indicate it can support a building program. The State Equalized Valuation of the district has increased about $29 million in the past 10 years and while it is recognized that this size increase will not be steady (Mead expansion accounted for about $13 million), the district is not becoming poorer in SEV either.

However, the council recommended serious consideration of the establishment of a millage to provide a building and site fund for the future to do away with some of the interest charges presently being paid.

Six Rooms Short

8. At the present time, the district is six classrooms short, a situation that will continue to increase at about three classrooms per year. For this reason, it was recommended that a building program be started immediately.

Estimated cost of the program is: four temporary classrooms at Wells, $68,000; four temporary classrooms at Soo Hill, $68,000; an eight room school at Soo Hill or Danforth, $300,000; multi-purpose room at Ford River, $50,000 and four room addition at Wells, $150,000. The total building program amounts to $500,000.

Temporary classrooms are on a lease basis and as such can be paid for from operation monies. They can be sold when permanent classrooms are ready or kept and used at other sites in the district as needed.

The program can be financed by a 2-mill levy at $76,000 per mill for four years, which will pay for the proposed building program and leave $100,000 in a building and site fund for the future.

Consider Tax

The finance committee also recommended the board consider a tax at the rate of one mill per year, on a continuing basis, after the proposed building fund to prevent the interest payments on future building costs.

The Citizens' Advisory Council also would like to remind the public that all of its recommendations to the Board of Education are recommendations only. They must be acted upon by the board and voted upon by the people of the school district.

Wertz cited steadily increasing enrollments at the high school. Although no recommendations were made by the council about this situation, the committee felt that some thought and planning must be given to the high school growth problems in the near future. The maximum capacity of the building is 1,500 and this past year's enrollment was 1,454. An average increase of 40 pupils has been noted at the high school for each of the past five years.

No special problems are seen in attendance areas at any of the other grade schools, nor at the Junior High School, where present facilities would seem to be adequate for the foreseeable future.

VISITING FORESTER — Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, right, a forester from Nepal, discusses plans for his tour of the Hiawatha National Forest with Ken Gherke, a forester with the U. S. Forest Service. Laxman has been working for his master's degree at Michigan State University since last September and he will return to Nepal in about a month to prepare a forest management plan for his country that will guide forest policy in Nepal for the coming year. Nepal Forester Visiting Hiawatha National Forest

When people from foreign countries come to visit the United States, the forests are not on the top of their list of things to see, but for Laxman Lal Rajbhandari, a forester from Nepal, the forests are just what he is here to see.

Since last September, Laxman has been working for his masters' degree in forest management at Michigan State University in East Lansing and when he returns to Nepal in about a month, he will be preparing a forest management plan for his country that will guide the forest policy in Nepal in the coming years.

Nepal is a land-locked country of eight and one-half million people. It is about the size of Illinois and approximately 27 per cent of the country is forest, most of which contain hardwoods. The climate varies from tropical in the south to alpine in the north and the capital at Kathmandu enjoys a temperate climate with temperatures ranging from 83 degrees in the summer to 25 degrees in the winter.

Geographic Regions

Most of the country is rugged and mountainous, but there are three distinct geographic regions. A narrow strip of low-lying jungle and farm land, which is a continuation of India's Ganges Plain, is in the south; the more populous hill country, which includes fertile Kathmandu Valley, lies in the central region; and in the north, along the Tibetan border, are the snow-clad Himalayan peaks ranging from 16,000 to 29,000 feet. The most famous of these peaks are Mt. Everest (29,000 feet) and Annapurna (26,493 feet).

About 90 per cent of Nepal's population is directly dependent on agriculture for subsistence and income and outside of agriculture, there are only limited opportunities for employment.

Foreign trade s negligable, except with India, to which Nepal is linked by a railway, a road and airline service. There are extensive water, mineral and especially timber resources which are now being explored with an eye to development.

Planning Started

The Forest Inventory and Management Project has provided forest statistics and forest condition maps needed for general policy planning in the exploitation and management of Nepal's forests. Information collected in five intensive inventories of forest divisions is being used to prepare plans for management of those areas.

Laxman is the assistant to the forest officer in charge of the Forest Management Section of the Forest Inventory and Management Project. After receiving a bachelor's degree in Nepal, he graduated from a two-year course at the Forest Institute in Dehra Dun, India.

Laxman serves his country's forest department as an inventory specialist. He supervises the work crews and is involved with sampling the volume of timber and then working out a planned method of cutting it.

He began his visit to the Hiawatha National Forest on Monday of this week and will be leaving here on Tuesday. His visit here is to learn planning and management of the National Forests and the Phase I, Continuous Forest Inventory currently being implemented on the forest, will be his principal area of study.

Collect Data

In this program, multiple use inventory data is being collected in the field and stored in data processing banks. When needed by land managers for planning purposes, it can be readily retrieved. Since the data is continously updated, it will always be current.

Before going back to Nepal, Laxman will go to Milwaukee, where he will visit the regional office of the forest service and work on data processing. He is also scheduled to visit various forest service research areas in Wisconsin.

Laxman said that most of the forests in the Upper Peninsula are conifer trees, while in Nepal, they are mostly hardwoods. He also said that Nepal's forests are not as well planned as those here. Depending on the location, the forests in Nepal are much more dense where the population is low, but are misused in the regions of heavy population.

His visit to the United States is paid for through an arrangement between Nepal and the Agency for International Development of the United States.

Fish Inventory Begun By State In Bay Waters

The 60-foot Steelhead, fishery research vessel for the Department of Natural Resources, is back in Escanaba—the port where she was launched three years ago—to conduct an inventory of sport fish in area waters.

The Steelhead, skippered by Capt. Chester E. Belfy, came here from Charlevoix, her home port.

The all-steel vessel was constructed at Escanaba by the T. D. Vinette Co. and was launched on Dec. 21, 1967. She went into commission for the state in the spring of 1968.

The so-called "floating laboratory" of the DNR's fish division was in Escanaba on Thursday for the start of what is described as its "first major mission of the year."

Here Last Fall

The Steelhead and Patrol Boat 23, a smaller vessel which can get into shoal waters, are starting a five to six-week survey that includes gill netting and trawling on Green Bay and Big Bay de Noc.

"The purpose of this operation is to find out how many and what kinds of fish there are in those waters and where they are," said John MacGregor, regional fisheries biologist at Roscommon.

The last such "inventory" in these waters by the Steelhead was in October, 1969.

A 'First Step'

At that time the vessel was skippered by Capt. Walter J. "Bill" Palmer, who commanded the Steelhead from its commissioning to April this year, when he resigned.

Capt. Palmer is the author of "The Salmon Hunter" published by the Photo Offset printing of Escanaba. The book describes the operation of the vessel in its first two years of resarch and patrol work.

According to James A. O. Crowe, outdoor editor of the Detroit News, the survey of waters in the Delta County area is "a first step to finding out what can be done to restore spot fishing in the area."

Search For Salmon

Crowe reports the waters in this area were "once prime territory for sport fishing for walleyes," and adds: "In addition, both bays were top lake trout trolling waters."

"As a bonus, the netting may find unknown stocks of sport fish already available for sport fishermen. These may include undiscovered populations of salmon, lake trout and walleyes," Crowe writes.

After the Steelhead concludes its "survey" or "inventory" here, it will "start chasing salmon in either Lake Michigan or Lake Huron," according to Crowe.

That operation will be to locate schools of salmon and direct sport fishermen to areas where they "are almost certain of limit catches."

NMU To Host U.P. College Officials

Msgr. Pelissier Honored, To Make Home In Escanaba

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP)—The Right Rev. Msgr. A. C. Pelissier was honored Thursday night—the 50th anniversary of his ordination—at a testimonial dinner.

Among those paying tribute were Bishops Charles S. Salatka and Thomas L. Noa, both of Marquette, and Bishop Louis J. Reicher of Austin, Tex., a longtime friend of Msgr. Pelissier.

Msgr. Pelissier was pastor of St. Mary & Joseph Church near Iron Mountain for 27 years. Nine young men who entered the priesthood during that period celebrated the jubilee mass at Thursday night's dinner.

Msgr. Pelissier, a native of Munising, presently lives in retirement in Escanaba.

Traffic Safety On Lincoln Rd. To Be Discussed

Escanaba persons representative of institutions and public interested in improved safety at Lincoln Rd. and 5th Ave. S., will meet on Monday to discuss the problem.

Two persons have been fatally injured at that intersection so far this year.

City Manager George Harvey said Police Chief Richard Frederick has requested Paul Michelin of the State Highway Department safety division to attend.

Representatives of schools, nursing homes, churches and other facilities in the area are being notified of the meeting, the city manager reported. Members of the Escanaba Safety Committee will be advised of the session so they may express their views.

The intersection involves the state since S. Lincoln Rd. is the route of M-35. Should a traffic signal or other measure for safety be deemed advisable, the state would be required to approve.

'X' Marks The Spot For New Four Seasons Nursing Center

For the Four Seasons Nursing Center of Escanaba—like other Four Seasons Nursing Centers in the United States — an "X" marks the spot.

Four Seasons in Escanaba will hold Grand Opening Sunday at its cross-shaped facility on 5th Ave. S. to give the public a close-up look at the 99-bed unit before patients begin arriving.

Open House is scheduled from 1 to 6 p.m.

Construction workers were putting the finishing touches on the building and furnishings this week in preparation for the program.

Dichard M. Patty, administrator, said the present staff of about 30 to 35 employes reported for work Thursday to begin organization in preparation for the first patients, which are expected in a week to 10 days.

99 For 99

Patty said there is a waiting list of 99 patients for the 99 beds that will be available, but that the center will not reach capacity for several months. He said only three to five persons will be admitted each day.

"We've got a new building, a new business and will have new patients," he said, "so we have got lot of detials to iron out and things to get organized.

With everything new, he pointed out, it would be practically impossible to jump from an empty building to capacity overnight. Next week will be devoted to orientation.

Patty said that as the patient load increases, the staff will be increased to some 60-65 employes.

Two Types Of Care

Mrs. Dorothy Fleetwood of Spalding is director of nursing; Mrs. Judith Mineau, ward clerk; Mrs. Karen Woolford, activities director, and Mrs. Katherine Lewis, food supervisor.

Patty said the facility is licensed to provide skilled care in two wings and basic care in the two others. Skilled care is considered a more "restorative type of nursing care" where patients require special treatment or attention, while the basic care patients are not so demanding.

Besides the 99 beds, the new facility includes a lobby, dining hall and kitchen, laundry and office space. The central nursing station, located at the center of the "X" shaped building, is circular in design and allows persons on duty an unobstructed view of all four corridors.

New System

Patty said Four Seasons would use the new Dru-Star system of dispensing medication under which a local druggist prepares individual packages of drugs for each patient and delivers them each day. Formerly, most medication in nursing homes was prepared by a registered nurse from 30-day supplies at the nursing home.

The new system gives an RN more time for patients with less chance for mistakes and less chance for drug waste," Patty said.

Patty said another important part of the Four Seasons operation will be the activities program. Church services are planned every Sunday and volunteer groups from the community will be encouraged to come in and work with Mrs. Woolford, he said. In addition, there will be arts an crafts and bingo, along with birthday parties. The parties will be held once a month for all patients with birthdays coming up during the month.

In addition to regular nursing services, the Four Seasons program will be under the supervision of various consultants in the area — a physical therapist, pharmacist, social worker, dietician, etc.

Construction on the building began last winter. Completion was delayed by the truck strike which slowed delivery in Escanaba of necessary materials.

Harvey J. Pilon, 75, died at 7:40 p. m. Tuesday at Bell Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for one week.

He was born March 17, 1895 in Wendover, Ontario, Canada and he came to Perkins at the age of eight with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Pilon. He was married to the former Ellen LeClaire of Perkins and she preceded him in death May 11, 1968.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ted (Lenore) Soyring of Gwinn, with whom he had made his home for the past 22 months; four sons, Amos H. of Cleveland, Ohio, Harold D. of Flint, Irvin E. of Philadelphia, Pa. and Lester R., Athens, Ga.; five sisters, Mrs. Cal (Alda) Pillotte, Rapid River; Mrs. Herbert (Eva) Keyes of Three Lakes, Wis.; Mrs. Leonard (Bertha) Iverson, Mrs. Nellie Moreau and Mrs. Alice Linder, all of Green Bay; 16 grandchildren, two great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Pilon was well known for his interest in baseball, having pitched semi-pro ball since the age of 16 in the tri-county area of Delta, Alger and Schoolcraft until the family moved from Rock to Cleveland in 1941. He retired from Curtis 1000, Ind., Cleveland, as chief shipping clerk in 1960.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. today at St. Anthony's Church, Gwinn with the Rev. George Pernaski officiating. Burial was in the Gwinn Cemetery. Perala's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Few Students In Bay Program:

Is Environmental Crisis More Talk Than Action?

Follow-up inquiries about public attitudes on environmental purity and pollution made by Bay de Noc Community College here after its Earth Day Teach-in have convinced college faculty and administration members that so far there is much more inclination to talk than to act on pollution.

"We have a real test of intention in public interest in our college's Water Technology Program," said Kenneth Maki.

Maki is director of the water technology program, instituted by Bay College a year ago and now recruiting students for the second year. The two-year course trains persons for career jobs in water and wastewater treatment.

Few Students

"Our graduates," said Maki, "will be the professional technical people working as intermediaries between engineers and scientists who formulate treatment processes and the labor force which operates the water and wastewater plants.

"They are absolutely essential in any state that wants to curb pollution and yet we have only four students in the program and so far have only 10 or 12 sign-ups for fall. We are, thus far, the only state-accredited agency to train these people for this important work.

"We know that these people must have training so that they can be state-certified for positions of higher responsibility, but we wonder when it is going to start. The need for operators in waste treatment plants alone will increase many fold, as a result of Michigan's $325 million bonding to provide wastewater plant construction grants and we're certain that we'll be hard-pressed to supply the numbers needed in five years.

Industrial Need Cited

"Michigan is pretty well fixed for its present water and wastewater plant personnel need, but with the bonding program and with rising standards of water quality we're going to have a new situation.

"Under a law effective on January 1 of this year, every industry that discharges wastes into surface waters of the state must have its treatment or such affluents under the supervision of a state-certified industrial waste treatment operator. This applies all the way from a car wash to General Motors. I presume that small businesses will get technologists for their needs on a par-time contract basis.

"In Michigan, most wastewater plants must go to secondary waste treatment and phosphorus removal by 1975. It has ben estimated that it would cost as much as the United States is now spending on the war in Vietnam just to maintain our present levels of water quality in the United States and we're under pressure to raise quality criteria even higher. This results from our increased population and its increasing water usage and generation of wastes.

"So, we aren't even holding even in the battle with pollution; we're losing. We're talking a lot but not doing much."

Land Policy

The long-awaited report of the Public Land Law Review Commission, which was finally submitted this week, is of particular interest in the Upper Peninsula, where 37.2 per cent of the land is public land. Of this amount 1,999,031 acres, representing 18.4 per cent of the Northern Peninsula's land area, is in federal ownership and 2,038,161 acres, representing 18.8 per cent of the area, is in state ownership.

The commission's report was issued after a five-year study. It covers 342 pages and concerns itself only with public land owned by the federal government. In the Upper Peninsula, nearly all of these federally owned lands are located in the Hiawatha and Ottawa National Forests, the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, Isle Royal National Park and the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore. (Both the Sylvania and McCormick Tracts, which were acquired in recent years by the U. S. Forest Service, lie within the Ottawa National Forest.)

The Upper Peninsula's special concern with federally-owned land has been the impact of these holding on the local tax base. Wherever there is large federal land ownership, the tax base is hurt. The Forest Service contributes 25 per cent of its receipts to local government in lieu of taxes, but in the Upper Peninsula this does not nearly equal the amount of revenue that would be generated for units of government if the land were in private ownership. The National Park Service, which administers Isle Royal National Park and the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore, does not even make a token payment to local governments in lieu of taxes.

Upper Peninsula governmental units thus will be relieved to learn that one of the recommendations in the report of the Public Land Law Review Commission is that federal payments in lieu of taxes be made to local and state governments whose tax base is hurt by the presence of large blocks of federally owned lands.

This is one of 387 recommendations contained in the report. In order for any of the recommendations to be implemented, congressional action will be required. Governmental officials in the Upper Peninsula hope the recommendation on tax payments will be among the first to be acted on by Congress.

* * *

Several of the other recommendations of the commission merit early adoption by Congress. One of these is the recommendation to transfer the Forest Service from the Agriculture Department to the Interior Department.

Both of these departments have the responsibility for managing vast acreages of public lands. In the past, the two departments have differed sharply over how best to manage their holdings. Placing the Forest and Park Services under the same department might end the feuding and result in greater administrative efficiency.

Another recommendation stipulates that disposal of public lands be done only where it would bring "maximum benefit for the general public in non-federal ownership." Simultaneously, however the commission recommended that authority be granted to sell at full value the public domain lands required for some mining activities or where the lands are suitable only for dry land farming, grazing of livestock or residential, commercial or industrial uses, where such sale is "in the public interest."

If the commission's recommendations are followed, Congress will draft guidelines to insure that each tract of federal land is dedicated to its "highest and best use."

A 13-year-old Brimley boy was apprehended by Sault post state police recently after an auto he was reportedly driving crashed through a fence on I-75 at the M-28 interchange. Police said the boy was driving east on M-28, and in attempting to turn to the southbound I-75 access ramp, ran off the road into the highway right-of-way fence. After investigation, police discovered the bo yhad appropriated his father's auto and was reportedly headed for Colorado, police officials said.

Upsetting the tree planters placed along sidewalks in Bessemer's business district appears to have become a game with vandals in that city. Two more were toppled over early in the morning. Officers were investigating the first incident when the brazen vandals tipped the second over, directly across the street. Bessemer Women's Club members are becoming a bit discouraged because their efforts at a beautification program are being made the target of vandals.

* * *

Vandalism is on the rise in Bessemer, and could have possibly serious consequences unless checked. The most serious incident took place when vandals damaged a switch along the Soo Line tracks. Timothy Nolan, foreman for the railroad, told police he was riding along the tracks on a small motorized car when the vehicle was thrown off the track and the wheels damaged as a result of the broken switch. A train wreck could have resulted if the damage had gone undetected.

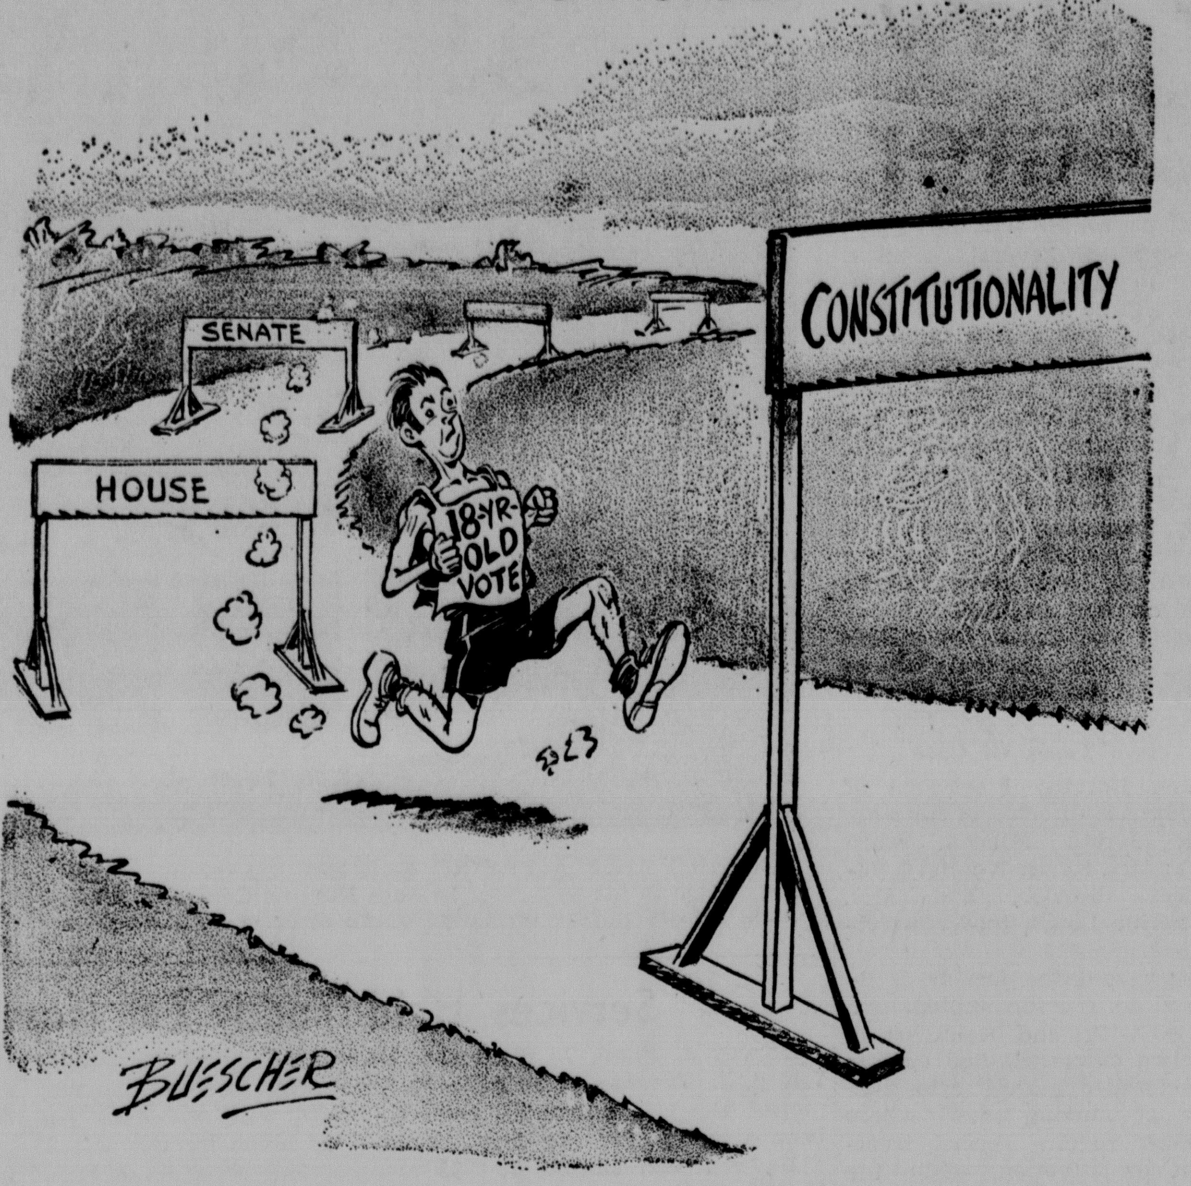
THE BIG HURDLE



Bill Seeks To Reduce Jurisdiction Of NLRB

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The labor ironies in America mount.

For one thing, despite the fact that the government belongs to the people, Postmaster General Blount, bowing to the AFL - CIO's George Meany, would like to limit post office employment to members of Meany's union. The proposition is to keep Americans from freely working for something they theoretically own.

A second irony attends the recent newspaper wage settlement in New York City. The New York Times yields to nobody in its verbal stance against inflation, yet, when the pinch came, it signed one of the most inflationary labor contracts in journalistic history.

True enough, it had little option if it wanted to go on publishing. But with New York City newspaper employes getting a 41 per cent raise over a three-year period, one waits with apprehension to see how the "big town" settlement will affect the papers out beyond the Hudson River.

A horrendous statistic comes to mind: 60 years ago there were some 700 cities with more than two competing newspapers; today the list is down to below 45. Maybe automation, which the unions prevent in New York, will save the day in the provinces.

* * *

What to do about the power of the unions to get raises that outrun productivity increases? Sen. John Tower of Texas thinks he has one answer. He has introduced a bill that would divest the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) of its jurisdiction in unfair labor practice cases in favor of restoring that jurisdiction to the Federal courts. This would amount to a return to the status quo as it was thirty-five years ago.

Hearings on the Tower labor law reform bill (S-3671) will begin before the Senate Judiciary Committee on July 1, with an impressive co-sponsorship list that includes Senators Ervin of North Carolina, Bennett of Utah, Dole of Kansas, Goldwater and Fannin of Arizona, and Thurmond of South Carolina.

Tower insists that the NLRB has gone out of its way to show favoritism to labor in all too many cases. "It has done so," he says, "by deliberately subverting the principle of free employe choice, which the law guarantees, and demonstrating an obvious preference for enforced unionism."

* * *

A recent report by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Separation of the Powers tends to subsantiate Senator Tower's criticism. It has urged Congress to consider the "feasibility ofg substantive reform of the National Labor Relations Act."

The NLRB, according to the subcommittee, has consistently "thwarted the intent of Congress" by "applying double standards and ignoring plain legislative mandates." The consequences are that "the board has unreasonably emphasized the establishment and maintenance of collective bargaining and strong unions to the exclusion of other statutory purposes which often involve the rights of individual employes."

The subcommittee report insists that the NLRB's general counsel, who possesses an unreviewable power to issue or refuse to issue complaints of unfair labor practices, has often acted in an arbitrary manner. Individual rights have been frequently subordinated to the interests of the union leaders, even to the point of preventing a free choice of action by a majority of employes.

* * *

Sen. Tower is not anti-union, but he thinks the NLRB has unjustly penalized workers by denying them their rights of free speech under the First Amendment. The Senate subcommittee notes that the NLRB has onesidedly tolerated scurrilous attacks on employers.

"Of all the regulatory agencies," says Tower, arguing for giving the Federal courts the power to deal with unfair practice cases, "the Labor Board has established the worst reputation. It has ignored the intent of Congress. It has become a policy-making body and has not hesitated to rewrite the law to suit its own cases."

These are harsh words; they will surely precipitate one of the harsher Congressional fights when the Tower bill comes up for consideration next month.

Caring For Sick Bird Has Its Good Moments

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Driver, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, pelase. And can you hurry? I've got a sick bird back here."

The New York hackie turns around in his seat, stares at whatever I have wrapped up in the towel and shakes his head.

I lift the towel from the cage and peek at the little creature named Boohkie. He looks terrified. Reassurance, I figure.

"Don't worry, sweetie. Mother is taking you to the very best bird hospital in New York City and everything will be all right. You will have the very best on care. Don't worry."

"Don't worry, sweetie, but please chirp once for the driver's sake."

Chirpless we arrive.

I rush him downstairs to the bird hospital. The bird lady is on the telephone. She cuts off the lady who wants to know how to clip her parrot's toenails.

"That bird needs immediate attention," she decrees.

She grabs the cage, sweeps past me. I start to follow. She stops me.

"But he's my son," I protest.

She smiles. We're instant friends. I still can't come to the inner sanctum of the intensive bird care unit. Finally she comes back from the bowels of Rockefeller Center.

"I have all the knowledge in the world," she intones. "That bird, however, is in the hands of God."

Then this bird lady, a total stranger, takes me in her arms and embraces me. The diagnosis is a ruptured oil sack. Usually fatal.

Next comes the forms. In triplicate.

"Bird damaged. Not responsible for life."

At this point I would sign that I was damaged in triplicate.

Then come the hospital bulletins:

Hypothermia is successful. Blood transfusion accomplished. Still alive and flighting. The bird lady stays up until 4 a.m. one night to stop the bleeding and the office wits tell me there would be a slim chance of that kind of treatment if the bird had been a person.

After three days he's out of critical. He's going to make it.

On the way home in the cage he chirps like crazy.

"Sounds like you got a bird back there," questions the hackie.

"Yeah, a very healthy one," I say.

Nuclear Plant Testing Denied

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission hearing board has temporarily denied Consumers Power Co. a license to test its nuclear plant on Lake Michigan.

And, an attorney for the company estimated after the request for a testing license was denied Thursday that the Palisades plant near South Haven now cannot be operated before Oct. 22.

George F. Trowbridge made the estimate after his request for a license to test at an output of one million watts was denied. The three-man hearing board said it would not agree to a license for the tests at this time.

After denying permission for tests, the hearing board recessed its licensing hearings until July 21. Testing at the Palisades plant originally was to have begun in mid-May.

AMA Reverses Abortion Stand

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association reversed its position on abortion today and approved a resolution saying that abortion should be considered as another medical procedure.

The AMA's official policy on abortion, set in 1967, opposed abortion except for therapeutic reasons.

At the 119th annual AMA convention, its governing body, the House of Delegates, approved a resolution today that says: "Abortion is a medical procedure and should be performed only by a duly licensed physician and surgeon in an accredited hospital acting only in conformance with standards of good medical practice and after consultation with two other physicians chosen because of their professional competence and within the medical practice act of his state."

The resolution said no physician should be compelled to perform an abortion.

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ AKQJ98	N	♠ 7652
♥ AKJ9	W E	♥ 5432
♦ 4	S	♦ AQ9
♣ AK		♣ 94

2. Again you are declarer at Six Spades, but with a slightly different hand. North leads the four of spades and you win South's ten with the jack. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ AKQJ98	N	♠ 7652
♥ AKJ9	W E	♥ 5432
♣ A9		♣ K4

1. Played correctly, you cannot lose the contract regardless of how the North-South cards are divided. Draw another round of trumps, then cash the A-K of clubs and A-K of hearts. If both defenders follow in hearts, the only trick you can lose is a heart, so let's assume the worst—a 4-1 division in hearts without the ten or queen as the singleton.

If North shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading the four of diamonds to dummy's nine. South wins but is forced to yield a ruff and discard or return a diamond to dummy's A-Q. In either case, you discard your heart losers.

If South shows up with Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by leading a diamond to dummy's ace and returning a heart toward your J-9.

2. Despite the similarity to the previous hand, there is a world of difference in the proper approach to the play. (Both hands were composed by the brilliant Israeli expert, Paul Lukacs.)

Again you can guarantee the contract against any distribution, but because the dummy this time lacks the nine of diamonds and contains an extra entry in the form of the king of clubs, you play altogether differently to assure the slam.

Draw two rounds of trumps, cash the ace of hearts (let's assume nothing significant occurs), cash the ace of diamonds, and ruff a diamond. Next cash the A-K of clubs and ruff the queen of diamonds.

Both minor suits having been eliminated, you lead the nine of hearts. If North has Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart to your K-J or yield a ruff and discard.

If South is the player with Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart, allowing you to take the proven finesse, or return a minor suit, which gives you a ruff and discard as well as the contract.

'Book Smart' Woman Has Lot To Learn

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an "A" student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his paycheck regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with "Edge of Night" and "General Hospital" he faked illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with "Sesame Street" and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do?— Agonized Folks

Dear Ag: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Today is my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do.

My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other Woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. — Tears In The Pillow

Dear Tears: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has been checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said, "After you adopt a child you will probably have your own."

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of two adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says, "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony crutch." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm the hypocrite."

What can I do? — Redding, Calif.

Dear Red: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church-affiliated — if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

House Blocking Horse Racing Betting Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House blocked efforts Thursday to revive a controversial bill aimed at raising $42 million for the state and communities agreeing to allow off-track betting on horse races.

The House sent back to its Agriculture and Consumers Affairs Committee a bill sponsored by Sen. Stanley Novak, D-Detroit, to enlarge the State Racing Commission from one man to three.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, author of the bill to license off-track betting parlors, had hoped to graft his plan onto the Novak bill in efforts to force a vote on it in the Senate.

Montgomery's plan, which he said would raise some $18 million for the state alone, passed the House by a 58-47 roll call on a second-time vote May 27. To date, the bill has not been reported out of committee in the Senate.

The House Thursday voted not to accept Montgomery's plan as an amendment to the commission bill, then sent it to committee, in effect killing it for this session.

In other action, the House voted to give the State Budget Bureau authority to develop a special zoning plan for the proposed new State Capitol.

Critics of the zoning plan, passed earlier in the Senate, charged it was so weak that land speculators could not be barred from rushing to throw up high - rise developments that would overshadow any existing or new governmental center.

Duplex Preserves Identity

By ANDY LANG

You can look at the outside of this house for a long time without suspecting that it is a duplex.

Although it has two front doors, it is difficult to guess that each leads to a separate, complete three-bedroom unit. Architect William G. Chirgotis has accomplished this by setting back half the house several feet, with each half having distinctively different facades but with both in a Colonial motif.

The rooms in each apartment are identical in size. Each unit has a habitable area of 735 square feet on the first floor, consisting of the living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory; with the same square footage on the second floor, made up of three bedrooms and two baths.

Garages may be detached or are optional at either or both ends. For a sloping lot, the garage may be entered from the rear and located under the living room. If this is done, the sliding rear door of the living room can be replaced with a window.

When entering either foyer, there is an immediate view of the living room with its all-brick fireplace and sliding door leading to the rear yard or patio, thus creating an excellent first impression. The mullion window in the dining room is visible from the living room through an archway.

Few women could resist the 18-foot-long kitchen - dinette with its full complement of appliances, countertop, broom closet and every meal eating area large enough to accommodate the family, thus preserving the dining room for formal occasions.

A full basement provides plenty of storage space, laundry area and the possibility of creating a recreation room at a later date. The stairway is entered off the kitchen.

On the second floor, the three bedrooms are located around the upstairs hall. The bathrooms have back-to-back plumbing to minimize costs. Care has been taken to provide ample wall space for beds and furniture. Both bathrooms are equipped with vanities and have full-height tile over the shower-tub. The master bathroom is accessible from the dressing area, which includes a built-in mirrored vanity and a walk-in closet.

With its shingles, narrow beveled siding, corner boards, multi-paned windows, moulded cornices, shutters and doors in the tradition of the Colonial period, Design S-50 will fit in with any surrounding where duplex construction is permitted.

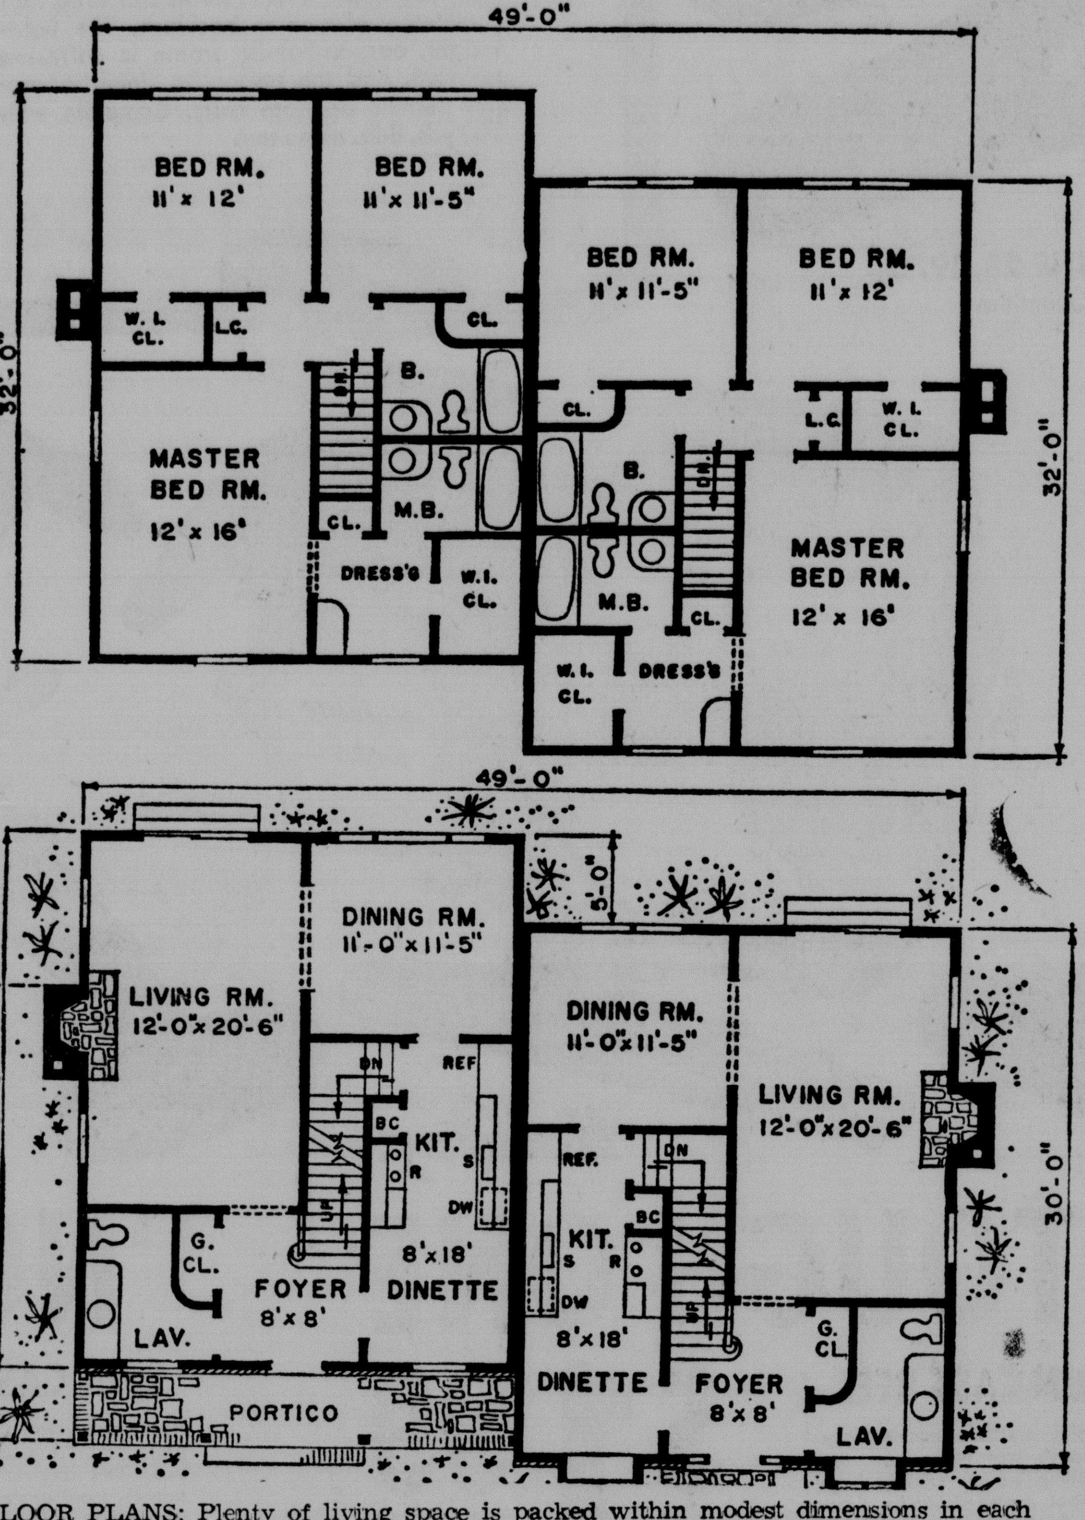
And then of course, there is the economic advantage of this type of house. It permits the owners to live well and to obtain an income — without having a tenant family on the floor above or the floor below.

LARGE WINDOW at rear of dining room looks out on rear yard or patio. Room is accessible to kitchen and living room.

APPEARANCE OF A DUPLEX is camouflaged by dropping back half the house and giving it a covered portico, so that its door seems to be only another entrance in a one-family home.

S-50 STATISTICS

Design S-50 is a duplex. Each unit has a living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, foyer and lavatory on the first floor, totaling 735 square feet. The second floor of each unit has three bedrooms and two bathrooms, also totaling 735 square feet. There is a full basement. The over-all dimensions are 49' by 32'.



FLOOR PLANS: Plenty of living space is packed within modest dimensions in each unit of this duplex arrangement. The kitchen-dinettes are more spacious than similar rooms in houses of this type. Thick center wall acts as sound insulator between units.

Here's The Answer

Q.—I read once that a dent in wood could be removed by applying a wet pad to the area and then placing the hot tip of a soldering iron to the bad. I tried this on a coffee table which had been dented when a heavy object fell on the table top. Not only did it not remove the dent, it ruined the finish. What did I do wrong and what can I do about it now?

A.—We, too, have often seen such advice given. It is correct ONLY if it specifies that this should be done to raw wood, not to wood that has a finish on it. You have no choice now but to take off the finish with a commercial varnish remover and then attempt to work on the dent. But don't expect any magic results. You may have to repeat the process as many as 10 to 20 times before the wood is restored to its original condition. The theory is that the moisture and heat will expand the wood cells and thus eliminate the dent. Several factors, including the kind of wood, enter into the success of the operation, but it usually works. If you do not have a soldering iron, an ordinary household iron can be used.

Q.—Is it necessary to clean all the paint from a brush if latex paint was used?

A.—Yes. Latex paint hardens on the bristles the same as oil paint does. The quicker you remove the latex paint from the brush with water, the easier it will be.

Mrs. Mark Hannemann

Bonnie Swanson Bride Of Mark E. Hannemann

Bonnie Lee Swanson became the bride of Mark E. Hannemann during a ceremony performed at 4 p. m. Saturday, June 20 at Bethany Ev. Lutheran Church in Bruce Crossing.

The Rev. Fred Bergfeld officiated at the double ring nuptials. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Swanson of Bruce Crossing and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hannemann of 1204 12th Ave S., Escanaba.

Satin Gown

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length Empire satin gown fashioned with a lace bodice, long tapered lace sleves and a removable chapel train.

A petal headpiece trimmed with crystals and pearls held her elbow length illusion veil and she carried an arrangement of red roses and white carnations.

Floor Length Sashes

Maid of honor was Isabel Sain of Bruce Crossing and bridesmaids were Paula, Faith and Linda Hannemann, sisters of the bridegroom. They were attired in blue floor length Empire styled frocks designed with white bow at the back and long sashes reaching to the floor.

Bouffant styled headpieces with white bows and netting completed their attire and they carried a single long stemmed American Beauty Rose.

Flower Girls

Cheryl Applekamp of Bruce Crossing and Diane Blixt of Escanaba, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They were attired in floor length white gowns with blue back bows and blue sashes, styled like the bridal aides. They carried lace trimmed baskets filled with rose petals. All gowns including the bride's were sewn by the bride.

Serving as best man was Duane Erstad of Lake City, Minn. and groomsmen were Alan Klessig of Cleveland, Wis., Jack Martin of Oshkosh, Wis. and Bill Magnusen of Ann Arbor. Carrying the rings which were secured on a white satin cross edged in lace was Steven Applekamp of Bruce Crossing, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Hannemann chose an apricot coat and dress ensemble designed with a pearl trimmed collar and platinum accessories. Both mothers were presented corsages of white carnations and roses.

The reception was held in Bruce Crossing immediately following the ceremony. Assisting with duties were Debbie Hannemann of Appleton and Katri Blixt of Escanaba.

Following the service there will be a fellowship dinner served in the parish hall. A slide presentation covering the last 10 years of the congregations, history will be shown in the afternoon. Members and friends of Calvary are invited to participate in this observance.

In June of 1900 the first steps were taken to organize a congregation at Whitefish and two years later a church was constructed and the congregation was named Bethany. This building served the congregation for over 30 years.

In 1938 the name of the congregation was changed to Calvary and the congregation moved to Rapid River and constructed the present brick parsonage was purchased, a parish hall built and the church has been constantly improved and redecorated.

The congregation has grown from the 12 charter members to a confirmed membership of 200 and a baptized membership of over 300. From serving the Whitefish community it has grown to serve Rapid River, Ensign and Ogontz.

From a congregation served by visiting pastors and theological students it has had resident pastors for over 20 years and is now a part of a two point parish, the pastor also serving Trinity Lutheran Church at Stonington. Calvary is a part of the Lutheran Church in America.

The long awaited camping season is in full swing throughout the Upper Peninsula, and this week, for the ninth year in a row, band students from the Escanaba Area Junior High School are taking full advantage of the summer band camp.

A total of 73 seventh ,eighth and ninth grade students, nine counselor students, and eight staff members, have embarked upon the beautiful wilderness of Clear Lake for a week of unforgetable enjoyment.

Included among the various activities of the students are scheduled concert rehearsals. Group, sectional, and private rehearsals are held daily in preparation for a concert to be held at 2 p. m. on Saturday. All students will participate in the concert, including new students who will be attending seventh grade at the Junior High for the first time.

The public is invited to attend the concert which will be held outside at the Clear Lake Camp. Clear Lake is located 4½ miles south of Shingleton on M-94, and five miles east of M-94 in Hiawatha National Forest. Band directors said they would have direction signs posted in the area on Saturday.

Dave Laakso, band director at the Escanaba Junior High is director of the one week camp. He is assisted by James Keranen, band director for the Negaunee High School; Ken Erickson, band director for the Munising High School; John Chown, band director for the Escanaba Area Public Schools; and Conrad Beck, head of the vocal music department for the Escanaba Area Public Schools.

Laakso pointed out that the assistance of the other instructors offers a variation that has proved to be very helpful in the past years.

'Each day at the camp begins with a polar bear swim, for those that can take it, which usually leaves a few shivering bodies around the 8 a. m. breakfast table.

At 9 a. m. the students gather for a full band rehearsal and practice for about an hour and a half, and from 10:30 till noon the instructors hold private and sectional lessons with various individuals while the others are free for recreation.

Following lunch there is a 30-minute rest period for all students, as required by law.

Starting at 1 p. m. for about an hour and a half, there are more sectional and private rehearsals and from 2:30 until 5:30 students are free to swim, under supervision, or spend the time as they wish.

Supper is served promptly at 5:30 and at 6:30 all students gather for an hour of full band rehearsal. Evening recreation is held from 7:30 until 9:15 and is supervised by Conrad Beck. When the planned activities do not last until 9:15 the students gather in the recreation hall and dance to the music of their favorite rock singers.

There are four cabins for boys and five cabins for girls, located at opposite ends of the camp. Each cabin sleeps eight persons and cabin members are responsible for their own housekeeping.

A daily duty roster designates the chores for members of each cabin, such as doing dishes after each meal, cleaning rest rooms, cleaning the recreation hall, etc.

Meals are prepared by Mrs. Linda DuPont and Mrs. Rose Rudden according to a weekly menu made out in advance .

Mrs. Norman Lindquist, registered nurse, is on hand at all times to administer first aid or handle emergency problems that might arise.

There are nine counselor students, two of which are qualified life guards, on duty to supervise all swimming activities, in addition to staff members.

Camp director David Laakso, stated that funds to operate the yearly band campout are not taken from school taxes. Each student absorbs half of the tuition expenses and the rest is taken from the scholarship fund, comprised of money taken in from the student candy sale and donations from people attending school concerts.

State Senate Puts Aside Controversial Measures

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Senate temporarily set aside such controversial issues as pollution control and drug law reform Thursday, moving ahead on numerous other bills in an effort to clear lesser business before a hoped-for adjournment next week.

Before proceeding with its calendar, however, the Senate gave final approval to a bill that would authorize bus drivers, cabbies and truckers to pile up twice as many penalty points as ordinary drivers before disciplinary action would be taken.

The Senate concurred in a minor House amendment to the drivers' bill and sent it to the desk of Gov. William Milliken.

Also settled for the moment was the question of a fish ladder for the Presque Isle River. Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, fought long for the fish ladder—a series of "steps" allowing spawning fish to swim upstream past falls to lay their eggs—and won Senate approval earlier.

The house rejected that proposal, included in a supplementary spending bill, and inserted its own favored project at Craig Lake.

A conference committee tried to compromise on the issues, but the Senate rejected the committee version of the bill, as well as the fish ladder proposal. Some said they did not want the question to tie up all the other projects included in the bill.

The House must now decide whether it will back away from Craig Lake project or throw the bill into a second conference.

Also given final approval in the Senate was a bill extending the state's present open-ended interest rate on home mortgage loans. That measure now goes to Milliken.

Postponed at least for the day Thursday were bills dealing with narcotics and private citizen suits against business and government for pollution.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a House bill limiting the grounds on which an insurance company may cancel an individual's automobile insurance in mid-term.

Under the bill, a company would be allowed to cancel an automobile insurance policy within the first 55 days of issue only if the person covered has had his operator's license suspended during the police period and the revocation or suspension has become final.

State Insurance Commissioner Russell E. Van Hooser said the bill would be "a means of guaranteeing some reasonable period of automobile liability protection."

The program includes the training of unskilled workers.

Chippewa County—a $27,302 vocational-technical education program to be conducted by Lake Superior State College in Sault Ste. Marie. The funds will be used to purchase equipment for training programs in drafting and design, office education, electronics, mechanical technology and practical nursing.

Iron County—a $50,684 vocational education program to be conducted by the West Iron County Public Schools. The funds will be used to purchase equipment that will enable the school district to provide vocational education for high school students and adults in the Iron River, Stambaugh, Crystal Falls and neighboring Wisconsin area.

Gogebic County—a $89,277 vocational-technical education program to be conducted by Gogebic Community College in Ironwood. Funds will be used to purchase instructional equipment for office-business, food services and related technical courses to be offered by the college which serves six Michigan and four Wisconsin school districts.

'Happy Days' Proves Unhappy Video Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Happy Days," CBS's summer replacement for Jim Nabors, had its premiere Thursday night and was an unhappy hour. It may make a little television history by infuriating the older members of the audience while boring the younger ones.

The show opened with Louis Nye, in Busby Berkeley white evening clothes, announcing "I am the 1930s—and welcome to those happy days."

This invitation gave a lot of people a chance to recall how happy they were in those depression days. From there the program tried to satirize and romanticize the period at approximately the same time. It kidded and camped old songs, apparently on the theory that the young viewers would be amused while the old folks would be bathed in nostalgic memories upon hearing "Three Little Fishies."

The catch-all devices may have sounded pretty good when devised but they didn't work out.

It was a very busy show. A couple of fellows kept popping up with marvelous impersonations of Laurel and Hardy although they were not particularly funny. That man who imitates W. C. Fields in the commercials was hired to appear with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy but the dialogue lacked the wit and vinegar of the old radio-show feud. A maladroit escape artist writhed in a bag through much of the hour. Bob and Ray, funny guys on their own time, were mired in a spoof of a forgotten old radio program.

A pair of dancers imitated Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers—scarcely a good subject since the old Astaire and Rogers films are all over television in reruns.

The crowning bad taste was in presenting performers like Helen O'Connell, Ray Eberle and drummer Buddy Rich out of context. Miss O'Connell and Eberle, for instance, stood in front of a band and sang some of their prewar hits, including "Tangerine." They played it straight, then the show cut away to some sniggering material suggesting it was all elderly square stuff.

It was big on color—fellows in dinner jackets and small, neat bow ties, big radio microphones and even saxophone solos from the band. Louis Nye, who didn't have much to do and seemed uncomfortable doing it, acted as host-announcer.

Even by hot weather standards, the program was something less than TV's finest hour.

Meanwhile, this viewer will turn the television monitoring over to Jerry Buck during a four-week vacation, then resume from Hollywood.

Alomar Closing In On DiMaggio's Hitting Record?

By The Associated Press

A Joe DiMaggio he is not, but slamming Sandy Alomar is closing in on the longest hitting streak in nine American League seasons.

"I'd like to hit in 57 straight games, but the main thing is winning," the peppery little second baseman of the California Angels said Thursday night after stroking two hits and running his string to 20 straight games as the Angels whipped Chicago 7-3.

Nears 1961 Record

Alomar was referring to the former New York Yankee great's 56-game hitting streak of 1941 which hasn't been threatened since. However, he is only four games away from the 24 straight that Lennie Green of the Minnesota Twins hit in 1961. The 5-foot-9, 155-pounder equaled the 1969 best of 20 by Ted Uhlaender.

In other AL games, the Yankees stopped Cleveland 3-1, Baltimore bombed Boston 13-8 in 14 innings, Detroit nipped Washington 2-1, and Milwaukee dropped Minnesota 4-1.

Left-hander Clyde Wright picked up his 10th victory of the season for the Angels and drove in four runs with a pair of singles and a double. He was lifted in the eighth after surrendering a two-run homer to Bill Melton. Tom McCraw also homered for the Sox.

Kissing Gal Returns

To complete the evening, a pretty young miss dashed from the stands in the third inning and planted a kiss on the cheek of Angels' outfielder Billy Cowan while he was at bat.

It apparently was the same young female who last year kissed Atlanta's Clete Boyer and Washington's Frank Howard.

It apparently unsettled John, who immediately uncorked a wild pitch but Cowan wasn't rattled, drilling a triple after the incident.

Roy White drove in all three New York runs with a triple and double, helping Fritz Peterson pick up his 10th victory.

White, hitting a robust .347 and tied for second in the league with Baltimore's Boog Powell with 52 runs batted in, punched an opposite field triple to left in the first inning, knocking in the first Yankee run and looped a two-run double to right, driving in a pair in the third.

Peterson was tagged for nine hits and one run in five innings, but shut off the Indians without a hit after that.

Murcer Stopped

Bobby Murcer, the Yanks center fielder who had rapped four homers in as many official at bats Wednesday tying a major league record, walked in the first but was stopped in the third when he popped to second.

Baltimore came from seven runs down and then scored six times in the 14th inning to down the Red Sox. The Orioles tied it in the ninth at 7-7 then unloaded in the 14th on run-scoring hits by Don Buford, Frank Robinson and two-run doubles by Powell and Merv Rettenmund.

Billy Conigliaro and Jerry Moses homered for the Red Sox while Frank Robinson, Rettenmund and Dave Johnson rapped blasts for the Orioles.

Polio Victim Leads Cleveland Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Hinson, a highly personable young man who overcame the handicap of a polio-withered left arm to become one of the most of the consistent money-winners on the pro golf tour, almost made a boo-boo after taking the first-round lead in the $150,000 Cleveland Open with a five-under-par 65.

"I haven't won yet this year," the 25-year-old boyish blond said Thursday, "but I'm playing good enough to win. When I do, I hope it's Dow Jones."

He surveyed the somewhat surprised faces of the Cleveland reporters than hastily added, "Of course, I'd like to win here, too."

Dow Jones late this summer is the richest stop on the pro tour, a $300,000 event with a $60,000 prize to the winner.

Hinson ran in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to break out of a logjam of players and take sole control of the lead over a group of five others who matched 66s.

They included Lee Trevino, who said he had to win $2,000 this week to break even; Dave Hill, playing the 6,661-yard par-7' Aurora Country Club course for the first time; rookie Bill Brask; Grier Jones, and Tommy Aaron.

Bob Menne, Dick Carmody and Billy Maxwell shot 67s while those in the 68 group included Bert Greene, Tom Weiskopf, Bob Charles, Bob Murphy, Frank Beard and Mason Rudolph. Defending champion Charles Coody had a 72, well back.

Among the missing are recently crowned U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gary Player, all preparing for the British Open.

It was their absence that prompted Tournament Director Paul Warren to press Trevino to enter the event he had planned to skip.

"I asked my wife if I could play at Cleveland," Trevino said. "'No way.' she said. Then she said we'd make a deal with me. She'd let me play in Cleveland if I'd take her to the British Open. So I've got to win $2,000 this week just to break even."

Hill had a remarkable round including eight birdies, two bogeys and a double bogey. He played the back side first and made the turn in 29, matching the best nine-hole score on the tour this year.

"It's some kind of tight out there," he said. "It's a tough little course. It rewards a good shot, but if you hit it crooked you could be out there until next year's tournament."

Hill, fined and reprimanded for his criticism of the Hazeltine course in last week's U.S. Open, attracted a large part of the gallery.

He was comparatively subdued.

"Didn't see any cows or corn," he said, "but there were a lot of chipmunks."

He was criticized last week for commenting that Hazeltine needed "eighty acres of corn and four cows."

Athletic Commission To Decide Clay-Frazier Bout

SEATTLE (AP) — The Washington State Athletic Commission decides Friday if Cassius Clay will meet Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world in Seattle.

The commission will rule whether Clay gets a license to meet Frazier in a fight probably staged in Seattle in September.

The meeting will be held in Tacoma, Wash.

A group of businessmen from Tacoma are hopeful of staging such a match and are optimistic about Clay getting approval from the commission.

Detroit Ready

If the Seattle bout falls through, a Detroit group is ready to stage the match.

Commission member James Rondeau said he favors licensing Clay, Commission Chairman Harry Lynch said he opposes the licenses and commissioner W. R. "Red" Reese said he could go either way.

The 28-year-old Clay was stripped of his title in 1967 when he refused induction in the military. In the three years following his conviction on charges of violating the Selective Services Act, Clay has been refused licenses to fight. He shunned induction as a conscientious objector. He is a Black Muslim minister and calls himself Muhammad Ali.

Objector Status

The recent moves to get Clay a license follow a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court redefining conscientious objector status.

Clay's New York attorney, Robert Arum, wired a Tacoma attorney earlier this week authorizing him to file Clay's boxing application. Arum said other states had indicated a willingness to grant Clay a license and said "unless we have a speedy determination no later than Friday from Washington State, we may accept fight elsewhere."

Chisox Shortstop Tops AL Balloting

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Aparicio, veteran shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, moved into the lead over Boston's Rico Petrocelli in the weekly fan balloting for the American League All-Star team announced today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Aparicio led Petrocelli by only 485 votes, 220,298 to 219,813 among the 902,393 votes counted so far in the balloting that ends next week.

Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota slugger, widened his lead over Brooks Robinson of Baltimore to nearly 30,000 votes in the third base battle, the only other close contest.

The leader in total votes is Bill Freehan, Detroit catcher, with 454,690 with Boog Powell, Baltimore first baseman, close behind with 452,937.

Although Rod Carew, Minnesota second baseman, underwent surgery early in the week and will not be able to play, he still maintained a comfortable lead with 421,864. The next man is Dick McAuliffe of Detroit with 90,045.

The leaders remain unchanged in the outfield competition with Frank Robinson of Baltimore, 372,449; Frank Howard of Washington 326,484 and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, 305,562. The only other outfielder over the 100,000 mark is Tony Oliva of Minnesota with 203,015.

The National League leaders in balloting for the teams to meet July 14 at Cincinnati include Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, catcher; Richie Allen, St. Louis, first base; Glenn Beckert, Chicago, second base; Tony Perez, Cincinnati, third base; Don Kessinger, Chicago, shortstop, and Rico Carty and Hank Aaron, Atlanta, and Willie Mays, San Francisco, outfielders.

Class A Tourney

The Escanaba Merchants will play Woody's Bar in the first round of the Crystal Falls Class A Invitational Softball Tournament at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at the Crystal Falls softball field. The team will meet at Little Mikes and depart at 5 p. m.

Williams Upset

Brown Gets Key Hit In Tigers 2-1 Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)— Gates Brown says he knew he would be thrown a curve. He got a fast ball, and Ted Williams didn't like it.

"Had to get a curve ball," said Brown after his pinch hit two-out single broke a tie and gave Detroit a 2-1 victory over Washington Thursday night. "In a similar situation last year, I got a fast ball and I hit a triple.

Brown Surprised

"I heard Williams yell out of the dugout, 'Doesn't anybody in this league throw anything but fast balls.' So I figured he would remember that incident and see to it that I got curve balls."

Williams, now in his second year as manager of the Senators, said he remembered the game last year in which Brown got the pinch triple. He said former Washington pitcher Dennis Higgins threw a fast ball on just about every pitch.

"Mickey Stanley strated it and then Brown gets the triple," said Williams. "So after yelling about the fast balls, I went out to talk to him. I told him to throw some curves. He did and we stopped the rally.

"But did you see that curve ball Brown was thrown tonight. It was up in here and right over the plate," he said, waving his hand over his midsection.

Tigers Score

The Tigers, winners of four out of their last five and 14 of 20, scored a run in the second on Willie Horton's single, Jim Northrup's double and Elliott Maddox's infield out.

The Senators tied it up in the third when pitcher Dick Bosman scored on Frank Howard's sacrifice fly.

Northrup led off the seventh with a single off Bosman but was out stealing when a hit and run misfired. Bill Freehan and Maddox followed with singles but pinch hitter Norm Cash forced Maddox on a hard hit ground ball on which the Senators missed a double play.

Cain Wins

Brown batted for winning pitcher Les Cain and laced a single to right to score Freehan.

"I was just lucky," said Brown. "I've been feeling a lot better lately. I'm seeing the ball better.

"I also changed the way I hold the bat. I was cradling the bat but now I hold it straight up. I can get more whip that way."

After going zero for 12 in his pinch hit role, Brown has now picked up five hits in his last 10 at bats.

"Just trying to make contact," he said. "Just trying to keep from striking out."

Tom Timmerman, the fireman of the week pulled a save for Cain, who has a 5-2 record. Timmerman posted his seventh save of eight relief appearances since rejoining the Bengals from Toledo.

Felch LL Upends Hermansville 2-1

FELCH—Manager Reno Fochesato's Hermansville Little Leaguers turned in an impressive performance at Felch Wednesday evening but were nipped 2-1 in a pitcher's battle between Tim Fabry and Sundholm, Felch twirler.

Hermansville and Felch both trying to stay in contention in the Iron Mountain Little League turned in impression performances. Hermansville had three hits, Steve Maule had a single and Tim Fabry had two hits including a double.

Felch had four hits off Hermansville hurler Fabry including singles to Burrow, Sundholm, Oman and Sundholm helped his own cause with a double also.

Fabry struck out 14 Felch batsmen and Sundholm had 12 strikeouts to his credit.

Hermansville scored its only run in the sixth inning but Felch had runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

'Lippy' Prefers June Swoon To September Sag

By The Associated Press

It's better, says manager Leo Durocher, for his Chicago Cubs to do a June swoon than a September sag, which last year cost them the National League East pennant.

"If we have to run into a slump, I'd rather do it now than later on," said a surprisingly composed Durocher after the World Champion New York Mets wrapped up a five-game sweep, with an 8-3 triumph Thursday and took a 1½-game lead over the reeling Cubs.

7 Game Slump

It's quite a slump, longest of the season at seven games, including last Sunday's double loss to St. Louis, and a collapse out of the league lead the Bruins held for 83 days.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat St. Louis 3-2 and Philadelphia edged Montreal 3-2 in 11 innings. The Los Angeles-Atlanta game was rained out.

You might say the Mets stole first place from the daxed Cubs, swiping 10 bases in the five-game set, which was a financial if completely nonartistic success with 116,071 packing Wrigley Field in four days.

But Leo conceded the resurgence of the Mets, who did virtually the same thing to the Cubs last September, was due to more than basepath fleetness, which already has produced a club record of 74 thefts.

"Everytime they swung the bat against us this week they got a hit," said Durocher, whose Cubs ended a disastrous home stand.

It was Jim Hichman who accounted for all three Cub runs as Jerry Koosman rode a six-run second inning to his third vicvictory in seven decision. Hickman slammed a two-run homer in the sixth after punching a run-scoring single in the fourth.

2 Double Steals

In the big Met second, six hits, three errors and a double steal, anchored Ken Holtzman with his fifth loss against eight wins. The Mets pulled another double steal in the seventh, with Joe Foy swiping home.

Steve Carlton of the Cards was breezing toward his second straight shutout and had a 2-0 lead when the Pirates erupted in the ninth. Bob Robertson's triple, Al Oliver's double and a triple by Dave Cash tied the score. After an intentional walk to Jerry May, Richie Hebner hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run.

The Phillies also got their winning run on a sacrifice fly. Byron Brown drove in Don Money, who singled, was sacrificed to second and reached third on a wild pitch.

Browne also hit a two-run homer in the second and made a leaping catch of Rusty Staub's drive in the sixth and turned it into a double play. Staub homered for the Expos in the first, his ninth.

River Post Wins; Regains 1st Place In Slow Pitch

River Post 9, Lombardi's 8

River Post (6-2) moved back into the top spot by a few percentage points over Heynssen-Selins (7-3) Thursday night in the Escanaba Slow Pitch League with a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over Lombardi's.

River Post, trailing 8-2 going into the sixth inning, scored four times in the sixth and three more times in the last inning to post its sixth victory of the season.

Jim Sargent and Myron Jackson had the key hits in the last inning, as Sargent homered to tie the game and Jackson, with two out, lined a single to center to score the winning run.

John Ettenhofer paced Lombardi's with a homer, while Phil Hiney of River Post snared the mound victory from Joe Hiller.

Mud Hens Win

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) —The Toledo Mud Hens were out-hit but not out-scored in Thursday night baseball as they edged the International League leading Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 at Toledo.

Gary Taylor gave up six hits but held the Chiefs scoreless through eight innings, then gave up two singles in the ninth and yielded the mound to Norm McRae.

McRae struck out Tony Solaita, gave up a two-run single to Len Boehmer, struck out Frank Baker and enticed Bobby Cox to bounce into a game-ending force out.

The Mud hens were out - hit by the Chiefs 9-6.

Diane Marie Martin Wed To Kenneth Scott

Diane Marie Martin became the bride of Kenneth Michael Scott of Rochester during a ceremony performed at 12 a.m. Saturday, June 20, at St. Francis de Sales Church.

Fr. Arnold Grambow officiated at the double ring nuptials. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin of 514 N. Mackinac and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Scott of Rochester.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of organdy sheer over taffeta which featured long puffed sleeves and a full cathedral train attached to the empire waist.

A velvet bow with seed pearls secured the fingertip veil and she carried an arrangement of lily of the valley, gladiolas and ivy.

Maid of honor was Irene Fugere of Sheboygen, Wis., a friend of the bride. Pamela Beach of Rochester was bridesmaid.

They were attired in floor length empire styled gowns of blue organdy sheer over taffeta. Matching bow headpieces completed their attire and they carried bouquets of yellow and blue daisies.

Lisa Ann Duff, the groom's niece was flower girl and was attired in a light yellow gown styled like the bridesmaids.' Charles and Brian Duff, nephews of the groom, served as altar boys.

Serving as best man was Gerald Martin, cousin of the bride. Dennis Scott, brother of the groom, served as groomsmen. Peforming the duties of ushers were Rick Martin and Don Brandt.

Mrs. Martin was attired in a pastel blue dress with navy accessories and Mrs. Scott wore a light gold dress and coat ensemble. Both mothers were presented pink rose corsages.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony at the Richard Martin residence. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents, at the Fireside.

Levis-Wearing Doctor Fools Most People

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Edward C. Pierce wears Levis and t-shirts to work, but the stethoscope hanging around his neck gives him away for what he really is: a medical doctor.

He used to have a modern office with piped-in music, where he centered a growing $30,000-a-year practice. Now he works in a cramped, one-story brick house, where he charges according to a sliding fee scale that dips as low as $2 for an office visit.

The 40-year-old M.D. gave up his promising eight-year-old practive two years ago to provide preventative medical care for people who could not afford it.

"Poor people," Dr. Pierce explained, "practice something called crisis medicine — which means you get sick as a dog before you see a doctor."

Dr. Jerry S. Walden joined Pierce a year ago, and together they handle up to 90 patients a day between the hours of 8 a.m. and roughly 9:30 p.m., with the two working separate shifts and alternating between their Summit Street Medical Center and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Their following: expectant, middle-aged mothers who are already receiving Aid to Dependent Children, funds, frightened and unwed teen-aged girls who find themselves pregnant, 4-month-old children who need simple checkups, and frail grandmothers suffering from stomach cancer.

"Basically, I have a low-income family practice," Dr. Pierce says, "but I'm the only doctor around here who will take the street kids too, and they're mostly white." He estimates his over-all practice at 80 per cent black and 20 per cent white.

But there is a radical tinge to his clientele as well. Members of Trans-Love Energies, now known as the White Panthers, come to him with medical problems, charging their expenses to a commune account that is settled at each month's end by the commune treasurer, Dr. Pierce said. Two Members of the violence-prone Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society, Bill Ayers and Diana Oughton, also sought Dr. Pierce's help during the three years they ran a community school in Ann Arbor. Miss Oughton was killed by a home-made bomb last March.

This fall, the center moves a half a block to a 13-room Victorian mansion. The doctors hope to get money from a model cities program to add a dentist and a social worker to their staff, and to defray some of the operating expenses.

New patients, meanwhile, keep filing in.

Ruling Listed On Cable TV Ownership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has prohibited ownership of cable TV systems by television broadcasters in the same community, the commission has announced.

The FCC banned all new cable acquisitions by TV interests in a single community and gave the broadcasters three years to get rid of cable television systems they now own in such communities.

The FCC issued simultaneously half a dozen actions affecting cable TV, including affirmation of its rules governing the origination of programs by cable TV systems.

In cable TV systems, a master antenna takes TV signals from the air and sends the programs by cable to subscribers' sets for a fee.

The commission adopted new rules prohibiting CATV—community antenna television—systems for "siphoning" programs from free TV for pay-TV showing on cable. Siphoning simply means inducing programs shown on one type of TV to move over to another, presumably for more money.

The rule prohibits cable showing of films more than two years old and sports events may not be cable cast if they have been carried live on free TV in the same community during the previous two years.

Cable TV was banned from carrying series-type programs and was limited to no more than 90 per cent programming of sports and films.

The new rules prohibit commercials on cable TV but only on its pay-TV operations, and not its ordinary cable-casting operations.

The commission revised its program origination rule to require cable systems to leave "a substantial portion of time" for local programming.

U. S. A. Heggblom is the immediate past president of the international order and is now chairman of the international board.

Resolutions passed at the Munising meeting will be brought to the international convention by the delegates elected at a meeting of the central district last year in Chicago.

Courts Hold Key To Savings Time, Parochiaid Vote

sue on the ballot if the elections division failed to certify the petitions. Such an appeal appeared likely, in view of Kelley's opinion, which is binding on on state departments unless overturned in court.

Up To Board

Final say on both issues within the Elections Division is up to the Board of State Canvassers. The board will meet next Wednesday.

Terry Herndon, executive secretary of the MEA, said the filing of the petitions "will frame the issue for a court response to the questions raised by Mr. Kelley.

"We believe the court will decide the people must have the opportunity to speak," Herndon said.

If the Kelley opinion results in the petitions being rejected, Herndon said, the group will ask the Court of Appeals to direct that the constitutional amendment seeking a ban on the use of public funds for nonpublic schools be placed on the ballot.

Decision Cheered

The anti-aid foes were cheered by the appeals court decision favoring Daylight Saving Time.

Kelley had said the form of the anti-aid petition made it "impossible" for a petition signer "to know with any degree of certainly exactly what amendment was proposed. . . ."

Rev. David Evans, a Methodist minister and executive secretary for the Council Against Parochiaid, termed the drive "one of the largest petition campaigns ever conducted in the state's history and certainly the largest in the field of education."

Some 264,000 valid signatures are needed to place this issue on the ballot.

Petition Filed

The anti-aid forces wheeled in 18 cartons which they said contained nearly 320,000 petition signatures and represented some 75,000 more than was required.

As in the Daylight Saving Time issue, the threat of further court action also looms in the parochiaid fight. Pro - aid forces are thought likely to take the case to the State Supreme Court if the Appeals Court rules for those seeking a ballot spot for the anti-parochiaid proposal.

The Daylight Saving Time backers needed 196,953 valid signatures to put the issue on the ballot. They have filed some 207,000 signatures with the elections division.

This is not a great margin if close scrutiny uncovers many errors.

O'Hara Dissents

Judge Charles Levin concurred with Lesinki in his decision approving the fast-time issue. Judge Michael O'Hara dissented.

O'Hara said in his dissent: "Plaintiffs presumptively knew the law when they began their signatures drive; namely, that a statute valid on its face required filing with the secretary of state 10 days before the present legislative session began.

"That they chose to wait until year to offer the petitions and thus miss one general election does not move me to hold the statute unconstitutional."

U.P. Power Co. Rate Hike OK'd

A $1,122,020 annual rate increase for the Upper Peninsula Power Co. of Houghton was approved Thursday by the Public Services Commission of the Michigan Department of Congress.

The rate increase will be spread among 35,000 customers in 11 Upper Peninsula counties, including services in Marquette and the Houghton-Hancock area.

Escanaba City Manager George Harvey and Gary Barton, division manager of Upper Peninsula Power Co., both said the state's approval of the rate increase will not effect the electric rate structure in Escanaba in any way.

Barton added that the customers of U. P. Power Co. in the area surrounding Escanaba would be effected, but he could not determine the actual increase in rates.

Escanaba and U. P. Power Co. have a contract in which the city-owned electric generating plant is operated by the power company and the city is supplied with power wholesale to meet its need. The city owns its electric distribution system and sells to customers in the city at rates established by the City Council.

This is the first general rate increase for the U. P. Power Co. since 1953. The utility must have all rate schedules approved by the Public Services Commission before they can be put into effect.

In its application, U. P. Power Co. asked for a $1.5 million annual rate increase, which it said would give it a 7.5 per cent rate of return. The commission allowed a 7.3 overall rate of return.

Willis F. Ward, chairman of the Public Services Commission, said the commission used the year ending Aug. 31, 1969, as the test period to decide Upper Peninsula Power's request for an increase in rates.

The only adjustment made in the test period involved the utility's fuel costs, Ward said. Upper Peninsula Power's two major suppliers of coal increased their prices early this year.

Upper Peninsula Power provides electric service in an area nearly 4,500 square miles in size. It includes all or parts of Alger, Baraga, Delta, Houghton, Iron, Keweenaw, Mackinac, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft counties.

Eye Culture Center For Indians At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A general meeting of the Bay Mills Tribal Council is slated for the near future by Indians who want to devise plans to acquire peacefully the Iroquois Point lighthouse and land surrounding.

Some 200 Chippewas converged on the century-old lighthouse Wednesday, but said after leaving they hoped to return to claim the land.

A. B. LeBlanc, tribal chairman, said a tribal council would be held in the near future to plan means of acquiring the lighthouse and the 62 acres of forest at it in the Big-Sea-Water recreation area of the Hiawatha National Forest. The Indians claimed the government failed to pay for the land acquired by treaties in 1836 and 1868.

Also, the Indians said they plan to reclaim 48.8 acres of Bay Mills Point, on which are located many fashionable homes. LeBlanc contends the tribe leased the area to the Munson and Hall Lumber Co. in 1868 on a 99-year lease that expired in 1967.

Indian families will move onto the property in a few weeks, he said.

"We welcome an opportunity to do anything to help improve the living conditions of our Indian neighbors and to enhance their efforts to preserve their culture," Alfred Troutt, Escanaba, forest supervisor for the U.S. Forest Service, said in response to announced plans of a group of Indian young people to re-claim Iroquois Point and an abandoned lighthouse located there.

Troutt went to the scene to talk with leaders of the group to see what his office might do to legitimately help them with their plans.

In Forest Area

The Iroquois light and point which the Indian group said they planned to take over has been in U.S. Forest Service custody since 1967 and parts of it have been open to visitors during the summer season. The light itself is at the eastern extremity of the Forest Service's Big-Sea-Water Recreation Area which extends for some 28 miles along the shores of Whitefish Bay and is now in the process of development.

In a recent letter to Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert of Michigan's 37th District, Troutt wrote:

"I am very happy to see that legislation has been passed (SB 1335) that will help preserve the customs, traditions, and art craft of Michigan Indians. The Indian Culture Center managed and operated by and for the Indians is certainly a step in the right direction.

Culture Center

"We have been contemplating such a center in connection with our Big-Sea-Water Recreation Area development along Lake Superior in Chippewa County. This 64,000 acre proposal is adjacent to the Bay Mills Indian Community and includes an area that archeologists say has been continually inhabited by the American Indian since the time of Christ. This area is also the traditional home of the legendary Hiawatha.

"Point Iroquois, within Big-Sea-Water, has been the scene and source of many pages of Indian history. A large unoccupied light house on the site, owned by the U.S. Government, could be made available for a Center for Indian Culture. This use would meet a definite need in the area and be compatible with other plans.

Bullet Wounds Escanaba Man In Right Foot

Lawrence Anderson, 26, of 113 S. 5th St., is receiving treatment in St. Francis Hospital today for a bullet wound in his right foot, suffered in an accident west of Watson in Wells Township, Marquette County, about 9 p. m. Thursday.

State Police said the accident occurred while Anderson was shooting target with a 44 caliber revolver. In lowering the weapon Anderson accidentally released the safety and the revolver discharged, wounding him in the foot.
